STATE TO REVIVE INTEREST SUITS AGAINST SMALL

Plan to Act Against Sterling, Too.

BY PARKE BROWN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., July 31.—[Special.]—Revival of efforts by the state to compel the surrender of nearly a million dollars in interest alleged to have been misappropriated while Len Small and Fred E. Sterling held the office of state treasurer was described here today as an almost immediate certainty.

Attorney General Kerner, who returned here this noon after several days' absence, was noncommittal when asked about the report. He said that several weeks ago he asked Attorney Charles W. Hadley, who had charge of this matter under two predecessors, Edward J. Brundage and Oscar E. Carlstrom, to make a recommendation as to such action and that he had not received a report.

Hadley Won't Be Quoted.

Mr. Hadley, over the telephone from his office in Wheaton, was equally reticent.

"I have been going into the subject for several weeks," he said, "but of course cannot discuss it until I have made my report to the attorney general. I shall make that soon."

The statement that there will be action within a short time, probably in the form of civil suits in the Sangamon county Circuit court here, came from quarters considered authoritative. In support of it there are in the record Attorney General Kerner's campaign and post-election pledges to reopen the old interest battle and his open court protest against Carlstrom's dismissal of the remaining suits last November.

Did Not Concur in Dismissal.

It also is known that Mr. Hadley did not concur in the action of Carlstrom when, in 1927, the latter wound up the earlier suit against Small which sought to recover about $1,300,000 from him alone—settled it by accepting $650,000 as payment in full.

Mr. Hadley has never discussed that settlement publicly, but it is known that if he had been consulted he would have advised that a much larger sum be insisted upon or the suit be prosecuted to a conclusion.

The suit against Sterling was one of those that Carlstrom—just before retirement from office—struck from the docket of the Circuit court here after they had been dormant ever since the opening of the interest fight by Brundage twelve years ago. The former lieutenant governor has never had to meet court proceedings to force an accounting for his term as treasurer—1918 and 1919.

Hadley Hesitates to Act.

When Attorney General Kerner several weeks ago let it be known that he intended to ask Hadley, a Republican, to serve as a special assistant because of his knowledge of these cases, there was considerable doubt whether Hadley would accept.

Hadley, however, is said to have concluded that although the proceedings be directed against Republicans they were begun and carried on by Republicans, and that justice did not change color merely because the political complexion of the state law department changed.

He is said also to have felt that when years ago he took up the task of collecting the alleged missing interest he assumed a duty he must continue to fulfill if requested to do so. He is thoroughly familiar with the details of both the Small and Sterling cases, as was demonstrated by his supreme court victory holding Small to account and it is conceded there is no other man in the state similarly equipped for the work.

Served Successive Terms.

The affairs of Small and Sterling became interlocked when they served successive terms in the treasurer's office. Sterling succeeded Small there and retained Small with the title of "examiner of securities" with, it was charged, full powers to run the treasurer's office.

Small turned in as the sum total of interest received in his two year term approximately $450,000. For the two years following Sterling turned in $996,121. But the state's contention has been that in interest on the famous packers' notes alone the state was entitled to hundreds of thousands more, a claim that never has been pressed up to this time, as against Sterling.

It is not expected that Attorney General Kerner will attempt to revive the suits against two other former treasurers who antedated both Sterling and Small—Andrew Russel of Jacksonville and William Ryan of Danville. All of the records concerning their terms have "disappeared."

OPEN COURT WAR ON GUNMEN; 3 GET THE LIMIT

2 Other Criminals Sent to Prison.

Three gunmen, charged with robbery, were sentenced to prison yesterday for terms of one year to life, the maximum, as authorities officially opened their newly aroused war on crime. Two other men, accused of lesser offenses, were ordered to prison for terms of one to ten years.

In sentencing the robbers, Judge Joseph B. David, sitting as an emergency volunteer in the Criminal court, issued a warning that gunmen would not receive any sympathy from him. Law enforcing officers hailed his attitude as an inspiration to their "no quarter" drive on criminals. The war was inspired by the killing of a policeman in Judge Charles Molthrop's court last week—the ninth policeman slain since Jan. 1.

Six Judges Busy Tomorrow.

Actually, the war on crime was not to begin until tomorrow, with six judges giving up part of their summer vacations to sit as volunteers in the Criminal court to speed up murder, robbery, and other major crime trials. However, three of the judges, eager to get the battle started, reported for duty yesterday and to Judge David went the honor of firing the opening gun.

As he mounted the bench, Judge David turned to prosecutors, defense lawyers and spectators and issued his warning—"no sympathy for gunmen in my courts." Agreeing with the policy set down during the day by Chief Justice John Prystalski that automobile thieves were to be dealt with severely, Judge David warned that auto thieves would receive maximum sentences of one to twenty years in prison. Auto thieves, he added, should be kept in prison for long terms.

Quickly Convicted and Sentenced

Then the first cases were called, the defendants being Stanley Racinawski, 23 years old; John Brozek, 20; and Felix Keren, 18, all charged with robbery with guns. They were quickly found guilty on three charges each. Judge David lost no time in giving them the maximum penalties—one year to life. A plea for leniency was made for Keren because he is only 18.

"He is old enough to know better," Judge David ruled, in refusing to be swayed by that plea.

Next up before the judge was Franklin Townsend, 21 years old, charged with receiving a stolen automobile. He got one to ten years and was told he was lucky because police could not prove he had stolen the car. The sentence then would have been one to twenty years, the judge said.

Lenient to Toy Pistol Robber.

Anton Barzda, 24 years old, came up a few minutes later, charged with holding up a De Met candy shop at 69 East Monroe street with the aid of a toy pistol. Assistant State's Attorney Charles Mueller, one of the aces of State's Attorney Courtney's staff, asked for the maximum punishment of one year to life for Barzda, holding that to all intents and purposes the toy pistol was the same as a real gun. Judge David held otherwise, however, and sentenced Barzda to one to ten years.

Other judges who reported on the firing line yesterday were the chief justice, Judge Benjamin P. Epstein, and Judge Joseph Sabath. There was no work for Judge Epstein to do and Judge Sabath, to clear up some old work, made arrangements to start activities tomorrow.

Three More Report Tomorrow.

Judges Daniel P. Trude and Ross C. Hall will report at the same time, as will Judge Marcus A. Kavanagh, who wired from out of town that he would cut short his vacation to aid in the war. Judge James J. Kelly sent word he would like to volunteer, but cannot because he is under observation at the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn.

In outlining the war on crime Chief Justice Prystalski announced that the field would be enlarged. Originally, when he called for volunteer judges to sit in the Criminal courts, it was planned to try only murder and gun robbery cases. Now automobile theft and burglary cases will be included, to follow the murder and robbery cases. Automobile thievery and burglary are the first steps to robbery and murder, he explained, and should be treated expeditiously.

Prosecutors to Fight Delays.

Meantime First Assistant State's Attorney Grove C. Niemeyer was issuing instructions to assistant prosecutors, who were recalled from their vacations. They should, he said, consent to no continuances for gunmen and should particularly push the police killer cases.

Assistant State's Attorney John

DOG DAYS ARE HERE

KIDNAPERS FREE OIL MILLIONAIRE; IN GOOD HEALTH

Oklahoma City, Okla., Aug. 1 [Tuesday].—(AP)—Charles F. Urschel, kidnaped oil millionaire, has been returned, it was announced at the Urschel home early today.

The announcement, coupled with the statement that Urschel was at home and in good health despite his nine days of captivity, was made by Arthur A. Seeligson, brother-in-law of Mrs. Urschel and co-trustee of the 23 million dollar estate of her first husband, Tom B. Slick, late "king of oil wildcatters."

Seeligson declined to say if any ransom was paid, nor would he make any other statement "before morning."

Urschel was snatched from a quiet game with his wife and their friends, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Jarrett, in the sun parlor of the palatial Urschel home in an exclusive residential district about 11:30 p. m. Saturday, July 22.

Two men, described as "swarthy foreigners," armed with machine guns, burst into the room through a screen door, the only one unlocked in the house, and the leader tersely directed: "Keep quiet or we'll blow your heads off. Which is Urschel?"

No one moved or spoke.

"Well, we'll take both of you. Come along," he motioned the two men with his machine gun.

SQUALL SAVES BLUENOSE FROM TOW TO PORT

The Bluenose from Canada, known as the world's fastest fishing schooner, lay becalmed nine miles off Van Buren street with one hundred men and women passengers aboard last night. There were lightning flashes and other indications of approaching storm, but the schooner's sails hung limp.

Then speeding through the still waters came the Wewintoo, flagship of A Century of Progress lagoon fleet. "Ahoy," called Capt. Angus Walters of the Bluenose.

"Want a tow?" asked Commander Comer Winters aboard the Wewintoo.

"We could use one," replied Capt. Walters. He threw a line to the 200 horse power motor cruiser. Capt. Don Tiffany started his craft. The line tightened, and the 175-foot sailing vessel began to follow the 48-foot cruiser.

Just then the storm struck. A blast of wind hit the lower sails of the Bluenose. "Throw off the line," shouted Capt. Walters. "Let go quick, or we'll run you down."

As the squall struck with pelting rain both craft made full speed for the harbor.

Britain Seizes Gandhi as New Revolt Flares

AHMEDABAD, India, Aug. 1 [Tuesday].—(AP)—Civil authorities, forestalling the intention of Mahatma Gandhi to lead a march of followers inaugurating a new disobedience movement against British rule, early today arrested the aged Indian leader, his wife, his secretary and 32 followers from his ashram, or college of devotees, at Sabarmati.

The arrests were made at 1:40 a. m. under the emergency power act at the bungalow of the mahatma's host, Seth Ranchooddass, a wealthy mill owner.

Announcement that Gandhi planned a new disobedience campaign in which individual acts would replace the mass campaign heretofore practiced was made yesterday.

Were to Start on March.

According to the plan, Gandhi was to disband the ashram and with the 32 members of the college, his wife, his secretary, and 15 women, start a parade to the village Ras in Kairi district. There the villagers were to be invited to join the new movement. In the event of the arrest of Gandhi the members of the ashram were to continue the march.

On the approach of the district magistrate and other officials in motor cars to the Ranchooddass bungalow a small crowd which had gathered there expecting the arrest of the mahatma rushed into the house, and Gandhi, who was asleep, awoke.

Gandhi immediately called his followers to prayer. The officials allowed the party thirty minutes for devotions and to pack their kits. Meanwhile the crowd outside grew rapidly and police closed the road.

Gandhi Separated from Wife.

The prayers ended, hymns were sung. The prisoners then were taken away, the Mahatma in one direction and his wife and the secretary in another.

Commenting upon the discontinuance of the ashram several hours before his arrest, Gandhi said such action was necessary because it was the most precious thing in existence to him. It therefore was the duty of him and his ashram followers to make a sacrifice before embarking upon a new adventure inasmuch, he said, as hundreds of thousands have lost all in the struggle for Indian independence.

He also issued a statement directed both to the British people and to the members of the Indian national congress.

Attacks Rule by Ordinance.

"If you want peace in India," said the section addressed to the British, "rule by ordinance is not the way. The congress way is the only way. I say this as a friend of the English people. Some of you may regard me as an enemy, but I prophesy that the mists will one day roll away and you will admit my claim."

"If the program is zealously workout out," the part of the statement addressed to the party declared, "the congress will become more powerful than ever."

Gandhi has been arrested frequently in connection with his long campaign against British rule. He was released from prison early in May at the start of his three weeks' fast in protest of "untouchability."

HOMEWOOD PARK: POP. 135 AND A DOG RACE TRACK

Henry W. Hering, superintendent of the Thornton dog racing track, was elected president yesterday of the new village of Homewood Park, within the limits of which the track is situated. Mrs. Anna Hering, wife of the village president, was elected village clerk. A council of six also were chosen.

Homewood Park, incorporated on June 16 after its 74 legal voters had approved, is bounded on the south by 183d street, on the west by Homewood and East Hazelcrest, on the north by 171st street, and on the east by the village of Thornton. Its total population is 135.

A few of the farmers resident in the village objected to the incorporation, asserting that the move was designed to aid dog racing.

Reno Gambling Houses Adopt 5 Day Week Code

Reno, Nev., July 31.—(AP)—Reno gambling houses joined President Roosevelt's recovery program today by adopting codes calling for a five day 40 hour week for employés. Hourly wages were increased.

RETAILERS OF NATION ACT; 13,289 PLEDGE AID HERE

Rules Are Modified; Open Jobs for 1,100,000 More.

Milk Code In Today

New Chicago milk code goes into effect today with prospect of immediate court fight over its legality. Details on page 3.

Chicago retail merchants put into operation the modified form of recovery code approved for retail industry in Washington. Details on page 3.

The official inauguration of President Roosevelt's reëmployment campaign this morning finds 13,289 business concerns in this district pledging themselves to accept the blanket recovery code sponsored by the chief executive. That figure probably will be raised above 17,500, according to estimates, when pledges received in the mails are counted today.

Thousands of Chicago's army of half a million jobless yesterday thronged the employment offices of factories and stores and stood in line at employment agencies in a quest for the jobs made available under the new program. Many were given employment and more will be put to work today.

9,000 Pledges in a Day.

The pledges of employers in the Illinois, Wisconsin, and Iowa region to join the recovery program poured in so fast to the Chicago office of F. L. Roberts, district manager of the federal department of commerce, that twenty-five employés were added to his force to handle them.

As fast as possible the pledges were sent to C. P. Scheel, assistant postmaster, who listed the code signers on an "honor roll."

Exactly 9,000 written acceptances of the code were sorted out by the department of commerce office during the day. Added to the 4,289 pledges already received, this made the total of 13,289 business concerns in three states entitled to fly the "blue eagle" NRA banner which proclaims "We Do Our Part."

2,900 Chicago Concerns on Roll.

The work of sorting out the acceptances of the Chicago concerns was slow because of the necessity of dividing them into various classifications, Mr. Roberts explained. Yesterday the names of 1,699 Chicago concerns were sent to the postmaster for listing, making a total of 2,900 local organizations on the honor roll.

"We are receiving mail from 3,700 postoffices in the three states of Illinois, Wisconsin and Iowa," Mr. Roberts said. "The work of classification has been tremendous and the flow of pledges does not seem to lessen. As soon as possible we hope to have a complete Chicago list."

Included among the pledges received yesterday at the department of commerce office was that the Sears, Roebuck & Co., which has more than 32,000 employés.

Concerns Call for Workers.

Although the recovery code does not officially go into effect until today, many employers have already sent out calls for workers of various degrees of skill and experience. The United Agencies employment office at 202 South State street said it had received a call for 800 men from one concern alone. The state free employment agency at 116 North Dearborn street was overworked trying to take care of the crowd of applicants which spilled over onto the sidewalks.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 31.—[Special.]—By an eleventh hour effort several million retail stores in the country will be permitted tomorrow morning to operate under a modified form of the President's reëmployment agreement.

Two orders, signed late tonight by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, granted to the retailers various temporary exemptions from the terms of the Roosevelt blanket code. The orders specifically apply to groceries, furniture stores, mail order houses, clothiers and furnishers, dry goods and shoe stores.

Those Outside Hours Limits.

Further interpretations of the blanket code were issued by the recovery administration tonight. It was stated that owners operating their own establishments without employés may obtain the blue eagle by signing the agreement and a certificate of compliance. Maximum hours fixed in the blanket code are held not to apply to "an employé receiving more than $35 per week and who is acting primarily although not wholly in a managerial or executive capacity." Nonprofit organizations are considered as employers for the purpose of the agreement.

The term "professional persons," to whom the 40 hour week limit does not apply under the agreement, was stated in a final interpretation to include newspaper reporters, editorial writers, rewrite men and other members of editorial staffs and internes, nurses, hospital technicians and research technicians.

Codes Effective Today.

The representatives of the retailers declared that the orders would bring employment to 1,100,000 of the idle and would add 900 million dollars to the pay rolls. Effective tomorrow at the same time that thousands of other employers will be putting into operation the full force of the President's reëmployment agreement the retailers will be allowed to win the "blue eagle" of compliance by instituting adjusted wages and working hours in their stores.

The modified agreements were presented by two groups of trade association, one group representing the grocers of the nation and the second group acting for the other retailers mentioned.

Men Show Blue Eagle.

Although the representatives acted only for the members of their organizations, it was explained by Gen. Johnson that any independent retailer in the classes named may receive his blue eagle by adding the following language to his "certificate of compliance":

"To the extent of NRA consent as announced we have complied with the President's agreement by complying with the substitute provisions of the code submitted for trade or industry."

Groups of retailers not included in tonight's orders have been invited to present similar modified agreements. An association of retail druggists is now negotiating for one, it was announced.

The terms of the code for the grocers sets up a maximum work week of 48 hours, instead of 40 hours, as specified in the President's agreement. Employés should not work longer than 8 hours during any 24, except on days preceding legal holidays and 12 others in any six month period.

The wage minima are substantially the same, except that in the south they are $1 per week lower than in the north.

The minimum wage rates for the north, following the President's recommendations, are $15, weekly in cities over 500,000 population; $14.50 weekly in cities between 250,000 and 500,000, and $14 in cities between 2,500 and 250,000 population.

Employés with less than six months' experience are to be paid $1 a week less than the minimum rate. The stores are to be operated not less than fifty-two hours per week, except in cases where stores were operated less than that time prior to July 1, 1933, when the same rates may be applied.

In towns of less than 2,500 population all wages of employés in groceries are to be raised a flat 20 per cent, except that they must not necessarily be raised above $12 per week.

Follows President's Code.

In all other respects the grocers' code follows exactly the language of the President's agreement. It is signed by the officials of the National Association of Retail Grocers, the National-American Wholesale Grocers' association, the Retailer-Owned Wholesale Grocers, the National Grocery Chain Store association and Food Chain Store Distributors', and Voluntary Groups. The last named is a new organization.

The grocers' representatives declared that they considered it fair that they should receive a modification of the code, because in the past they have been operating on a basis of an average seventy-three hour week for employés, and that to cut to forty hours would work an impossible hardship upon them. They declared that the new agreement as approved will cause 800,000 new employés to be hired in American grocery stores and will add to their pay rolls by 500 million dollars.

Other Retailers Offer Pact.

The agreement for the other retailers was submitted by the National Retail Hardware association, the National Retail Furniture association, the Mail Order association, the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers, the National Retail Dry Goods association, and the National Shoe Retailers' association.

Their code differs from the grocers' in that they accept the 40 hour week prescribed by the President, but they fix a lower wage scale than he proposed. This group fixes minimum wages at $14 weekly for cities over 500,000 population, $13.50 between 250,000 and 500,000, $13 between 2,500 and 250,000.

"Junior" employés between 16 and 18 years of age during the first six months of employment will be paid $2 less per week, while "junior" employés above the age of 18 are to be paid $1 less.

Eliminate Child Labor.

Both codes assert that employés earning more than $35 per week will be classed as "executives," and will not be affected by the hourly restrictions. Both codes also eliminate child labor under 16.

Retail stores which already have subscribed to the President's agreement will be held to its terms unless they file new certificates of compliance under the amended terms, it was stated. Gen. Johnson said he was anxious that it did not go abroad that he was granting general exemptions from the terms of the President's agreement.

"It has been repeatedly asserted," he declared tonight, "that there will be no blanket exceptions to the President's agreement. But when an industry has submitted a code of fair competition section 13 of the President's reëmployment agreement authorizes the administrator to accept provisions of the code as a sufficient compliance with the agreement for the period between the date of submission of the code and final action thereon by the President.

"But it must be clearly understood that such an exception does not in the slightest degree oblige the administrator to approve such provisions on a final hearing."

STEEL LEADERS MODIFY LABOR TEXT OF CODE

Still Cling to Idea of Own Unions.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 31.—[Special.]—The ancient "open shop" versus unions issue was much in evidence in today's hearings on the code of fair competition presented by the iron and steel industry. That great basic industry in normal times employs 1,300,000 workers and has a pay roll of a billion and a half dollars a year, five millions for every working day.

To avoid controversy the open shop section in the proposed code was written by Robert P. Lamont, former secretary of commerce and now president of the American Iron and Steel institute, which represents 98 per cent of the producers of pig iron and steel ingots in the United States.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, raised the question whether the open shop clauses ran athwart the provisions of the national recovery act, or NRA, regarding collective bargaining.

Concession by Steel Men.

The steel men eliminated them, with a declaration from Mr. Lamont that the omission implied no change in the attitude of the industry. He said the iron and steel industry believes that the present employé representation methods at the plants are desired by the workers and that the industry will do all in its power to keep them intact.

This was regarded as a concession by the steel and iron men, which removed the open shop issue as controversial matter in getting through a code on minimum wages, maximum hours and competitive practices.

It popped right back into the hearing, however. William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, in the afternoon hearings, declared that section 7 [A] of NRA on collective bargaining through representatives chosen by the workers free from interference, was industry's new charter. He held that the stand of the steel industry for its employé representation systems or company unions, under its traditional open shop policy, was objectionable to organized labor.

Labor Challenges Industry.

"Labor makes this challenge to the industry," said Mr. Green. "Let the workers decide for themselves free from any coercion; let them choose men to represent them. If they decide for labor unions, let the industry adopt them; if they vote otherwise, labor will accept."

Hardly had Mr. Green wound up his speech when Donald R. Richberg, NRA counsel, hopped up with a declaration that the session was not a debating society on industrial problems.

"We can read books and we know the general problems of industry," Mr Richberg said. "I am not criticizing any speaker, but oratory and exhortation are impossible to permit, and repetition of facts serves no good purpose."

"The administration," Mr. Richberg added, "feels itself competent to interpret section 7 [A] of the recovery act."

Thus exhorted, the next witness called handed in his speech without reading.

Section 7 [A] of NRA was held last week to be one cause of the delay in getting through an automobile code. In Chicago it was reported by some manufacturers to be retarding their acceptance of President Roosevelt's blanket code for industrial reëmployment. Some industries have regarded it as a stumbling block, on the theory that organized labor may seek to capitalize that section with governmental pressures behind it in a move to organize the present open shops.

Calls NRA Neutral.

Mr. Johnson has said NRA is seeking to organize neither industry nor labor.

On minimum wages and maximum hours, there was a divergence of opinion between the industry and the labor unions.

The iron and steel code, in brief, calls for a 40 hour week, with a minimum wage of 40 cents an hour for common labor in areas producing 65 per cent of the output of the industry, or $16 a week. It calls for a 15 per cent rise in hourly rate for other workers.

A code presented by the American Federation of Labor called for a 30 hour week at 60 cents an hour minimum pay, or $18 a week.

Back from a tour of Pennsylvania mills, Miss Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, held that 40 cents an hour is not enough. She urged a revamping of the wage rates to approach as near as possible the buying power of 1929. Miss Perkins criticized the 25 cents and 27 cents minimum hourly rate set up in the code for the southern and Birmingham districts.

Shortly afterwards Mr. Lamont announced the industry had agreed to raise the minimum pay in those two districts to 30 cents an hour.

Miss Perkins, who had to discard four pages of her speech because the open shop section had been tossed out of the window temporarily by the iron and steel men, also held that a 40 hour maximum week would not bring about sufficient reëmployment in the industry.

Wants Further Changes.

She urged that the code provide for elimination of the seven day week in certain processes of the industry; that the white collar people should be included in the code and provision be made for time off for eating, every shift. She also suggested that the industry set up an unemployment fund.

Sections in the code for the control of production and prices were taken up by Mr. Richberg, with a question as to whether there were protections for the consumer against any oppressive use of this power.

This is to be taken up later, in discussion of the new economic theories set up under N. I. R. A. and the new deal.

Lamont's View of Code.

"The whole idea," said Mr. Lamont, "is to prevent unfair competition." He intimated that protection lies in NRA itself.

"The code provides that each member of it shall always have on file, open to examination, lists of its base prices for all its products," Mr. Lamont explained, "and that it shall not sell them on the basis of the base prices lower than those shown in such lists at the time in effect. Thus each member of the code, as well as the public, can know at all times at what prices a particular member may sell its products, and they, producer and consumer, are guaranteed freedom from deception and misrepresentation in that regard."

"In presenting this business part of the code, the industry has had in mind one of the purposes of the recovery act, namely, to eliminate as far as possible in the industry discrimination in price among its customers."

Dwelling on minimum wage and maximum hours, Mr. Lamont declared that steel and iron was the leader in the share the work plan to give employment to the greatest number of employés.

Says Mills Share Work.

"The institute," he said, "has assumed it was imperative to establish such maximum hours, or work per week, as would enable the industry to operate at a fair normal rate. In the normal years, 1929-1930, the reporting companies [operating 94 per cent of steel ingot capacity, employed an average of 341,654 employés who worked an average of 49.5 hours a week.

"On July 1, 1933, 338,683 were available for service. Of these, 288,945 were being given some work, and they were working an average of 42 hours a week, at that date, when operations did not exceed 50 per cent of capacity. No work was being given to 49,738. It is estimated that on the basis of a 60 per cent rate of operations and a 40 hour week, substantially all the 49,738 employés who were not receiving work July 1, 1933, would be given employment.

"On less than a 40 hour week the industry positively could not operate the mills and meet any demands on them in excess of present production.

"The code establishes a minimum rate of 40 cents an hour for common labor in the Pittsburgh, Youngstown north Ohio, Canton, Massillon, Cleveland, Detroit-Toledo, Chicago, and Colorado districts. This rate is only 9 per cent less than the highest base rate paid during the last 11 years, where living costs were above the present level."

"The 40 cent rate is equivalent" Mr. Lamont added, "in purchasing power to a 53 cent rate in 1929, and the minimum weekly earnings of $16 have a purchasing power equivalent to $21.20 in 1929.

"The 15 per cent increase for other classes of labor will increase average earnings of all wage earners to between 55 and 58 cents an hour, which is equivalent in purchasing power to between 79 and 77 cents per hour in 1929."

The code of the Federation of Labor, presented by President Green, besides calling for a 30 hour week at 60 cents an hour minimum, or $18 a week, provides for an advisory council on industrial relations to be set up in the iron and steel industry. The members would be selected by the President as follows: Three members from ten names submitted by the Federation of Labor and a chairman designated by the President.

The advisory council would serve as the agency of N. R. A. for investigating matters of friction in industrial relationships.

Secretary Perkins argued that a 40 hour week is too long a working unit to accomplish reëmployment. She dwelt upon the seven day week in some continuous processes.

Seven Day Work Lingers.

"The seven day week," she said, "still persists in this industry. Thirty-four per cent of the workers in the open hearth furnaces and 28 per cent of the blast furnace crews worked regularly seven days a week in 1931. I recognize some parts of a steel mill must, for technical reasons, be operated seven days a week, but the employment of men without a weekly day of rest is not necessary and should be stopped. One extra shift makes extra employment possible."

Johnson Drafts Oil Code to End Disputes in Industry

Washington, D. C., July 31.—(AP)—A tentative trade practice plan for the oil industry, calling for federal supervision of production as a basic step toward stability, was laid before petroleum leaders tonight by Hugh S. Johnson, industrial administrator.

The program, written by Johnson after futile efforts by factions in the industry to compose their multiple differences, will be further discussed between oil leaders and the administration before a final draft goes to President Roosevelt.

Wants Meeting Tonight.

Mr. Johnson asked that committees representing the groups within the business be set up at a meeting tomorrow night, in which the administration will participate, with authority to act during the week with federal officials in drafting a binding agreement.

Control of production would be vested under the code in an administrative agency designated by the President, expected here to be the interior department, with James A. Moffett, former vice president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, actively in command.

The Johnson trade plan proposed a forty hour week in the marketing division with the pay rate at 40 to 47 cents an hour and set forth a pay scale for drilling, production, and pipe line operations of from 45 to 55 cents an hour with a forty hour week for clerical employés and a thirty-six hour week for the others.

The code did not seek to fix prices, but stipulated no products should be sold in the marketing section for less than the cost of production, including reasonable expenses for marketing, fixed taxes, and inspection fees.

The proposed code provided for a coördination committee of nine, six to be representatives of the industry and three to be appointed by the President or a federal agency to be designated by the President.

Would Control Production.

The coördinating group was charged with estimating petroleum needs at intervals and recommending production quotas "equitably allocated among the several states. That proposal further stipulates:

"If the production of petroleum within any state exceeds the quotas allocated to said state, the President may regulate the shipment of petroleum or petroleum products out of said state to the extent necessary to effectuate the purposes of the national industrial recovery act."

The Johnson code proposed that the federal agency in charge should divide the country into refining districts and suggest proper stocks to be used in each district, to assure adequate supplies to independent refiners.

Skeptical of Own Code.

Mr. Johnson told the oil men, representing virtually all phases of the industry, that he was "by no means satisfied with the code" written by himself and his representatives, but he hoped to settle the controversial points remaining before submitting the agreement to President Roosevelt.

He added that since that practice commonly known as the lease and agency agreement was before the federal trade commission he would suggest that commission be asked to make a report within 30 days on whether it considered the practice "unfair."

"If they assert it is unfair," Johnson said, "that ends the matter; if not, it can be considered by the planning and control committee which will be set up under the code."

Opposed by Texan.

After copies of the tentative agreement had been distributed, Attorney General Allred of Texas jumped to his feet and said courts had ruled that some of the practices denounced in the code were legitimate. Mr. Allred added that he thought the question should be carefully considered, regardless of whether the trade commission ruled that it was an unfair practice.

"It will be carefully considered," Mr. Johnson replied. "I am always open to discussion."

As Allred sat down another Texan, Ernest O. Thompson, member of the Texas railroad commission, said he wanted to ask some questions about the production of provisions of the code and that it seemed to him that it gave the federal government regulation of production.

"It does not," Mr. Johnson said.

"Read it," Mr. Thompson retorted.

"I don't have to read it," Johnson shot back. "I wrote it."

GRANTS INJUNCTION AGAINST PRINTING COMICS; BOND FIXED

Washington, D. C., July 31.—[Special.]—A temporary injunction, suspending the publication of certain comic strips, including "The Gumps," "Gasoline Alley," and "Winnie Winkle," in the Washington Herald was issued today in the Supreme court of the District of Columbia by Justice O. R. Luhring.

The injunction was granted as a temporary relief to The Washington Post, which published these comics for about ten years and has been publishing them simultaneously with The Herald since July 15.

When The Post was sold at a bankruptcy sale on June 1 the comics were transferred to The Herald by The Chicago Tribune Newspaper syndicate on the assumption that the contract with The Post had been voided by the bankruptcy.

According to Justice Luhring's opinion, "a serious and difficult question of law is involved with respect to the assignability of such a contract." Pending determination of the issue he granted a temporary order requiring further that The Post furnish a bond of $10,000 to indemnify The Herald for losses if it be found finally that The Post was not entitled to the relief now given.

MILK CODE GOES IN TODAY; COURT TEST PROMISED

Independents to Attack Legality of Licensing.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Announcement that independent milk distributors will go into the federal court here today and seek an injunction to prevent the enforcement of the newly approved Chicago milk code was met yesterday in Washington by a declaration that all legal resources of the government would be used in the endeavor to keep the marketing agreement intact.

Under the terms of the agreement, which has been subscribed to by the Pure Milk association, representing 18,000 farm producers, and the large distributing companies, every distributor in the Chicago area goes under federal license at noon today. All who accept the terms, which include charging 10 cents a quart for all fluid milk sold to consumers, will remain licensed. Those who undersell or otherwise violate the agreement face loss of their licenses and fines of as much as $1,000 a day.

Attack Legality of Law.

The protesting group, the Independent Milk Distributors' Association of Northern Illinois, will contend that the blanket license issued by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, as well as the agricultural adjustment act, which enabled the licensing, is unconstitutional. They have raised a fund, according to Joseph E. Green, their attorney, and are ready to carry the fight all the way to the Supreme court of the United States.

This move, it was stated in the national capital, is welcomed by the government. Attorneys for the farm adjustment administration were reported confident that the act and the licensing would be upheld by the courts. The Chicago agreement is the first formally to be adopted and nearly sixty other cities' agreements will hinge on the success of this one.

Test Case in Prospect.

"Thus, under the circumstances this would be a test case for one of the most important of the Roosevelt administration's plans for a revamped agriculture. Attorney General Cummings is said to be familiar with the constitutional aspects of the agreement and the legislation and to be prepared to fight for both.

The independent dealers, who have 110 stands outside the corporate limits of Chicago and the suburbs, said they would continue to sell milk today at their present cut prices. They are doing a cash and carry business and maintain that their customers are entitled to a substantial discount from the arbitrary 10 cents a quart price, especially as it has been shown the distribution in bottles to customers' homes costs more than 3 cents a quart.

It was promised by the government, on the other hand, that the enforcement of the agreement would be "orderly." No individual licenses are to be issued and distributors will be expected to hold to the terms whether they had a hand in making them or not.

Area Affected by Code.

The area affected reaches from Waukegan to Chicago Heights, then east to include Gary, Hammond, and Whiting. Its west boundary runs only five miles from Elgin, Geneva, and Aurora.

The independents will ask today, it was said, that there be no prosecutions for violating the agreement until the issue of constitutionality is settled.

It has been contended by those backing the government and the agreement that the elimination of cut price tactics in this market is necessary if dairy farmers are to be guaranteed prices that will mean a return of farm buying power to the aimed at "prewar parity." Also it is claimed that the agreement would benefit the public by compelling adherence everywhere to sanitary standards equal to those required by the Chicago board of health.

MOFFETT NAMED RECOVERY BOARD ADVISER TO ICKES

Washington, D. C., July 31.—[Special.]—James A. Moffett, former vice president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, who resigned last week, reportedly at the request of Walter C. Teagle, president of the company, was appointed late today to the industrial advisory board of the national recovery administration.

The real reason for Mr. Moffett's resignation, it was asserted yesterday, was his attitude in favor of the administration's policies.

It is believed that the control of the oil industry may be established in the interior department with Mr. Moffett as special assistant to Secretary Ickes. President Roosevelt recently delegated all his authority under the oil section to Secretary Ickes.

It is asserted that many of the rifts between the oil factions have been narrowed and compromises effected as the result of daily and nightly conferences. Nevertheless, an irreducible portion of the industry will not be reconciled to any code which will change the industry, but this minority, it was asserted, will have to take the code as finally written.

RECOVERY PLAN WINS A WIFE $1 EXTRA ALIMONY

President Roosevelt's recovery program helped Mrs. Evelyn Probst, 6244 South Michigan avenue, get an extra dollar a week in alimony.

Mrs. Probst, who has a suit for divorce pending against Herman Probst, 6125 South Morgan street, appeared before Judge Peter H. Schwaba in the Superior court with a plea for temporary alimony. After hearing her testimony, Judge Schwaba awarded her $7 a week for the support of herself and her daughter, Jean LaVerne, 3 years old.

"Your honor," said Attorney Norman Becker, representing Mrs. Probst, "the defendant is an employé of the Pepsodent company, which was one of the first concerns in Chicago to announce that it has accepted President Roosevelt's code for industry, and raised the wages of its employés."

"Very well," said Judge Schwaba. "We'll make the alimony $8 a week."

CHICAGO RETAIL STORES ADOPT MODIFIED CODE

New Plan Already in Operation Here.

Members of the Chicago District Retail association, including most of the large loop stores and a number of outlying establishments, yesterday began operating under a modification of the original blanket code for industry. This modified code was given the approval and signature of Gen. Hugh Johnson last night in Washington.

In the discussion which preceded its drafting representatives of six Chicago retail stores had a part. They were Elmer F. Wieboldt of the Wieboldt stores, president of the retail association; D. F. Kelly of The Fair, Walter Hoying of Montgomery Ward & Co., Bruce MacLeish of Carson Pirie Scott & Co., Leon Mandel II. of Mandel Brothers, and Maurice L. Rothschild. All have returned from the national capital.

Largest Craft in Country.

"We sought to impress on the authorities at Washington," said Mr. MacLeish, "that in dealing with retailers they were regulating the largest craft in the country, with from 1,750,000 to 2,000,000 businesses and 6,000,000 employés in normal times, and that any code adopted should permit small merchants as well as large to operate under it.

"We found the N. R. A. executives with their eyes on the main objective; to increase purchasing power and employment. With that we were in hearty sympathy. I believe the majority of merchants in the country will find it to their advantage to begin voluntary operation under the code at once. If they do not, they will face licensing later, and none of them wants that."

The standard work week for employés of the retail association members will be 40 hours, with a wage minimum of $14. Delivery men will work a 48 hour week, but will be paid overtime rates for eight hours. Exceptions were also made that permit a slightly longer week than 40 hours for a few special classifications of workers.

Merchants Act in Advance.

It was pointed out that many local merchants did not wait for the final approval in Washington, but put their employés on the new basis several days ago. Those operating under the new agreement will sign the following amended pledge:

"We have complied with certain designated provisions of the code of fair competition for the retail trade, which had been substituted by consent of the N. R. A. for designated provisions of this agreement."

The necessity of coördination with department stores and other concerns to which they make deliveries yesterday caused the code committee of the Cartage Exchange of Chicago to delay final action on its code until tomorrow. Members of the code committee said they must establish a working hour schedule under which deliveries may be made to stores and industries at convenient time, and that while they hoped to institute a 40 hour week in place of the present one of 57 hours, they cannot determine until tomorrow whether this is possible.

FIVE DAY WEEK PLAN REJECTED BY COUNTY BOARD

The county board yesterday voted down the proposal of Commissioner Peter M. Kelly to place county employes on a five day week.

The principal opposition to the plan came from the heads of the various fee offices. They pointed out that the statutes require them to keep their offices open six days a week. Assessor Jacobs was the only official who favored the proposal. He said that by adding about 36 minutes a day to the present working time the employes could put in as much time in five days as they now do in six, since they do an average of only two hours' work on Saturday mornings at present.

"As it is now," said Emmett Whealan, president of the board, "the employés are working only 39 hours a week. Public employes are not included in President Roosevelt's recovery plan, and I see no sense in instituting a five day week while the statutes require most of our offices to be open six days."

BOY THROWS PEBBLE; STARTS BRAWL; 2 INJURED

Two youths were injured and several shots were fired late yesterday afternoon during a sidewalk brawl at Ward street and Wrightwood avenue, in which more than twenty-five men participated.

The trouble started when Tony Rollheiser, 10 years old, 2925 Southport avenue, tossed a pebble and struck a passing automobile. The three occupants halted, seized him and beat him. To the boy's rescue went a dozen men standing in and near the saloon of Henry Lange, 1325 Wrightwood avenue. They routed the three autoists, who left with threats of revenge.

Shortly afterward the trio, reinforced by seven others carrying golf clubs, returned and renewed the fight. One of them fired six shots into the saloon windows. None of the bullets caused any wounds, but two men were cut on their heads by the club wielders. The injured youths are Tony Klein, 17 years old, 2726 Herndon street, and Chester Klyczewski, 19 years old, 1325 Wrightwood avenue. The assailants fled shortly before a squad, sent by Lieut. Peter Heraty of the Sheffield avenue police, arrived.

English Company Accepts Code "in Every Detail"

New York, July 31.—(AP)—Crosse & Blackwell, English food packers and preservers with branches in New York, Chicago, Boston, and Baltimore, announced acceptance of the blanket code "in every detail" pending the adoption and approval of a specific code for the industry. Between 1,500 and 2,000 employés are affected.

MRS. ROOSEVELT GETS BLUE EAGLE FOR HER SHOP

"We Co-operate," She Says, as Cameras Click.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., July 31.—[Special]—The blue eagle of the National Recovery Administration was tacked today to the door of the Val-Kill shop here. The hand that did the tacking was that of the shop's part owner, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President.

Workmen in the little factory, where reproductions of antique furniture are built by hand, looked on while a battery of cameras recorded the initiation of this Roosevelt-managed industry into the Roosevelt code for national recovery.

On Roosevelt Estate.

The shop is on the Roosevelt estate, near the cottage and swimming pool, and a couple of miles from the main house. Workmen in the shop are paid a minimum of 80 cents an hour and not less than $24 a week.

"We are a small shop," said Mrs. Roosevelt, "but I am glad that we can come under the code and say, 'we do our part.' In some cases the regulations seem hard, particularly on the smaller employer. But I am confident that employers, large and small, will coöperate.

Mrs. Roosevelt wa sone of the few actively to brave the heat. The thermometer at the Krum Elbow country home this afternoon pushed above the hundred degree mark.

President Stays Indoors.

A blistering sun kept President Roosevelt indoors until late in the day, when he drove to the cottage for a swim. He rose early to catch what coolness there was and dictated for two hours in order to catch up on correspondence that had accumulated since his arrival here last Saturday.

Louis McH. Howe, the President's secretary, was a visitor during the day, and chatted with the President concerning the progress of the recovery program and matters of patronage.

Later, Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall, the President's daughter, and her children, "Sistie" and "Buzzie," and the President's son, John Roosevelt, arrived from Rye Beach, Mass.

The President will stay at Hyde Park until Aug. 10, according to present plans. Then he will return to Washington for a few days before coming up here again.

LICENSES TO WED SHOW GAIN IN 7 MONTHS OF 1933

Dan Cupid has signed the blanket recovery code with his signature of two hearts entwined. This was announced yesterday by Sidney Summerfield, chief clerk of the marriage license bureau, in reporting that since the first of the year 16,397 licenses have been issued, as compared with 15,612 in the corresponding period of 1932. In the last month 2,750 licenses were issued, as against 2,145 in the same month last year.

"There is no explanation other than that Cupid has decided to do his part," said Chief Clerk Summerfield. "With economic conditions improving he has found it easier to make his arrows effective and then he has found many likely prospects in young couples coming to the World's Fair to get married and go on their honeymoon."

Miss Perkins Finds Burgess of Steel Town Nervous Man

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 31.—[Special.]—Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins returned to Washington today convinced that James Cavanaugh, the burgess [that's like a mayor] of Homestead, Pa., is one of the most "nervous" men she ever met, and that Jim Farley, postmaster general of the United States, is one of the nicest.

Here's the story, as she told it today at her press conference:

On her recent tour of steel mills, preparatory to testifying this morning at the hearing on the steel code, Miss Perkins went to Homestead, a steel town near Pittsburgh, to have a talk with "anybody who wanted to see me."

Held in Borough Hall.

The meeting was held in the borough hall, above the fire house, with Burgess Cavanaugh as the guardian of the gate. Some of the "anybodies" who sought entrance were classified by Cavanaugh as "radicals; I have no use for 'em" and were excluded. One of the excluded, George Beaumont, an official of the steel and metal industry union, was so mad about it that he sent Miss Perkins a telegram of protest, which she received just as the meeting had adjourned.

"It was the first I knew that persons seeking admittance had been excluded," Miss Perkins explained today. "I hurried downstairs and found Mr. Beaumont, who was very courteous. I told him we'd hold a public office hour back in the hall, but the burgess said he wouldn't allow that."

It was about this time the secretary revealed that she began to dub Burgess Cavanaugh a "nervous man."

In New England Sense.

"I'm using that word in its good old New England sense," she added; "those of you who know New England will remember how they speak of a 'nervous woman.' Well, he is a nervous man."

Thwarted in her plan for the indoor meeting, Miss Perkins glimpsed a park across the street and "foolishly, I suppose," she admitted, "invited them to meet over there. But I was promptly informed by the burgess, who was getting more and more nervous, that he wouldn't think of letting those people meet in the park."

With the "nervous" city official on one side, and the eager steel workers on the other, Miss Perkins thought a moment; then asked if there were a private building she might use. Up spoke the village postmaster with an invitation: "There's the postoffice, Madam Secretary."

Turns to Federal Property.

Miss Perkins smiled as she said: "I realized that there was federal property, and that it was suitable for me to go there to conduct what I certainly felt was government business."

She and her following trooped across to the cool marble corridors of one of Uncle Sam's and Jim Farley's postoffices, held what she termed "a very orderly and entirely suitable meeting" for twenty minutes. The men proposed a code of their own. This code, a copy of which she held in her hand during today's conference, is "rational, not radical," she declared. "Its provisions may not be right, but they certainly are debatable."

At the end of 20 minutes one of the leaders suggested that the secretary must be tired and moved an adjournment.

"As I left the meeting," she recalled, that twinkle in her eye, "I began to think very kindly of Mr. Farley and his postoffices."

Tells Story of Beating.

Then she told how Father Francis J. Haas of the National Catholic Welfare board, who had accompanied her to Homestead, had come upon policemen beating up two Negroes who wanted to get to her meeting.

"I had read about things like that, but I never dreamed they would happen when Father Haas and the secretary of labor were off on a peaceful mission to investigate conditions."

The blame for all the incidents rest, she believes, on local authorities and on the "nervous" burgess; but not, she is emphatic, on the officials of the steel companies.

As the press conference broke up one of the boys wanted to know what was the matter with the reporters at Homestead. Why hadn't they got the story of the nervous burgess? For it happened last Friday.

At the Drug Store.

"I believe," remarked Miss Perkins, as solemnly as she could, "that they were all over at the drug store getting a soft drink."

When the laughs had died away she stuck up for the newspaper men, explaining that they had been on the job all day "and what a time I had trying to keep them from being burned; they never knew where the hot metal was going to fall."

When, at last, she had got them to the meeting, "I felt that they were safe and forgot all about them." As soon as the main meeting adjourned the scribes adjourned for a cold drink. Then, as it so often happens, the real story broke.

MERCHANTS DENY PRICES WILL GO UP 50 PER CENT

Several merchants in the Chicago loop commenting yesterday on a TRIBUNE story in which other merchandise experts were quoted as saying that clothing and household items would go up 50 per cent in price by Sept. 1, disagreed as to the percentage, although concurring in the belief that there must be some price rise.

One of these was Maurice L. Rothschild, clothier.

"There will be no such rise as 50 per cent in the next few months," Mr. Rothschild declared. "Our store, as well as most of the other large ones, has covered its needs from manufacturers up to November and December and at favorable contract rates. Only those who have not bought need make severe increases in retail prices.

"The only increase that will be made in the near future will be to cover increased labor costs under the code. There will be no profiteering. I am sure that clothing prices will not advance more than 20 or 25 per cent, if that much, this fall."

WALLACE GETS COTTON FINANCE LOANS OF BANKS

Saves His Department, Costs Taxpayers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 31.—[Special.]—By allowing private banks instead of the treasury department to finance government cotton purchases Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace has made a paper saving of $225,000 for his agricultural adjustment administration, but the net cost of his operations to the taxpayers of the country will be an additional $100,000, it was discovered today.

Moreover, the $225,000 paper saving which Wallace effected for his administration has been at the expense of the treasury department, while the additional $100,000 which the taxpayers must pay will go into the pockets of private bankers in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, and Boston.

Discovering that Wallace has been borrowing money with which to buy cotton, direct from private banks, the treasury departmnet has reprimanded him, and one high treasury official said today that he didn't think "Henry Wallace would do it again."

Pays One-Eighth Per Cent Extra.

Tracing of the intricate financing through which Wallace borrowed 30 millions, half for 45 days and half for 90 days, in order to buy a million bales of cotton today revealed that Wallace paid 2 and 2⅛ per cent for the money, whereas the treasury has been borrowing funds for 90 days at interest rates as low as four-tenths of 1 per cent.

Private banks, led by Guaranty Trust and Chase National in New York, were enabled by Wallace's transactions to get a government-secured loan of short maturity bearing five times the interest rates usually paid by the government. Treasury officials today were disturbed, not only by the comparatively high rate paid by Wallace, but by having the agricultural adjustment administration appear in the money markets as a borrower competing with the treasury.

No public announcement of the 30 million dollar loan from private banks to Wallace was made at the time the deal was closed.

Deal Outlined.

The outlines of the deal between Wallace and the banks as discovered today were as follows:

Wallace is given power in the agricultural adjustment act to borrow money with which to buy cotton now held under government loans. The Reconstruction Finance corporation is given the right to lend him money for this purpose.

Inquiring at the R. F. C. to learn what interest rate he would be charged on 30 million dollars, Wallace was told that the R. F. C., which draws its money from the treasury, would have to charge him 4 per cent because the treasury charges the R. F. C. 3½ per cent.

Wallace then made the same inquiry of New York banks. Under the leadership of Guaranty Trust and Chase National of New York, a group of banks in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston agreed to give him half of the money for 45 days and the other half for 90 days.

The interest rates which the banks offered to charge were 2 and 2⅛ per cent, making the total interest charge about $117,185, a saving of $225,000 under the 4 per cent charge offered by the R. F. C.

At Expense of Treasury.

This saving, however, was at the expense of the treasury, experts of that department said today. Had the treasury borrowed the money Wallace needed, it probably could have obtained it at a rate of four-tenths of one per cent, the rate which the treasury has been paying on 90-day borrowing for months.

This rate would have made the interest charge to the government $22,500 instead of $117,185 as agreed to by Wallace, a reduction of $94,685. This difference will now have to be paid by taxpayers.

Had it borrowed the money the treasury would then have loaned it at 3½ per cent to the R. F. C., which would have turned it over to Wallace at 4 per cent. The additional $225,000 which Wallace objected to paying, therefore, would have been paid into the treasury through the R. F. C.

THRONGS LINE UP FOR JOBS UNDER RECOVERY CODE

13,289 Pledges Received; U. S. Office Swamped.

International Harvester company, authorized the statement that the company had signed President Roosevelt's reëmployment agreement. Commencing today, said the announcement, all plans and departments of the company will operate in compliance with the terms of the agreement.

Employment Offices Crowded.

The employment offices of large State street stores which have announced their acceptance of the blanket code were also crowded with eager applicants for work. Personnel experts of these concerns were struggling with the problem of speedily adjusting business to the rules of the code with a view to absorbing as many of the applicants as could be used under the new plan.

Armour & Co. has already hired 400 workers from the lists of the Cook county employment relief stations.

The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, grocery chain store concern, announced last night that it was putting into effect the food and grocery distributors' code submitted to Washington. This code provides for a 48 hour week instead of the 40 hour week called for in the blanket code.

Under the blanket code, about 1,250 extra employés would have been added to the company's pay rolls, it was announced, but this figure will be cut somewhat under the 48 hour rule. Employés of the concern formerly worked much longer than 48 hours a week.

Urges Use of State Service.

A. L. McInerny, superintendent of the Chicago division of the state's free employment service, asked all employers yesterday to use the free service and thus assist the state in placing its long roll of classified applicants for jobs.

"We have classified all applicants and their work records and qualifications are on file," said Mr. McInerny. "This service costs neither the applicant nor the employer anything. At this time, when the unemployed have little or nothing with which to pay for jobs, it is an obligation on the part of all employers who have responded to President Roosevelt's call for coöperation to use the free service.

"It is not fair to force the unemployed to pay commissions on their wages in order to find employment."

Heads of employment agencies who charge for placing employés declared that they were reducing their commissions as a sign of their coöperation with the President. Charges as low as $3 a person, in comparison with the former charge of one-quarter of the first month's wages, are now in effect, it was declared.

Eugene Holland, president of the Universal Gypsum and Lime company, yesterday notified Washington that the corporation had accepted the reëmployment agreement, effective today. The workers in seven plants all over the country and sales forces in eight cities, including Chicago, go under the agreement.

The Joan Lee company, 327 South Market street, manufacturers of women's underwear, announced that it was putting a 40 hour week into force which will result in a 20 per cent increase in the number of employés in the plant.

The Formfit company, manufacturer of corsets, announced that its 400 employés will be put on a 40-hour week and that this reduction in working time of the present employés will mean the immediate hiring of 10 per cent more workers.

More New Jobs in Prospect.

Other encouraging items of news were made public during the day. The Continental Can company announced that several hundred new jobs would be available in a few days.

The L. Fish furniture stores have made room for fifty more employés. Twenty men have been added to the force of H. Piper company, bakers. Two hundred additional salesmen and office employés were hired by the Wise Shoe company. The Frigidaire corporation announced a general increase of 10 per cent in wages for all hourly workers.

Evanston business men set up an organization with Wirt Wright, president of the State Bank and Trust company of Evanston, as head, with the object of enlisting all business houses in the President's reëmployment campaign. About 75 retail dealers accepted the pledge and confidence was expressed that there would be a 100 per cent indorsement of the recovery drive in Evanston.

Expected changes in communities to be brought about by the leveling of production costs under the industrial recovery act were discussed at a meeting of the American Industrial Development council in the Palmer house yesterday. The council is composed of representatives of railroad, public utility, large industrial, and Chamber of Commerce groups.

RAINSTORM ENDS HEAT WAVE; COOL WEATHER TO STAY

Atlantic Coast Swelters at 100 Degrees.

Rain last night broke the extreme heat which had prevailed in Chicago for several days and promise of continued relief was given by Forecaster C. A. Donnel.

Mr. Donnel predicted showers and cooler weather today, with the maximum temperature probably not going much above 80 degrees. The skies are expected to become fair by evening and tomorrow will be fair, with moderate temperatures, Mr. Donnel said. The wind, which has been from the southwest through the hot spell, will shift to a northerly direction.

Rain Breaks Hot Wave.

Yesterday's maximum temperature here was 91, reached at 1 p. m. The thermometer remained at that mark until after 7 p. m. Then the rainstorm broke and by 9 p. m. the official temperature had dropped to 84 degrees. At 11 p. m. the unofficial reading was 81.

The highest temperature in Chicago yesterday was mild compared to readings recorded along the Atlantic coast. Both New York and Baltimore sweltered in 100 degree heat. On the other hand, considerably cooler weather had overspread the northwest, accompanied by rains. There were heavy rains in parts of the Canadian plains and scattered showers over the plains states and the upper Mississippi valley. There were unofficial reports of frost in some parts of the Canadian northwest.

One of Hottest Julys.

Statistics of the weather bureau show that last month was the seventh hottest July in Chicago's history. The mean temperature for the period was 75.7 degrees, an excess of 3.2 degrees. There were four cool days from the 2d to the 5th, inclusive; three from the 15th to 17th and a slight cooling off on the 24th and 25th. All the other days were above normal in temperature.

The number of days with temperatures above 90 degrees was seven. There were ten in June, which, incidentally, was the warmest June ever experienced in Chicago since records have been kept. The average number of plus 90 days per summer is ten and the naximum was twenty-seven, this figure being reached in 1931.

94 Degrees Month's Maximum.

The highest temperature for the July just past was 94, on the 23d, the 29th and the 30th.

Forecaster C. A. Donnel pointed out again, as he had at the start of the month, that extremely hot Junes always have been followed by hot Julys.

Precipitation during the month was 2.70 inches. The normal average is 3.23. However, there is still an accumulated excess of rain, amounting to 1.90 inches, since Jan. 1, the spring having been exceptionally wet.

100 DEGREES IN NEW YORK

New York, July 31.—[Special.]—Soaring to 100 degrees at 2:30 o'clock, the temperature this afternoon set two new records—the hottest July 31 of all time and the hottest day this year.

The previous record for July 31 was 98 degrees, set in 1917. The previous record for 1933 was 96 degrees on June 9.

Without hope of relief in sight for at least two more days, according to the weather bureau, the heat by noon had added one more death and another prostration to the toll of seven dead and five prostrated since the present hot spell started over the week-end. Of the fatalities four were by drowning, attributable indirectly to the heat.

Street Levels Hotter.

While the official temperature, taken atop the Whitehall building, overlooking the Battery and New York bay, was 100, many unofficial thermometers on the street level throughout the city exceeded 100 by as much as 3 or 4 points.

As early as 8 a. m. the official temperature was 83, and it climbed steadily until 99 was reached at 2 o'clock and then 100 at 2:30. By 3 o'clock, however, it had fallen back to 99, indicating that the all time high of 102 degrees, registered on Aug. 7, 1918, would not be reached.

At 12:45 p. m., while the noonday luncheon crowds were in the street, the black bulb thermometer at the Belvedere Towers meterological station in Central park—a thermometer that measures the temperature in full sun — marked another record — 141 degrees.

That is the highest temperature the Central park station has noted in the thirteen years it has been in the Belvedere Towers.

WOMAN FALLS DEAD IN STREET.

Miss Octavia Nielsen, 32 years old, 1701 North California avenue, fell dead last night while walking in front of 121 West Erie street. Her death apparently was due to heart disease.

BARTON DENIES CHARGES IN KING BLACKMAIL CASE

Declares He's Not Father of Her Child.

New York, July 31.—[Special]—Bruce Barton, author and advertising executive, and Charles E. Kelley, lawyer, were called as rebuttal witnesses today in the trial of Mrs. Frances W. King before Judge Joseph E. Corrigan and a jury in the Court of General Sessions. Mrs. King is charged with blackmail and attempting to extort $50,000 from Mr. Barton on the threat of publishing a libel against him.

Make Blanket Denial.

From the witness stand Mr. Barton made a categorical denial of the charges made by Mrs. King in her testimony. He denied that he was the father of her child, born in 1928; denied that the late James Oliver Curwood had introduced him to Mrs. King; denied that either he or his attorney, Mr. Kelley, broke into Mrs. King's apartment for the purpose of stealing papers; denied that either he or his wife contemplated bringing divorce proceedings. He likewise denied that he had arranged Mrs. King's marriage to Hugh Rogers King in 1928, as testified to by Mrs. King.

Mr. Barton testified that when King filed an alienation of affections suit against him at the time King was suing Mrs. King for divorce, he had directed his attorney, Mr. Kelley, to buy them off for $25,000 "and get rid of them forever." The $25,000 was paid to King.

Lawyer Also Testifies.

Mr. Kelley, who succeeded Mr. Barton as a witness, denied that he had ever dictated a letter to Mrs. King, as she testified.

Mrs. King concluded her testimony today before Mr. Barton and Mr. Kelley were recalled.

MEDIEVAL LAW WEEDED OUT OF ILLINOIS CODES

Sweeping Changes of New Act Revealed.

Medieval forms in Illinois court procedure have been abolished or modernized in the quiet passage of a sweeping new civil practice act by the state legislature at its last session.

Revelation of this fact yesterday came as a complete surprise to the majority of Chicago and Illinois lawyers with the receipt through the mails of a pamphlet containing the new code, compiled by Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes. The code will become effective on Jan. 1, 1934.

The new statutes remove anachronistic methods which had their root in the old English common-law as it developed in the middle ages. Most of the practices, which have been a part of Illinois statutes since the state was incorporated, were abandoned in recodification of English law nearly 100 years ago.

Legal Red Tape Eliminated.

Old common-law practices, according to modern jurists, no longer serve any purpose except to overburden courts, delay justice, and act as effective weapons in the hands of unethical lawyers. Thus the new act takes much of the mystery out of the laws, eliminates red tape, reduces opportunities for racketeering, and encourages expeditious justice.

"This act," says one paragraph in the new code, "shall be liberally construed to the end that controversies may be speedily and finally determined according to the substantive rights of the parties. The rule that the statutes in derogation of the common law must be strictly construed shall not apply to this act or to rules made pursuant thereto."

The new code abolishes the praecipe. This is merely a written notice filed in the court for a plaintiff bringing suit against a defendant. Only the amount of the money damages and the general classification of the action are stated.

Called Tool for Blackmail.

Praecipes have been condemned by conscientious attorneys for years. They have been classed as weapons for blackmail in the hands of the unscrupulous. It is pointed out that a praecipe becomes a lever upon which a plaintiff may attempt to force a settlement without carrying through an action in the courts. The new code provides that an attorney must state the full basis for his suit along with the damages desired by the plaintiff, thus incorporating in one bill the old praecipe and the declaration which has followed it in the court records and in which the real basis for the suit is set forth.

Another technicality removed is that under which attorneys have been forced to seek court action to incorporate into court records written contracts upon which suits have been based. Under the new law the written "instrument" or copies of it automatically become a part of the court records of the case. This particular paragraph is one designed to halt delays and subterfuges to impede court actions.

Suits brought in the equity courts, which are adjudged to have a redress only in common law courts, may now be changed to common law suits by application to the judge before whom the suit is pending. This new paragraph also eliminates delay, allowing suits to be changed in character instead of forcing plaintiffs to file new suits in common law and go to the trouble a second time of notifying all parties concerned and having the case brought to trial.

An Aid to Layman.

The change which affects the layman most is contained in the paragraphs which relate to service of process, and of notice of court hearings. To facilitate trials the act abolishes terms of court in both the Circuit and Superior courts of the state.

The service of process for both chancery suits and common law suits now is identical. The new service—or notice that a suit is pending in the courts—may be left with any person over 10 years of age at the home or place of business of the defendant. With this notice must be included a notice by ordinary mail, sent to the last place of residence of the defendant.

Under the old statutes notice of a common law suit had to be served on all defendants personally. The result of this was that many defendants dodged justice for years by evading service.

As explained by Attorney Norman Becker of the law firm of Becker & Becker, one of the first attorneys to receive the pamphlet concerning the new act, the notice and summons are much less complicated and designed "to give the layman a chance to understand exactly what he should do about the law suit."

The old summons demanded that a defendant appear in court upon a certain day. Actually all that was necessary was the filing of an "appearance" or notice that he had been served with papers announcing the pendency of the suit. The new summons explains this simply and clearly in several paragraphs in the document.

All these new practices and others of a more technical nature are included in the new bill which was adopted with no fanfare by the legislators. Few of them, it is said, realized the comprehensive changes in court procedure which the new code involved.

The men behind the new code were H. N. Gottlieb of the law firm of Gottlieb & Schwartz, and Floyd E. Thompson of the firm of Poppenhusen, Johnston, Thompson & Cole, a former chief justice of the state Supreme court. Prof. Robert M. Millar of Northwestern university, also was one of the writers of the new act. It was sponsored by both the Chicago and the Illinois Bar associations.

Auto Blast Kills Wife; Wrecks Her Husband's Car

Portersville, Pa., July 31.—[Special.]—Mrs. James Rubright, about 25, who was estranged from her husband, a garage owner of Harmony, was blown to pieces today by an explosion which wrecked an automobile. The explosion occurred on a country lane three miles from here. A fragment of the car revealed the license plate and showed the car was registered in the name of her husband. The daughter of a nearby farmer said she heard the squeak of auto brakes about 1 o'clock this morning and then heard a man's voice. Then came the explosion, which the girl said was so violent she was thrown out of bed.

MYSTERY BLAST IN CZECH HOTEL KILLS 10, 50 HURT

Bomb Rips Out Entire Front of Building.

BRUNN, Czechoslovakia, July 31.—(AP)—A bomb explosion today in the four story Hotel Europa killed about ten persons and injured 50 others, several critically.

Scores of guests were buried in the wreckage when the blast tore away the entire front of the building and authorities had difficulty in determining the exact number of victims.

May Have Been Suicide Attempt.

After a hurried investigation, police said the bomb may have been set off by a man who wished to kill himself and his wife and child.

The entire city was rocked by the explosion and flames from the blast shot 200 feet into the air. The disaster occurred at 7:45 a. m. when most of the guests were in the hotel.

The first floor of the hostelry was demolished and windows of other buildings in the vicinity were broken.

Search Ruins All Day.

The rescue work was done by police, firemen and soldiers, who also were called on to maintain order among the frightened populace.

The search amid the ruins went on throughout the day under great difficulties, while officials sought to determine with certainty the cause of the explosion. Brunn, a city in west central Czechoslovakia, has a population of 263,646.

FALSE REPORTS ON FAIR TRACED TO RAIL OFFICES

Try to Discourage Auto Tourists.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., July 31.—[Special.]—Meryl Allyn, touring director of the Cleveland Automobile club, today accused railroads and their employés of spreading false reports about traffic and parking conditions in Chicago during A Century of Progress. The obvious motive is to discourage travel in private automobiles in favor of trains.

The World's Fair administration is concerned about these false reports since about 60 per cent of the attendance from beyond Chicagoland is coming by motor car. Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of the Exposition, said these adverse rumors were threatening the success of A Century of Progress and were dampening the Fair's benefits to Chicago's general business activities

Find Basis for Reports.

A cursory investigation disclosed some basis for Mr. Allyn's charge against the railroads. THE TRIBUNE reporter and George Barton, engineer for the Chicago Motor club, visited the Cleveland union terminal. In an office labeled "Passenger agents" a man at a desk hung up a telephone as the visitors entered.

"Can you give me the rates to Chicago?' 'he was asked.

He did.

"How are conditions for driving to Chicago?"

"Bad," he replied, "did you ever drive in Chicago? No? Well, you got an experience ahead of you. Traffic there is always tough and now they got the World's Fair jams."

"Can I get my car into the city?"

"People are leaving their cars in Indiana and using the trains."

Incorrect Parking Information.

"If I managed to drive into Chicago would I be able to park anywhere near the Exposition?"

"No," he replied emphatically, "and I got the straight dope in a letter from my company."

"Now if you want some more information on trains, I'll be glad to help you," he continued as the reporter and Mr. Barton moved toward the door as if to leave.

"May I telephone you?"the reporter asked. "What's your number?"

"Prospect 5000. Ask for Mr. Grady."

"And the initials?'"

"Mr. T. A. Grady."

"You're the passenger agent here?"

"Yes. The New York Central passenger agent."

True Facts Given Public.

For the benefit of Ohio automobile owners wishing to drive to the Fair the story was given to the Cleveland Plain Dealer for publication tomorrow morning with an accurate description of the ample facilities for motorists at A Century of Progress.

Mr. Barton and the reporter are touring the country in THE TRIBUNE roadster at the request of the Fair administration to disseminate accurate traffic, parking and hotel information designed to combat false reports that are hurting Eposition attendance and thereby hurting Chicago business.

The touring party ordered supplies of Fair literature for the Cleveland Automobile club and the Plain Dealer touring bureau as was done in Detroit yesterday, where racketeer salesmen for outlying Chicago parking lots were exposed as authors of reports that a private automobile could not approach the Exposition closer than three miles.

Boy Loses Life in Pool at Des Plaines Camp Ground

Franklin Smith 11 years old, 1441 Henry avenue, Des Plaines, lost his life while swimming yesterday in the pool of the Methodist camping ground at Des Plaines. His body was found, it was reported, in only three feet of water, and it was not determined whether he had drowned or had been a victim of heart disease. Efforts were made to revive the lad with an inhalator.

300 EX-POILUS SAIL TO SEE U. S.; WILL VISIT FAIR

LE HAVRE, France, July 31.—(AP)—A group of French war veterans sailed for New York today to return the visit of the American Legion to Paris for its 1927 convention. Nearly 300 former poilus are in the party, some to remain in the United States a week, others to stay a fortnight or more.

The trip will be a sightseeing tour for most of the veterans, who will see America for the first time. A Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago is on the itinerary of those remaining two weeks or more. It is planned to visit Chicago on Aug. 12.

The pilgrimage was organized by the Association of Former Service Men and War Wounded of Le Havre, whose president, Rodolphe Rufenacht, heads the party.

Drives Auto Twice Over Two Women Sun Bathers

Palo Alto, Cal., July 31.—(AP)—Two women sunbathers, stretched on the grass of a park, were run over twice by the same automobile yesterday. Ormando Ferdinani, the driver, told police he did not see the women, clad only in their bathing suits. He first backed the car over them. Their screams frightened him, and he drove forward—over them again. Physicians said the women had received severe abdominal injuries.

PREDICT HUGE FAIR CROWDS ON NATIONAL DAYS

Tomorrow Is for Irish and Thursday for Italians.

World's Fair Figures

Attendance figures for A Century of Progress Exposition and for corresponding periods at the 1893 Columbian Exposition follow:

Sunday, July 30, 1933	101,342
Sunday, July 30, 1893	18,906
Total to July 30, 1933 [65 days]	6,781,075
Total to July 30, 1893 [91 days]	6,485,413

The Columbian Exposition opened May 1. A Century of Progress opened May 27.

Entering its third month today, A Century of Progress will be the Mecca of several nationality groups during August. Eleven national days are on the calendar of events in addition to four state days and Farm week, Aug. 13 to 19.

The large crowds are expected to begin tomorrow, Irish day, which has its climax in the evening with the Irish boxers meeting the American champions in the Golden Gloves tournament at Soldiers' field.

Thursday is Italian day and the Fair officials believe the attendance from this intensely national group will ring up a red letter mark in admittance figures. Saturday brings the French-Canadian day and Philippine day and a diverse gathering from these two widely separated quarters of the globe is expected to bring colorful crowds and colorful events.

Swiss Day Next Sunday.

Next Sunday is Swiss day with its promise of the bright raiment of the Alpine country. The following Sunday is German day, affording the thousands of Chicago German-Americans an opportunity to inspect their newly opened building on Northerly island.

Aug. 17 opens a group of central European days, beginning with Ukraine. The 20th is Czechoslovak; the 23d, Hungarian day; the 27th, Austrian day, and on Aug. 31 Hollanders, natives of that tiny kingdom with far-flung outposts, will gather for Netherlands day.

There are more than 600 special musical events listed for the month, as well as lectures and motion pictures in halls throughout the grounds.

Farm week will offer an address by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace on Aug. 18. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt has been invited as the principal speaker on Farm Women's day. An answer is expected from her today. It is also possible that Henry Morgenthau Jr., governor of the farm credit administration, will be here during the week.

Observe New Mexico Day.

Yesterday was New Mexico day at the Exposition and a crack band made up of high school and college students from 16 towns in the state came to play for the Fair crowds, accompanied by Coe Howard, chairman of the state commission. The band led a delegation of New Mexicans from the Court of Honor to the Court of States, where Chairman Howard delivered the greetings of Gov. Arthur Seligman. Mrs. Howard, who accompanied her husband, is Democratic national committeewoman for New Mexico.

Marine observational apparatus was demonstrated yesterday on a ship's bridge installed in the lower hall of the Astronomical museum of the Adler planetarium. Petty officers from the fishing schooner Bluenose gave the demonstration under the direction of Prof. Philip Fox, director of the planetarium.

Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of the General Electric company, and his 14 year old son, Richard, were visitors at the Fair yesterday. Here only for pleasure, as he phrased it, Mr. Young was expansive in his acclaim of the Exposition, but declined to discuss politics or other national topics of the day. Mr. Young presented to Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Fair, a painting of the Electrical building by Walter L. Greene.

Yesterday's attendance attained a total of 94,570 at 11:30 p. m. The attendance for the 31 days of July rose to 4,026,166, a daily average of 129,876.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

Railroad traffic into Chicago during August promises to break all records, D. M. Bowman, passenger traffic manager of the New York Central lines, predicted yesterday. "Passenger agents from all points in the New York Central system have written me that advance reservations indicate a heavier traffic into Chicago next month than ever before," Mr. Bowman said. "Indications are that the railroads will exceed by far the new records which have been set during the first two months of the Exposition."

Chicago alumni of Brown university will have luncheon in the Trustees lounge of the Hall of Science Friday, with Gov. Theodore F. Green of Rhode Island, and Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Exposition, as chief guests. Gov. Green was graduated from Brown university in 1887.

A chorus from the Chicago civic opera will give a program on the floating theater in the north lagoon this evening from 8:15 to 10 o'clock. Soloists will be Ruth Lyon, soprano; Lucille Long, contralto; Oscar Colcaire, tenor, and Edward Davies, bass-baritone The chorus is directed by Attico Barnabini.

The Irish day program will be staged in the court of the Hall of Science tomorrow afternoon between 3 and 5 o'clock. D. J. McGrath, Irish Free State consul in Chicago; Judge John P. McGoorty, and Tom Peet Cross, noted Irish scholar, will speak, and there will be music by Phelim O'Gallagher, violinist; Miss Mary Agnes Doyle, pianist, and vocal solos by Robert Mahoney, tenor, and Miss Dorothy O'Reilly, soprano. The evening program will be the international Golden Gloves boxing matches, sponsored by THE TRIBUNE in Soldiers' field.

Two foreign groups of visitors to the Fair arrived yesterday on the Michigan Central railroad. One was a party of 36 former German university students, and the other a party of 19 Italians, both coming on tours sponsored by the Hamburg-American line.

Forty-three residents of Paola, Kas., pulled into Chicago yesterday by truck and passenger car to see the World's Fair. Thirty-six of them are boys ranging from 12 to 21 years of age. The rest are grownups, including four women.

The visitors will make their home in the basement of the Ashland Church of Christ, 62d and Laflin streets, during their stay. In charge of the party are the Rev. D. C. Doten, pastor of the First Christian church of Paola, and his wife. The Rev. Mr. Doten is a former member of the Chicago church.

The Illinois Central railroad, Chicago & Eastern Illinois railway, the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie railway, Chicago & North Western, and the Alton road are all offering unusually low excursion rates into Chicago the week-end of Aug. 11 to bring visitors to the Fair for Illinois day. Most of the excursion tickets provide for arrival in Chicago Thursday night with a return limit as late as Monday night.

The Chicago Roosevelt Steamship company announced yesterday that it will start operating the 154 foot yacht Margaret today on an afternoon and evening service between the Michigan avenue bridge and the 92d street bridge over the Calumet river. The yacht, with a capacity of 200 passengers, will leave its northern terminal at 3, 7 and 9:45 p. m., skirting the Fair grounds on its trips to South Chicago.

Railroads Keep Pace With Business

Business again is marching on, and the railroads as usual are keeping pace.

Many doubts were recently being expressed over the railroads. Traffic and earnings were suffering both from the general decline in business and from the inroads of other methods of transportation. It was hard to tell where one wound ended and another began. The outlook was anything but promising.

Now, however, business revives and with it railway traffic. Unfair competition remains, but that will be modified as aroused public interest is asserted in action.

The chain of interdependence which joins the railroads and business has been tested in the strain of depression, and it still holds.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

RAILROADS PROVIDE ESSENTIAL SERVICE

"Betty, darling, why dance when we can Terraplane? I've never ridden in such a car."

"Neither had I, till Ned brought this miracle home last week."

"After having driven 'all three', Patsy, the Terraplane stood out like a lighthouse."

"So say we all of us"

The rising chorus of Terraplane owners—strengthened by performance records, economy facts and experience convictions—is drowning out all comparisons.

Get a group of Terraplane owners together—anywhere in the world—and they sound like convention delegates all trying to nominate the same candidate.

"Never have to shift gears on hills."

"Get around every car on the road without effort."
"Not a cent for repairs in 29,000 miles."
"Smooth as a greyhound over a fence."
"More than 400 miles a day without fatigue."

That's the sort of thing they're saying. Ask them, and they'll tell you.

Even better, drive a Terraplane and you won't have to ask anybody!

BEATING OF AGED CUBAN WAR VETS STIRS U. S. ENVOY

Welles Eyewitness to Attack by Police.

BY GUSTAVO RENO.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, July 31. — After being an eyewitness to a clash this afternoon in which police battered aged veterans of Cuba's war for independence, American Ambassador Sumner Welles tonight demanded an immediate conference with President Gerardo Machado. The president will receive Mr. Welles tomorrow.

It is reported that the American ambassador will demand that Machado change his cabinet at once, including the removal of Gen. Alberto Herrera, former chief of the army staff, who now holds the combined post of secretary of war and navy. Herrera also is acting secretary of state in the absence of Orestes Ferrara.

Reported "in Flight."

It was reported tonight that Gen. Herrera and his wife are leaving for New York "for an indefinite vacation."

Carlos Manuel de Cespedes, former Cuban minister to the United States and a close friend of Mr. Welles, will replace Herrera permanently as secretary of state, it was stated.

Welles, it is reported, will also demand the removal of Octavio Zubizarreta, secretary of the interior, and Antonio Anciart, chief of police. Moreover, President Machado is expected to make a request to congress "for an indefinite leave of absence, due to ill health," soon. It may be acted upon soon after Cespedes becomes secretary of state, sources close to the government said.

Machado will make his request to congress for a "leave of absence" because, it is said, he wishes to avoid opposition charges of meddling in the next presidential election in November, 1934. Originally the president had planned not to request this leave before Feb. 24, 1934.

Political observers claim that such a move would not mean Machado's resignation, but a "relinquishment of executive powers." Secretary of State Ferrara, who represented Cuba at the world economic conference, is now at Naples. It is reported he will remain there indefinitely.

Today's police attack on civilians and war veterans was witnessed by Mr. Welles from the balcony of the American embassy. More than 200 veterans and civilians paraded to protest their inability to collect pensions.

Police Charge With Clubs.

Earlier the demonstration was broken up by police but the veterans reassembled in front of the embassy. Welles was waiting to receive a delegation when the police charged them with clubs. Hearing the shouts just outside, the ambassador rushed from his office to the balcony.

The veterans were beaten, shoved, and kicked by the police. Many of them had their clothes torn off in the clash.

Maj. Gen. Garcia Canizares, leader of the veterans' protest group, was seriously injured. He was struck on the head by a policeman's club. Many others sustained minor injuries. Nineteen veterans were arrested.

After order was restored, Welles heard the protests of several executives of the Cuban war veterans.

Add Track Meet for Negro Day at Fair August 12

Negro day at the Fair will be celebrated Aug. 12 with a track meet engaging famous Negro athletes in Soldier's field during the afternoon and a pageant, "The Epic of the Race," in the stadium at night. The announcement was made yesterday by Chandler Owen, executive director for the celebration, who said that 160,000 Negroes from all over the world are expected to attend.

ASKING WHO PUNCHED JOHN CONSIDINE JR. AT HOLLYWOOD PARTY

Hollywood, Cal., July 31.—[Special.]—John Considine Jr., motion picture studio executive and husband of Carmen Pantages, was knocked down, his left eye blackened, and his face and body covered with bruises at Norma Talmadge's "baby party" for movie stars, at one of the beach homes last Saturday night.

Considine was removed to Santa Monica hospital and attended by Dr. W. S. Mortensen, but when reached at the hospital today said he was unable to name his assailant.

Among the guests was Mae Sunday, former daughter-in-law of Billy Sunday, revivalist, who is declared on the verge of a breakdown over the affair, and Dave Harris, formerly of Chicago. Mrs. Sunday's escort to the party, Dave Harris also was declared to have been punched at the party, but no explanation of the pugilistic interlude was forthcoming.

HUNT VANDAL GUNMEN.

The Des Plaines street police yesterday were searching for three young gunmen who bound the watchman at the Mid-City Motoradio Service, 1216 West Jackson boulevard, and then wrecked a sign, valued at $500, which hung in front of the office.

FIRST STREET CAR OVER 12TH ST. LINE TO FAIR TODAY

The first street car will pass over the new Roosevelt road viaduct into Grant park and the World's Fair area at 9 o'clock this morning.

The Chicago Surface Lines worked night and day shifts on the viaduct during the last month to fulfill the promise of their officials that it would be open for traffic on Aug. 1. The street car lines spent $250,000 on the improvement, and the city an additional $90,000.

The Roosevelt road car line is extended from Wabash avenue to cross Michigan avenue at grade, then it turns south, ascends the viaduct, passes through the trainshed of the Illinois Central terminal, crosses the railroad's suburban right of way and turns south again, 700 feet, to a switchback where passengers will be unloaded.

Mayor Kelly and Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], chairman of the local transportation committee and leader of west side aldermen who have been fighting for years for a street car entrance to Grant park, have been invited to ride the first car over the viaduct. Civic organizations who sought the extension, led by Frank M. Dooley, also will take part in the celebration.

The viaduct will enable the carrying of between 18,000 and 20,000 passengers an hour to and from the Fair. Another 20,000 street car passengers may enter the Fair area hourly over the 23d street extension, which runs north to 18th street. Only Roosevelt road cars will run on the new route today, but Clark street cars will start using it tomorrow.

SHOOTS WIFE AND SELF IN HOTEL AT ST. CHARLES

Robert Finch, 33 years old, a salesman of toilet preparations, shot and wounded himself and his wife, Anne, 29 years old, in the Hotel Baker at St. Charles yesterday. Both were taken to the St. Charles hospital, where it was said Finch probably would die, but that Mrs. Finch had a chance for recovery.

The couple, former Chicagoans, had been residing since May in a summer cottage at Oak Ridge camp, three miles south of St. Charles. Finch summoned his wife to the hotel yesterday afternoon and without warning shot her. He then turned his weapon on himself.

A letter, addressed by the husband to his mother, Mrs. Jennie Seymour of 733 West 61st street, indicated that he was in financial difficulties and "tired of it all."

CULVER SUMMER STUDENTS HERE TO SEE THE FAIR

The 500 students of the Culver Military academy summer schools arrived in Chicago yesterday for a four day visit to the Fair. The midshipmen and woodcrafters' units are quartered in the Naval Reserve armory at Randolph street and the lake, and the summer school troopers are staying at the 122d field artillery armory.

The students will spend their mornings and afternoons visiting exhibits at the Fair and will tour the midway in the evenings. Last evening the summer school band gave a concert on the floating theater. Another concert will be given at 7:30 tonight in the court of the Hall of Science.

Tomorrow, Fair officials and army and navy officers will review the students in the Avenue of Flags, and at 8 o'clock in the evening the band will play at the boxing matches between the Golden Glove and the Irish fighters, sponsored by The Tribune.

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday totaled $591,395. A total of $30,415,445 has been collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began last April 28. The day's real estate collections and the uncollected taxes for four years are as follows:

	1928.	1929.
July 30	$ 19,392	$ 60,239
Uncollected	16,513,968	48,836,995
	1930.	1931.
July 30	$ 144,164	367,600
Uncollected	78,888,284	107,150,764

The day's collection of 1931 personal property taxes was $8,109.

Several phases of the collection of delinquent taxes under the Kerner-Skarda act were discussed yesterday at a conference of county officials called by County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki. A united stand was agreed upon as a means of speeding up collection under the act.

Judge Jarecki demanded that receivers appointed by him to collect back taxes be required to serve notice on all interested parties before submitting reports to the court for approval. It was agreed that all interested parties should be given five days' notice to enable them to examine reports and offer objections. This, it was said, will prevent any receivership scandals.

County Assessor J. L. Jacobs said the facilities of his office would be instantly available so that the judge could determine speedily whether tax objections have any merit.

Courtney Pledges Coöperation.

State's Attorney Courtney pledged immediate action on the part of his assistants in bringing foreclosure proceedings against properties where two forfeitures have been entered. It is hoped that foreclosure and sale of the property involved in such cases may be brought within 24 hours.

Judge Jarecki demanded a tabulation of properties on which owners have pledged themselves to pay a portion of delinquent taxes at regular intervals. These records are to be kept by the state's attorney's office and the county treasurer. When the owner fails to make a payment on the agreed date the property is to be thrown into receivership immediately by sending proper notification to the court, it was decided.

Another matter discussed at the conference was the suspension of the practice of remitting a portion of accrued tax penalties to property owners who declare intention of paying their bills. In the past such owners have been granted reductions of 25 and 50 per cent of the penalties, which are fixed at 1 per cent for each month of delinquency.

Reductions to Be Stopped.

Judge Jarecki said that this practice was discouraging the payment of delinquent taxes because owners do not hesitate to delay payments as long as they have hope of reductions. He announced that after Aug. 12 no deductions will be allowed.

In addition to Judge Jarecki, Assessor Jacobs, and Prosecutor Courtney, those who attended the conference are County Treasurer Joseph B. McDonough, his attorney, Thomas D. Nash; Assistant Treasurer Edward McCabe, Assistant Corporation Counsel William L. Sullivan, Assistant State's Attorneys William T. Crilly and Hayden Bell, and Attorney Robert Holt and Robert McCormick Adams, who represent groups of property owners.

Receiver for 64 Properties.

Judge Jarecki appointed the county treasurer as receiver for 64 delinquent properties. The properties, with back taxes due, are as follows:

BAR ANY STRIKE OF CITY WORKERS PERILING HEALTH

Civil Service Body Fires 8 More Teamsters.

City employés who are members of labor unions were forbidden yesterday to strike "at any time, any place or under any circumstances" if their walkout should have an injurious effect upon the health of the citizens of Chicago in a statement issued by the city civil service commission.

Richard J. Collins, president of the commission, issued the statement in connection with the discharge from the city service of eight chauffeurs who took part in the strike of city garbage and rubbish collectors called on May 28 by the outlaw teamsters' unions. The men were convicted on charges of being absent without leave, neglect of duty, insubordination and conspiracy to thwart the administration.

Insist on Arbitration.

The commission, in its statement, said:

"The civil service commission wishes it understood that where public health is involved, as it was in the case of this strike of garbage and rubbish collectors, it will not recognize the right, presumed or otherwise, to strike at any time, any place or under any circumstances. Matters of this kind should be settled by arbitration, as the health of the men, women and children of Chicago is of far more importance than disputes which may arise in union organizations.

"Mayor Kelly and State's Attorney Courtney have started to rid the city of Chicago of these so-called unions which are and have been a constant menace to the city, and the civil service commission stands ready to assist wherever possible in eliminating from the city pay roll the undesirables who for years have been mulcting the city and are more or less responsible for the financial plight the city is in at present.

Recognizes Legitimate Groups.

"The civil service commission is also ready to support and recognize any legitimate organization which gives to the city commensurate return for its members' pay checks and which is not ready to strike with or without provocation.

Charles O'Kelly, business agent of one of the outlaw teamsters' unions, was one of the employés dismissed yesterday. The others were Martin Carney, Charles J. Kuzel, William McMullen, Terry Penny, Sylvester Dwyer, John McCormick, and William McNichols.

Ten teamsters and chauffeurs who took part in the strike were tried and discharged from the city service last week on similar charges. Of the 275 men who took part in the original walkout the remainder are back at work. They were not permitted to return until they had withdrawn from the outlaw unions and joined unions of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor.

PUTS MARTIAL LAW OVER NEW ORLEANS IN GRAND JURY ROW

New Orleans, La., July 31.—(AP)—A battle between the district attorney's office and the grand jury over investigation into charges of fraud in last November's election was climaxed today by the declaration of martial law by Gov. O. K. Allen for the City of New Orleans "to such an extent as is necessary to protect the grand jury."

Declaration of martial law came two days before District Attorney Eugene Stanley planned to open the seized ballot boxes on order of Judge Alexander C. O'Donnell of Criminal District court. Judge O'Donnell refused to accept a "no true bill" from the grand jury after one of the jurors had told the court the grand jury report was being submitted without any examination of the boxes.

From the bench in open court, Judge O'Donnell ordered the district attorney, who had been superseded in the case by Attorney General Gaston L. Porterie, to take charge of the investigation, seize the ballot boxes and examine them on next Wednesday. The grand jury was driven from the room by deputies.

The ballots in question were on constitutional amendments, supported by the Huey P. Long faction. Totals from many of the precincts were identical and charges of fraud were filed. Before the charges were filed the amendments had been declared adopted and as a result state bonds have been issued.

New York, July 31.—[Special.]—The sanity hearing of Joseph W. Harriman was interrupted today when Mr. Harriman, returning to his seat at the defense table after the luncheon recess, fell forward on the table, on the verge of a faint. Smelling salts and spirits of ammonia revived him somewhat and he was led from the hot room.

Federal Judge Caffey, presiding at the hearing, ordered an adjournment after it was clear that the banker, who is being examined to see whether he is able to stand trial for misapplying the funds of the Harriman National Bank and Trust company, was not well enough to continue.

Called Morally Incompetent.

Mr. Harriman, after sitting through the morning session and hearing Dr. A. A. Brill describe him as mentally incompetent, was pale when he returned from lunch. The pallor grew, and finally his head dropped on the table. Mrs. Harriman and a nurse revived him and helped him out of the court room.

Dr. Menas Gregory, state alienist, examined Mr. Harriman and told the court that he had suffered a serious heart attack.

Dr. Brill, a noted psychiatrist who has been one of the chief defense witnesses, started in the afternoon session to describe the banker's diseases.

"Omit those technical names," Judge Caffey interrupted him. "Tell your story in plain English. Otherwise it is worthless."

Summarizes Ailments.

"In plain English Harriman is suffering from diabetes, which he has had for many years; from coronary thrombisis, a heart ailment; shock from the death of his son, shock from the illness of his wife, and shock from his financial difficulties, which led to the use of alcohol and drugs, which in turn impaired his mental faculties," Dr. Brill said.

"The whole condition is summed up in organic syndrome," the psychiatrist said, and he added that he knows from experience that people of Harriman's type tire readily, have gaps in their memory, and can coöperate very little in anything that requires continuous effort."

KILLS BABY; GETS LIFE.

Charleston, Mo., July 31.—(AP)—Cecil Watson, 28, pleaded guilty today to slaying his wife's 17 day old infant. He was sentenced to the penitentiary for life by Judge Frank Kelly.

SAM MILES ESTATE VALUED AT $440,167 NET IN APPRAISAL

New York, July 31.—(AP)—Samuel A. Miles, who managed the national automobile shows in New York and Chicago for nearly thirty years before he died on April 25, 1932, left a net estate of $440,167, it was reported today in a transfer tax appraisal.

Isabel R. Miles, whose relationship was not given, of Christmas Cove, Me., receives the residue of the estate, which is approximately $186,000.

QUIZZED ON SHOOTING.

Benton, Ill., July 31.—(AP)—Lloyd Dugger, 27, was wounded last night and is in a hospital here. Police held his father-in-law, Wiley Walker, for questioning.

U. S. GIVES MORE TO ILLINOIS FOR RELIEF FUNDS

Washington, D. C., July 31.—[Special.]—Harry L. Hopkins, federal emergency relief administrator, today made an additional grant of $4,240,000 to Illinois, with the understanding that it will be deducted from the quarterly amount due Illinois, on the matching basis, in October.

The Illinois Emergency Relief commission said that this additional amount was needed, pending revenue from the recently enacted state sales tax.

Illinois has previously received $13,817,367 from the federal emergency relief administration. The total received to date is $18,057,367.

NAB 4 INDICTED IN RACKET WAR AT LAKE HOTEL

Plan to Fight Extradition from Wisconsin.

Four men who were indicted with twenty others in the racket conspiracy investigation last week were arrested late last night at Brown's lake, two miles east of Burlington, Wis., by policemen from State's Attorney Courtney's office and Wisconsin authorities.

They are Al Borris, president of the inside helpers' branch of the Cleaners and Dyers' union; Ben Abrams, business agent for the inside helpers; James Gorman, president of the Retail Cleaners and Dyers' organization, and Charles Goldstein, a business agent for Gorman.

During the night seven detectives from the state's attorney's office, headed by Investigator Stark and Sergts. Walsh and Moones, accompanied by Capt. Vested Jensen of the Racine county sheriff's office, went to Moore's Lakeside hotel, where the four Chicago men were staying. The Chicagoans were out and the policemen waited for their return. They were taken to the county jail at Racine pending removal to Chicago. Gorman and the others said they would fight extradition.

Another development in the racket case during the day was the surrender of Morris I. Kaplan, attorney, and F. Walter Crowley, master cleaner, two of the twenty-four men indicted. They posted bonds of $10,000, given by the United States Fidelity and Guaranty company. Benjamin M. Squires, university economist, another defendant, is expected to surrender today.

State's Attorney Courtney last night completed the preparation of papers necessary to procure extradition of another defendant, Aaron Sapiro, New York lawyer, who has announced that he will resist being returned here for trial. Meanwhile, it was learned, the state's attorney's office is pushing investigation of the Trucking and Transportation agency [T-N-T], with a view toward indicting the promoters as racketeers. The twenty-four already named were involved in three industries—cleaning and dyeing, laundries, and carbonated beverages.

FUND FOR SLAIN POLICEMEN'S KIN RISES TO $4,216

Memory of 1927 Courtesy Brings a Gift.

A policeman's courtesy to a stranger in Chicago back in 1927 brought a contribution yesterday to THE TRIBUNE Police Hero fund.

"Enclosed please find my check for $5 for the Police Hero fund in appreciation of a courtesy of one of the many fine police officers showed me when I got in a traffic jam in your city in September, 1927," read the letter accompanying the contribution. The letter was signed by Frank G. Hofer, manager of the Rainbow hotel, Great Falls, Mont.

A total of $599 received yesterday, headed by a $200 contribution from the Chicago Title and Trust company, gave the Police Hero fund a grand total of $4,216.10, raised since the fund was inaugurated a week ago today. The fund was established following the killing the previous day [July 24] of John Sevick, a policeman, in the Criminal Court building, by a bullet from a smuggled weapon.

Praised by Company Official.

"You are to be commended for your recognition of the splendid service being rendered to the citizens of Chicago by the police department under the leadership of Commissioner Allman, in the collection and disbursement of your Tribune Police Hero fund," wrote Kenneth E. Rice, vice president of the Title and Trust company.

One of three $100 contributions was from Oscar Mayer & Co. Oscar Mayer, president, wrote: "The brutal murder of Policeman Sevick has again deeply shocked the community and reemphasized the unparalleled arrogance and brutality of the present day criminal. We hope with the fine coöperation which has developed between federal, state, municipal authorities and the press to fight gangdom, crime can now be successfully combated."

Superior Judge James J. Kelly, writing from Mayo Brothers' clinic, Rochester, Minn., where he is under observation for an illness, sent $25 for the fund and said he expected to be back in Chicago within a few days to help the judges in the Criminal court.

City Officials Voice Praise.

Ten dollars came from James F. Melody, treasurer for the Fred J. Ringley company [printers], in response to Mayor Kelly's appeal through THE TRIBUNE for residents to contribute to the fund.

In the city hall yesterday the fund was praised by several public officials, who urged the public to contribute. Among them were Ald. George A. Williston [49th], chairman of the city council committee on police; Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works; Robert B. Upham, city controller; and Ald. W. A. Rowan [10th], John Toman [23d], James C. Morelarid [41st], and Arthur G. Lindell [9th].

The contributions received yesterday were:

$100—Armstrong Paint and Varnish works, Oscar Meyer & Co., Archibald Freer.
$50—Anonymous.
$25—Judge James J. Kelly.
$10—The Fred J. Ringley company.
$5—Mrs. Walter S. Dray, Frank G. Hofer.
$2—Aimee Greenbaum, G. G.
Total ..... $ 599.00
Previously acknowledged 3,617.10
$4,216.10

Contributions should be made payable to the Police Hero fund and sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

Curb Release of Habitual Criminals, U. S. Official Asks

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

The ease with which habitual criminals attain liberty constitutes one of the first of the abuses which must be corrected in order to make more effective the warfare on organized crime, in the opinion of J. Edgar Hoover, director of the bureau of investigation at Washington, who prepared a paper on the crime situation which was read for him yesterday at the opening convention of the International Association of Chiefs of Police at the Hotel Sherman.

"The problems of organized gang warfare and the defiance by desperate armed criminals of the forces of society and civilization may no longer be ignored," he said. "A recent illustration of this armed defiance occurred on June 17 last at the Union station plaza at Kansas City, Mo. This was but one of many instances.

Accept Criminals' Challenge.

"It is a challenge to law and order and civilization itself, and those of us who represent the police forces of the country, both state and national, have accepted the challenge. Those who participated in this coldblooded murder will be hunted down. Sooner or later the penalty which is their due will be paid.

"There is one condition of too frequent abuse which needs prompt adjustment. Too many habitual criminals are at liberty. Too many are roaming our streets and highways intent upon violence, kidnaping, murder or any crime that will enable them to inflict their bloody will upon society.

"Frank Nash [who participated in the Kansas City murder] is an example of the costly mercy that is accorded to criminals of this type. On Sept. 13, 1913, he was received at the state penitentiary at McAlester, Okla., to serve a life sentence on conviction of murder. On July 10, 1918, less than five years from entering this penitentiary, he was granted a full pardon. In December, 1919, he was convicted and sentenced to serve 25 years in Oklahoma state penitentiary for burglary. In December, 1922, he was discharged.

The Cost of Sentimentalism.

"Something is decidedly wrong with a system which may be so abused as to place expressions of sentimentality before the proper protection of society. Theories are pleasant companions in the study or conference room of the sentimentalist or the professional humanitarian, but these theories have exacted a bloody toll of gallant police officers throughout the country, who have been compelled to confront the recipients of mercy, not reformed or regenerated, but with death dealing machine guns in their hands. The place for criminals, habitual criminals, is behind prison walls."

Mr. Hoover suggested that it be made more difficult for criminals to obtain firearms and that the police be better armed. It is not a time, he said, to diminish forces, limit resources, or withdraw support.

"If only a fraction of the tribute paid to racketeers were added to the maintenance of adequate, well trained, and properly equipped agencies," he declared, "it would be a far seeing economy and contribute to a more wholesome national existence."

Urges Defiance of Criminals.

Mr. Hoover advised citizens receiving threatening requests or demands to communicate immediately with the authorities and "defy these sewer rats who pursue this ancient piratical game." The individual citizen, he said, should see that no political influence plays a part in the selection of members of law enforcing bodies, and that police officials are properly paid.

The federal government, Mr. Hoover said, may render the local police assistance in kidnaping cases, and his agents have been instructed to act promptly on the assumption that a federal law has been violated. He pleaded for greater coöperation among police agencies.

"I want to pay tribute," he said, "to those 5,941 battle fronts, representing the law enforcement agencies who have joined with this bureau in building up the largest reservoir of criminal records based on finger prints in the world. More than 3,790,000 finger print records are increased by 2,200 each day, with 45 per cent resulting in identifications. With an international exchange embracing 41 foreign countries, a single finger print file on 1,600 known kidnapers and extortionists, and a large increase in fugitives identified, there is progress along the line in this library of 'Who's Who in Crime.'"

WOES PILE UP FOR FAMILY OF SLAIN POLICEMAN

James Lutke, 3, Keeps On Watching for Dad.

James Lutke, 3 years old, can't quite understand that his policeman daddy won't be coming home any more. Those two were pals—big Stanley Lutke, who was so proud of his only son, and little Jim, with a head of short blonde curls. Since April 30, when a gunman's bullet crashed into his forehead as he pursued a criminal fleeing from the place of a holdup, the father's absence has never ceased to distress the bewildered child, who cries and calls for him and frequently refuses to eat.

That is only one of the troubles that have beset Mrs. Estelle Lutke, the widow, now of 3711 Bernard street. She has moved twice since the tragedy in an effort to fit her expenses to her income and to care for her brood of four children.

Delay in Pay Adds to Woes.

Sickness has been frequent in the household and there had been no pay checks for five months until the day before the father's death. Then he received his salary for two weeks, handing it over to his wife with a flourish, remarking at the time:

"There'll be another one on Monday. Then you can go and buy some of the clothes you need." He didn't live to collect the next.

Inevitably there were debts. You can't keep a family of six sheltered and clothed and fed when the pay checks stop unless you borrow. So the Lutkes had borrowed and borrowed until obligations of $700 confronted Mrs. Lutke when she was left alone. There were funeral expenses, too. So she sighed with relief when she learned that part of the money he had borrowed had been used by this father to pay up his long past due premiums in the Policemen's Benefit association only a few days before.

Death Benefit Gives Even Start.

That foresight brought a check for $2,000, which wiped out the debts and defrayed the funeral costs. After the children had been provided with necessary clothing and moving expenses paid there was only a small balance to put in the bank. Recently a friend offered to rent them a flat for a modest sum, so Mrs. Lutke moved again.

The police pension fund now supplies her sole income, $150 a month. When there are four children to educate and support $150 will go just so far and no further, she pointed out yesterday.

OPEN COURT WAR ON GUNMEN; 3 GET MAXIMUM

Prison Terms Given to 2 Other Criminals.

Leonard Murphy was assigned specially to the case of Theodore Marcinkiewicz, 25, and Joseph Majczek, 24, who shot and killed Policeman William Lundy, 58, when he interrupted them in the robbery of the grocery of Mrs. Vera Wulash, 4312 South Ashland avenue. The prosecution has been ready for trial since Feb. 2, but continuances have been obtained by the defense, Prosecutor Niemeyer said. Murphy was told to push the case and get it to trial as soon as possible.

Scheck Trial Due Tomorrow.

Trial of John Scheck and Carl Grundhoefer, gunmen who killed Policeman John Sevick in attempting to escape from Judge Charles P. Molthrop's court a week ago yesterday, is to be held on the call and tried at the first opportunity, Judge Prystalski said. The charge of murdering a bank cashier is on call for tomorrow before Judge Hall, but Attorney James M. Burke, who represents some of the defendants in the case, is now engaged in another murder trial.

Attorney Burke is one of the lawyers in the trial of John Rooney, secretary of the Circular Distributors' union; Henry B. Berry, business agent of the union, and Miss Rosalie Rizzo, sweetheart of Rooney. They are charged with having murdered Stanley Gross, a watchman for a Goldblatt Brothers department store, because of union difficulties. The jury in this case was unexpectedly completed yesterday before Judge Harry B. Miller and the taking of evidence will start today. The prosecution is asking the death penalty.

The fact that certain lawyers such as Burke make a specialty of trying criminal cases and become counsel for many defendants at the same time will not stop the trial of these cases, the chief justice said. The cases will be held on the call and disposed of one after another.

Gun Carrier Is Sentenced to 30 Days in Bridewell

Judge Howard Hayes in the Felony court yesterday sentenced John Lupke, 24 years old, 2014 South Ashland avenue, to 30 days in the bridewell and fined him $25 on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. Lupke's sister-in-law, Anna Lupke, was accidentally killed by policemen on June 12 when Lupke exchanged shots with them in the belief they were robbers.

AUTO CLUB HIRES OWN DETECTIVES TO CURB THEFTS

30 Pinkerton Men to Trace Members' Stolen Cars.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 83; recovered, 69; stripped, 9 [from Chicago police records for the twenty-four hours ending midnight Sunday].

The Chicago Motor club announced yesterday that it has engaged thirty Pinkerton Detective service operators to begin a campaign against automobile thievery, which is costing Chicago motorists $10,000,000 annually.

The club also announced that henceforth the cars of all club members will be specially protected by Pinkerton watchmen when parked on loop streets or in business districts throughout the city.

Send Out Windshield Stickers.

Special windshield stickers which announce, "This automobile is protected by Pinkerton service," now are in the mails to all the club members, said Joseph I. Cavanagh, general manager of the motor club. With these pasted beside the city vehicle license tags, all the 65,000 motor club members' automobiles will be plainly marked.

Such cars will receive special watching by the 100 uniformed watchmen whom the Pinkerton service has assigned to office and business houses throughout Chicago. The thirty operatives will be delegated to find stolen cars of motor club members, to trace stolen accessories, and to bring about the seizure by police of gangs of automobile thieves, fences, and the crooked garage men who buy stolen parts and thus create a market for thievery.

Standing Reward of $200.

"The club also is posting a standing reward of $200 for the arrest, conviction, and incarceration of automobile theft racketeers operating any phase of the racket," added Mr. Cavanagh.

CONFIDENCE VOTE GIVEN QUEZON BY FILIPINO SENATE

MANILA, P. I., July 31.—(AP)—Manuel Quezon clinched control of the Philippine legislature today when the senate rejected his resignation as its president and reiterated confidence in him. The vote for rejection was 16 to 5 with three senators abstaining from voting.

The senate then voted 15 to 2 to accept the resignation of Sergio Osmeña as president pro tempore and floor leader for the dominant Nacionalista party. Osmeña, with Manuel Roxas, until recently speaker of the house, has championed outright acceptance of the independence act to some parts of which Quezon objects.

Quintin Paredes, an ally of Quezon, was elected speaker of the house.

DETAILS OF HOW ANDORRA WON 'LIBERTY' BARED

Grim Shotgun Squad Guards Tiny Republic.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ANDORRA, July 31.—Though considerable pageantry accompanied Saturday and Sunday's bloodless revolution in which this pocket state in the Pyrenees rose in armed defiance of its co-princes and in defense of its 1,000 year old independence, the colorful details didn't get out until today. The reason was that all communications were cut—namely, the one telephone line.

On Saturday the white corps, a group of stalwart shotgun artists, guarded all roads leading into the tiny capital, it has been revealed. President Roc Pala and the council general of 24 members barricaded themselves in their capitol building, called the "house of the valleys." They refused to allow the ouster pronounced against them June 24 by the co-princes to be carried out.

Andorra's co-princes are the bishop of Urgel of Spain and the head of the French state as represented by the prefect of Perpignan in a joint suzerainty which they have held since 1278.

Minions Appear at Palace.

Two minions of the princes, called veguers, one French and one Spanish, presented themselves at the "house of the valleys" at 10 a. m., with documents in hand. They found the gate locked. Guarding it was the newly organized Andorran constabulary that was supposedly under the orders of the princes until then. It was also discovered that of the 5,000 inhabitants of the land 3,000 had come to town on burros and in mule carts. They were standing about with weapons in their hands. Their voices were menacing.

The veguers knocked three times at the gates of the capital and summoned those within to open in the name of their lords, the president of France and the Spanish bishop of Urgel. They received no answer except grumbles from the crowd. Then they read aloud the order of June 24, pronounced by the corts—the Andorran high tribunal appointed by the princes—in which Roc Pala was relieved of his office and the general council dissolved. Then they called upon the president and council to evacuate the building and turn it over to a provisional council of 12 members whom the princes had named to succeed them.

Still receiving no answer, they shouted that they would give the president and parliament two hours of grace and stalked off through the hostile mob.

Even Mules Stampede.

The council went into a heated session and late yesterday afternoon cast the die for defiances. So violent was discussion within and without the "house of the valleys" that the mules of the out of town citizenry, corralled in the town square, stampeded. The animals had to be soothed by the vigilantes who had been called out for the nobler business of defending the valleys against the French and Spanish.

After the die was cast the chief men of the council sallied forth midst the cheers of their countrymen to find the veguers. They told them that the Andorrans are a free people and would settle their problems, which are plenty, without further interference by the princes. They announced that the princes' jobs from now on, if they wish to kep them, will be only decorative. They further announced the using of their powers to call elections. In these elections the patriarchal system, against which Andorran youth rose in April, will be abolished and all men over 24 allowed to vote. This means a huge majority against foreign interference.

Such goings on in any land, big or small, mean a revolution. The French veguer made this clear: "Andorra is to all intents and purposes French and this will have to be proved once and for all. If the Andorrans do not climb down from their high horse, we will blockade their frontier."

This is a sinister threat since most of the Andorrans pass their time at smuggling.

Shotgun Squad Stands By.

As soon as the council took its historic decision, all communications with the outside world were cut off. The constabulary and volunteer shotgun squad is standing by lest "Prince" Albert Lebrun sends his gendarmes to reestablish authority.

Feeling in the valleys is running high, not because of enthusiasm for their government, which sometimes is said to dabble in graft, but against imposition from without. The council in face is unpopular because of its passions for granting foreign concessions and organizing local monopolies. The most outrageous monopoly is the cherry monopoly, according to many Andorrans.

The council today received a tempting offer from a German visitor to arrange Andorra's entry into the league of nations, giving her the protection of the covenant. This follows another German offer to establish a monster radio station.

MRS. BASS MADE U. S. NARCOTICS SUPERVISOR HERE

First Woman to Hold This Federal Job.

Mrs. George Bass has been appointed supervisor of narcotics for the ninth federal district, with headquarters at Chicago. Mrs. Bass, reached at her suite in the Congress hotel yesterday, confirmed dispatches from Washington announcing her appointment.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Bass appeared before Collector of Customs Anthony Czarnecki and asked if he could administer the oath of office. The collector is not empowered to administer the oath, but he made the necessary arrangements with United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker, and Mrs. Bass appeared before the commissioner a little while later and was sworn in.

A Veteran in Politics.

The appointment marks the first time that a woman has held this position. Mrs. Bass, who was one of the first women in the country to become nationally prominent in politics, said that she had not as yet had time to acquaint herself with the situation, but understood that she would be in charge of a department of about 35 persons, with offices, temporarily at least, in the United States postoffice building.

"I expect to be on the job tomorrow and to find the work very interesting," she told an interviewer. "I am under the treasury department, of course, and after the new postoffice is opened may move into the old federal building, but that isn't settled yet."

Active in Campaign.

For many years one of the stanchest members of the Democratic party, Mrs. Bass was particularly active in the last presidential campaign. She was one of the earliest Roosevelt supporters in the central states, and was in charge of the pre-convention organization of women in the central states under the Roosevelt banner. Her allegiance in this instance was personal as well as political, as she has known the Franklin Roosevelt family well for a number of years.

COST OF JUNICR HIGH CHANGES IS PUT AT $125,000

Alterations Are Planned in Eleven Buildings.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

James B. McCahey, president of the board of education, announced yesterday that the cost of converting eleven junior high school buildings into senior high schools under the plan of reorganizing the school system would be less than $125,000. Leaders of the "Save Our Schools" committee, which is protesting against the board's economy program, had declared that the cost would be between $500,000 and $1,000,000.

The estimate of cost announced by Mr. McCahey was prepared by John Christensen, school architect. It was based on the requirements laid down by Supt. William J. Bogan, who has returned to his desk after an illness.

Calls $125,000 Sufficient.

According to Mr. Christensen the $125,000 to be spent will take care of all the chemistry and physics laboratory adjustments and the plumbing, ventilating, and electrical work that needs to be done in line with the superintendent's plan for the conversion of a junior high into a senior high school. In addition, much of the needed laboratory equipment has been found in stock.

The junior high schools upon which alterations will be made are the Amundsen, Farragut, Foreman, Harper, Hirsch, Kelly, Kelvyn Park, Manley, Sullivan, Von Steuben, and Wright.

Mr. McCahey asked for action when he called in the department heads for a conference earlier in the day. Mr. Christensen declared that, in keeping with the president's request work on removing 336 portables clustered around school plants in Chicago would begin Monday.

Removal of the portables, some of them 20 years old, is the result of the board's program for the elimination of the junior high school type of instruction and provision of comfortable seats for thousands of Chicago school children.

Portable Never Comfortable.

The Chicago school portable has been an eyesore for many years. One story high and coated with tin, the portable has never been properly ventilated, school officials say. In the winter heat was furnished by a galvanized iron stove, which made the area near the stove extremely hot, while at the corners of the classroom the pupil exhaled a frosty breath. On warm days the tin on the exterior of the portable held the heat of the sun and made the shanty classroom uncomfortably hot.

Seats from the portables will be transferred to high and elementary school buildings. The work will be done by the sixty-six carpenters of the school board, paid out of the building fund. Mr. Christensen pointed out that the huge deficit which the board is trimming down by its economy program, is in the educational fund. The building fund has a surplus.

Household arts and manual training rooms in approximately 300 elementary schools will be converted into regular classrooms for the children who would otherwise be housed in portables.

Draw Up New Statement.

Supt. Bogan and Benjamin F. Buck, assistant superintendent of schools, began yesterday to prepare a statement regarding the operation of the board's program in the light of the rules laid down by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

It had been charged that the Chicago high schools would be taken off the accredited list because of the changes in the system and that in the future graduates would have to pass entrance examinations for universities and colleges.

One of the economy measures adopted was that high school teachers should handle seven classes instead of five as in the past. The association rules set forth that the maximum number of classes for a high school teacher should be six.

The Chicago high schools have violated rules of the association for many years, but beyond warnings against the practice no other action has been taken. One of the rules is that no teacher should have more than 30 pupils in a class. The classes in the Chicago high schools, however, have been as large as 35 or 40 pupils.

Board's Foes Appeal to Horner.

The "Save Our Schools" committee, which maintains that the board's economy program is unjust, sent a telegram to Gov. Horner requesting a conference before Thursday.

The committee, which plans to visit the governor, is composed of Mrs. Holland Flagler, president of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers; Mrs. Frederick Bradshaw, education chairman, Illinois State Federation of Women's clubs; Mrs. Emil Levy, Chicago Woman's club; Harriet Forman, Illinois Child Labor association; James E. White, chairman of the education of war orphans committee of the American Legion; Christ Brix, editor of the North West Town Journal; Mrs. Thomas B. Stephenson, parent-teacher leader; Aaron Kline, president of the Chicago principals' club; Harold Howe, attorney; Mrs. William F. Dummer and John J. Oros.

The committee is continuing to organize meetings of protest against the economy program in various sections of the city. Last night a protest meeting was held in Cornell square at 51st and Wood streets. The speakers were Dr. Clinton C. Cox, pastor of the Drexel Park Presbyterian church, and Calvin Weeks of the University of Chicago settlement.

Leaders of the organized protest are planning a mass meeting in Soldiers' field within the next two weeks.

KILLS POLICEMAN DURING RAID ON HIS HOTEL ROOM

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 1 [Tuesday].—(AP)—A 68 year old itinerant razor blade salesman and a 14 year old girl were jailed today after more than 50 policemen and National Guardsmen armed with machine guns and tear gas had surrounded a hotel following the fatal shooting of a policeman.

Only one shot was fired and that, police said, was when the man Pleas "Grumpy" Moore stuck the muzzle of an army rifle through the partly kicked-in door of his room and killed Policeman Ernest Purgatory, 26, who with two other officers was attempting to arrest him.

The shooting occurred about midnight and for more than a half hour afterward Moore held the policemen and guardsmen, here in connection with the coal mine war outbreak, at bay with threats that he would shoot.

The girl, Lilian Howard, daughter of A. S. Howard of Christopher, Ill., a guest in the hotel, was accused, police said, of being in the room with Moore and was taken into custody for questioning by State's Attorney Alfred Greening. She denied the charge.

Delays Till Today Fining Autoists Lacking Licenses

Municipal Judge Eugene Holland yesterday extended for one day the deadline for fines against automobile owners not having state and city licenses. Those appearing in court today on this charge will be fined, he said, and it was expected that the fine will be $5 and costs of $5.

Two Seized as Suspects in Slaying Are Set Free

Charles Gordon, 32 years old, and John Olson, 33 years old, 1120 Lawrence avenue, who were held in connection with the slaying of Thomas Ferdinardo, alcohol peddler, were freed yesterday by Judge Leon Edelman. The police said they had no evidence to connect Gordon and Olson with the murder. A charge of accessory to murder against Clyde Gallagher, bartender in the tavern where Ferdinardo was slain last Friday, was continued to Aug. 16 in the Felony court.

THOUSANDS ARE KILLED OR INJURED WHEN BLOW-OUTS THROW CARS OUT OF CONTROL
JOHN, WHAT WOULD HAPPEN IF WE HAD A BLOW-OUT GOING SO FAST?

✕ THIS MARKS THE SPOTS where your car may land when a blow-out occurs.

NEW LIFE-SAVING TIRE PREVENTS CAUSE OF BLOW-OUTS

Tests prove this new tire is 3 times safer at high speeds

Heat generated inside the tire separates rubber and fabric—starts "invisible blisters", which grow and grow until "BANG"... a blow-out.

The exclusive Goodrich Life-Saver Golden Ply resists heat... makes the new Safety Silvertown 3 times safer from blow-outs at high speeds.

UNFORTUNATELY you can't pick your spots when a blow-out happens. They never occur that way. Blow-outs come when you least expect them... when steep cliffs yawn or ditches beckon... BANG! The rim hits the road... you're headed for trouble. Don't—for your own sake or your family's—let blow-outs endanger you.

What causes blow-outs

Today's high speeds—40, 50, 60 and 70—generate terrific heat inside your tire. Rubber and fabric separate. A blister forms... inside... where you can't see it... and GROWS... until ... BANG! A blow-out! And your car shoots madly off the road.

To protect you from blow-outs, every new Goodrich Safety Silvertown Tire has the amazing Life-Saver Golden Ply. This new invention resists intense heat. Rubber and fabric don't separate. Thus, blisters don't form inside the tire. Blow-outs are prevented before they even start.

At gruelling speeds, on the world's fastest track, the new Goodrich Safety Silvertown Tires lasted 3 times as long as first quality tires that did not have this feature. These Silvertowns never blew. They were run till the tread was gone—but the Life-Saver Golden Ply simply refused to give.

The tread, too, is safer from skidding. Scientific tests with leading makes of tires prove that the new Goodrich Silvertown has the most skid-resisting tread. Its squeegee drying action gives your car extra road-grip and reduces danger of skidding to a minimum.

Remember, Goodrich Safety Silvertowns cost not a single penny more than standard tires. Have a set put on your car NOW!

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

KEEPING THE PEACE WITH JAPAN.

Recent cables from the far east have carried semi-official Japanese protests against alleged American activities in China and against alleged Chinese concessions to the United States, such as one for a naval base near Amoy and another giving military air rights in exchange for material and money. The reports appear to be concocted of imaginary material for purposes not clear. The only basis conceivable, so far as the acts of the American government are known, is the $50,000,000 wheat and cotton loan. Nevertheless the reports increase the legend of a portentous ill will.

When Americans hear the report that the Japanese are resentful and looking for trouble with the United States they are frequently unable to understand why this should be so. Americans are not conscious of any hostility to Japan, and although the two peoples are temperamentally different, it is difficult to perceive in this country why there should be the frequent premonition of a grave situation to be confronted in the future.

When Mr. Stimson was secretary of state he adopted various provocative policies to which the American people paid very little attention. They knew from reading his pronouncements what he was doing, but it was hard for them to view the matter with any great concern. It was different with the Japanese. Every time Mr. Stimson put himself across the front of a Japanese movement the Japanese people saw, not an American secretary of state, but the American people. As the Japanese considered their own destiny, or what they propose should be their destiny, they saw in front of them the obstructing figure of the United States.

From time to time it is the practice of diplomatists handling their internal affairs to encourage a national dread of some outside interference. In doing so they can rally national sentiment more completely to their support and can handle domestic opposition more easily. It may be that from time to time Japanese authority has been not unwilling that the Japanese people should have their minds diverted by a feeling that the United States was deliberately hostile to their national development.

Mr. Stimson's numerous interventions made it easy for such a picture of the United States to be painted in the orient. All the troubles which Japan has encountered in the league of nations, all the moral stigma which has been attached to its Manchurian operations and the isolation resulting from moral pronouncements, could be attributed to the activities of an American secretary of state. Mr. Stimson was not responsible for everything said and done, but his was generally the quickest word and he seemed always to be out six jumps ahead of any one else.

It must be said that the Japanese military did not make many concessions to public sentiment the world over, and numerous blunders created an adverse opinion. The American friendliness for China has survived many international incidents which might have destroyed it. There was a time when the Chinese were mobbed in the United States with much brutality, but a later day humanitarianism and restricted immigration laws healed the breach. Many incidents in our Japanese relations left difficulties which remain, although without fundamental cause. Ever since the Russian-Japanese war there has been more tart interchange between the two governments than would have been desired by advocates of friendly relations.

When we get down to the underlying facts in Japanese-American relations there is every reason for friendly intercourse. The two peoples are good customers of each other in commerce and they meet in the market of supply and demand more often than in competition. Commercially the two peoples meet each other very much more amiably than they do politically, but the causes of their political troubles are not fixed, but are removable. Our immigration policy is offensive to the Japanese spirit in a way we could understand if we would change positions. The United States could remove that cause of irritation without any apparent injury to itself, and it has been urged frequently with a good show of reason that the Japanese be put in this respect upon terms of equality with other great powers.

It should not be necessary to urge that American policy be directed to removing superficial causes of irritation and that American friendship to both Japan and China be extended in a way that would be convincing, with the hope that both these nations will be able to find a satisfactory equilibrium in conditions favorable to a settlement of their controversies upon terms realistic enough to be stable and not wholly unidealistic.

BARWICK CUTS A MELON AND COMES TO THE FAIR.

Barwick, Ga., has visited the Fair. A few of the elder residents remained at home to take in the mail and care for the critters, but otherwise Barwick took to the road in a big produce truck equipped and supplied for a comfortable journey. Placards on the sides told the world. Barwick is out of the hard times. As a town that's making good to another that's made good, Chicago would have presented the key of the city to Barwick, but the visitors slipped in ahead of the news about them.

The Georgia town traveled on watermelons. Three hundred cars of them preceded the journey on which the townspeople are taking their holiday. The growers made $45,000 by producing and selling a farm crop. They headed for Chicago and now they will swing on east, one port of call being Washington, where they may be received as interesting exhibits of the vanishing Americans. They made good on their own. They did not get out and plow under, but produced a profitable crop for which a market was waiting.

While Barwick was taking a fling to celebrate the return of prosperity the first pay check was handed ceremoniously in Washington to the first cotton farmer entitled to it for plowing under part of his cotton crop. He was paid $517 for destroying 49 acres of cotton he had planted this year, impressed at planting time, no doubt, by reports of a cotton shortage caused by overproduction and decrease in demand. The old order and the new. There will be some regrets for the old.

Barwick, in celebrating, chose the principal objective of the festivities with rare good judgment. Chicago also has raised a melon crop. It's being cut every day on the lake front. Come again, neighbor, and make yourself at home.

THE FIGHTS AT SOLDIERS' FIELD.

The Golden Gloves contests have always aroused great popular interest, culminating as they do now for the third time in an international event. Of these three, unquestionably the Irish boxers have caused the greatest enthusiasm, although the French and Germans in turn were received with cordiality. It may be hard to tell tomorrow night who is fighting for the Chicago region and who against it. There'll probably be times when the Irish boys will seem to be the local champions. They'll be certain at least that they are not fighting on an alien shore. The French boys were received as gallant experimenters in a sport which had produced some good professionals but had not been developed to a high amateur status. Everybody was very glad when the French visitors made so creditable a showing.

The Germans came as more formidable opponents, too formidable, it was feared. The Chicago team had taken it on the chin from New York and it was feared was not quite good enough for these redoubtable Germans, and indeed until young Rothier stepped out to win his bout it seemed as if all the expectations were to be realized. The bouts ended with an even score and Chicago felt that it pulled out very well indeed. The Irish come with a greater reputation even than the Germans. They have won all their international bouts and are rugged fighters each of them. The fanciers say the Chicagoans box better but that the Irish are dangerous with every punch.

The Irish are Connolly, Hennelly, Hearns, Mulligan, etc. The Yankees are Caserio, Marek, Pacek, etc., children of the open door through which for so many years came sturdy additions to the strength of the American people and, for the greater part, fortunate modifications of the older stock. For centuries the invader tried to drive the Irish into the bogs, possess their lands and overrun their country. The trials consolidated the Irish people against penetration and infiltration. America, until it reached the saturation point, welcomed adventurous and ambitious people from almost every land, and from each land it added something to its store, claiming each new citizen as an American and finding him one, not superficially but deep in his consciousness.

Attempts at conquest failed to produce a fundamental modification of the people. The open door with its invitation and its peaceable entry contributed strains of many nations fused into one—a reason why the real thought of America is autonomous and not colonial, a new country and a new people.

To the great crowd in Soldiers' field tomorrow night will be presented the Irish and the American boxers, boys of good heart, all of them, and the winners will be very good indeed.

THE DAVIS CUP CHANGES HANDS.

Great Britain has won the Davis cup, the symbol of superiority in international tennis team competition, for the first time since 1912, and France, after six years of supremacy, will be a challenger next year. American tennis preoccupation had been with the French and American teams. The development of the younger American players had been such that when France lost it was expected to be to American players. The English players broke into these expectations when they disposed of the American singles players.

The feeling that the English players found an occasion when they were beyond their form and when the Americans were off their play will not survive the defeat of the French by these Englishmen. While the United States reckoned that it had the developing strength to take advantage of the moment of French decline the English came up from behind with the superior tennis.

The authorities dictating the rules and conventions of this sport do nearly everything possible to make it obnoxious, but interest in it survives nevertheless. The chastity of its amateur standing, frigidly guarded, is of obvious speciousness. Many of the game's interested followers will think more of its honesty when it permits that free association of amateurs and professionals which prevails in golf. Then its amateurs may be amateurs and its professionals will not be outcasts.

THE ALCOHOL BLEND.

[Grand Rapids Press.]

Road and laboratory tests of alcohol-gasoline blends recently completed by the American Automobile association in coöperation with the government have produced results that should definitely set at rest all agitation for compulsory blending of the two fuels for motor car use. A fuel containing 10 per cent alcohol proved 5 per cent less efficient than gasoline alone and required greater consumption.

One road test over a measured course, the association reports, showed a decrease in miles per hour attainable with the blended product and a decrease in miles per gallon as compared with straight gasoline. Laboratory tests showed fuel consumption to be 4½ per cent greater with the blend. The cost of the blended fuel also is higher since the production cost of alcohol is greater than that of gasoline.

The proposal in the last session of congress by certain midwestern congressmen that the alcohol blend be required did not get very far. But it may be revived in some future session. If it is, it should receive scant support, for any proposition which is so economically wasteful does not deserve consideration.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

GOOD MORNING, READERS OF THE LINE! We, normally conductor of In the Wake of the News on the sports pages, are here with you today by request of R. H. L. in order that he may have a vacation.

While this experience is not entirely new to us, we always approach it with a certain diffidence. For the next month you will be presented reading matter, or pabulum, as perhaps R. H. L. would express it, differing in character from that to which you are accustomed. If at any time it irks you, please remember it enables your usual conductor to motor over the Canadian roads and to snare the many fish waiting for his hook.

So far as we are concerned, it is not like a journey to foreign lands where the depreciated American dollar does not buy as much as it once did. The little trip from our own habitat to this cloister is more like Seeing America First. Therefore, let's make it a vacation for all of us.

So we hereby remove all restrictions imposed by R. H. L. We invite thoughts by Liners and by such Wakers as follow our footsteps here. The combined Wake-Line may become a playground of thoughts, quips and phantasies, if you wish. You may have your share of the space. We'll interject a few words ever and anon. Fair enough?

SUNFISHIN'

When the weather's sort o' hazy and it's stickylike and hot,
And the hens have found the shady spots around the barnyard lot,
And the ring dove in the sycamore is mournin' soft and low,
Then I know it's time to dig some bait an' git my pole and go,
'Cause the leaves out on the maple trees that line the narrer lane
Are a-hangin' straight an' lifeless an' it sort o' feels like rain,
An' the birds have quit their singin' an' the world seems markin' time.
Then I know the fish are bitin' an' a whoppin' string is mine.
There's a place down on the river where the water's deep and slow,
That's a sort o' sunfish heaven, an' it's there I aim to go,
Where a friendly willer's leanin' an' it's shadylike and still,
An' I light my pipe an' bait my hook an' proceed to fish my fill.
There are those who fish for sailfish an' fer tarpon an' sich like,
An' some go in fer muskies an' fer snaky northern pike,
But fer me there's more enjoyment an' I'd ask no better lot
Than just to fish fer sunfish when it's stickylike an' hot.

Hoosier Joe.

THE LINE SANCTUM.

SINCE LAST WE ESSAYED this temporary rôle, The Line's sanctum sanctorum has been removed from the fourth floor of Tribune Tower to the eleventh floor. It has all the aloofness of a double entrance. Come with us, if you wish, while we inspect our equipment and tools.

First of all, two typewriters, one of which does not space despite our best amateur efforts. That's the one attached to a desk. The one we're using is the roll-around type. There is a correspondence table, another desk, two bookcases from one of whose shelves stares out at us admonishingly the title of a volume entitled "Thin Air," a clothes cabinet, and a filing case.

On each desk or table are stacks of newspapers. Mail, some still unopened before the Canadian departure, is everywhere. On what apparently is the work desk Brother Little left a half empty pack of cigarets [we smoke corncob pipes], a book of matches, and a pair of shears. Conspicuous is a blue bandana handkerchief, perhaps intended for our use during heated August. That's all we've found so far but promise to report further discoveries.

This Wake-Line Is Conducted by Harvey T. Woodruff. Help! Help!

A SUSPICIOUS WIFE, accompanied by detectives, in a raid on an apartment found a young woman in the company of her publisher husband. Sort of a "scoop," as it were.

NO FANCY TYPES.

Harve: Aunt Liza still rules the southern home where she was brought up a slave. In her own garden she has flowers, and when asked what kind replied, "Just pickin' flowers." Likewise she has an old fashioned phaeton and a horse to pull it. As she started out one day we asked where she was going. "Nowhere," replied Aunt Liza, "just carriage ridin'." C. A. K.

GOLDEN GLOVES.

Harve: I read that one of the Irish boxers to appear at Soldiers' field Wednesday night hails from the district known as Pimlico. The Pimlico boys always were able to give a good account of themselves when engaged in an encounter with us "Ringsend Ducks." Back in 1898 we used to sing:

She's my Flo from Pimlico,
A lady from head to toe.
She's the fairest of the fair,
Blue eyes and golden hair.

James E. Smith.

THE PRESENT WAKE-LINE cheerfully subscribes to the code recommended by the administration. We'll endeavor not to work more than forty hours per week. If that proves impossible we'll classify ourselves under "domestic servants," which are exempt. The question of wage is slightly beyond our control, but we approve at least the spirit of revision upward.

MUSICAL ABILITY.

TO MANY the fact that children vary inherently in their ability in reading, spelling, arithmetic, and geography is not known. Almost every one knows that there is variation in musical ability. The inheritance laws of this ability are fairly well known and can be found in Davenport's book on eugenics and in other places as well.

It is also generally realized that there is no necessary relation between musical ability and other kinds of mental ability. At least one imbecile enjoyed a reputation as a musician. He could perform the compositions of others, his memory for music was phenomenal, and besides that he had some musical inventiveness. He was something of a composer.

Musical ability is a combination of several qualities. Singers must have a properly designed larynx, pharynx, and nose. They must have good control over the muscles that tighten the vocal cords and some training of their respiratory muscles. Instrumental performers must have good muscle coördination. All of these are independent of ear qualities. At least one master composer was deaf and even tone deaf during a period in which he was composing great music. These are all somewhat accessory to the purely mental qualities termed musical ability.

These inherent differences in people need to be taken into consideration. To attempt a musical education where the child's makeup does not meet the requirements is a waste, or worse. Some St. Vitus dance and much fatigue effects of other types result from efforts to make a square peg fit in a round hole in this field. If the child has the mental portion of this thing called musical ability but lacks the anatomic qualifications or such physiologic qualifications as coördination the temptation of the parents to waste time on a musical education is strong. It is all right to expose the child to such an education, but it must be done with discrimination. It should not embrace those fields in which the child has no ability.

Most of the qualities that enter into the combination called musical ability are congenital and they are usually inherited. In a measure some of them can be acquired and some can be lost as the result of disease or accident. Much is known about the loss of hearing, including the capacity for extra nice discriminations between tones. Singers know that age, infections, improper use of the voice, exact a heavy toll. There are other ways in which disease can affect some phases of musical ability.

What has been written above about musical ability is true, so far as general principles are concerned, of what goes by the name artistic ability, drawing, painting pictures, and chiseling statues.

"SLEEPING SICKNESS."

M. B. S. writes: When one has sleeping sickness does one sleep all the time or not at all?

REPLY.

The term sleeping sickness has fallen into disuse. We now call it encephalitis. Many cases are epidemic encephalitis. Our reason for abandoning the old name was lack of uniformity in the symptom sleeping, which the old name stressed. In many cases there is prolonged sleeping. In others there is prolonged waking, the brain being in a state of continued excitement.

EATING BUGS NOT NICE.

Mrs. G. M. D. writes: I have been told this is locust year and not to eat blackberries and other fruits as they are poisonous. Is this correct? If so, will cooking kill the poison?

REPLY.

There is no danger. Eat as many as you wish. It is desirable to de bug all berries, but not because the bugs are poisonous. Eating bugs is not nice. That is reason enough and it is all there is.

POSTAGE STAMPS.

Chicago, July 25.—[Friend of the People.]—I received in payment of a bill ten 10 cent stamps. As I have little use for stamps of that denomination I took them to the postoffice to be exchanged for twos and threes. They told me they did not make any exchanges. I think this very strange and wondered if I was misinformed by the clerk. Can you tell me? B. K. S.

Replying to the above relative to the redemption of postage stamps, please be advised that adhesive postage stamps held by the public are not redeemed nor exchanged unless stamps of the wrong denomination have been purchased or damaged stamps have been sold, in which cases application for exchange should be made at the postoffice within two business days by the original purchaser. ARTHUR C. LUEDER, Postmaster.

DIVORCE; NOT ANNULMENT.

Chicago, July 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is there a law in Illinois whereby the wife of a man in Joliet penitentiary can get an annulment from a judge instead of a divorce? 2. If so, will I need an attorney to get it? J. S.

1. There is no such law. Conviction of a felony is a ground for divorce, but not for annulment.

2. If you wish to secure the divorce you should employ an attorney.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 1, 1917.

LONDON.—The Anglo-French armies under Field Marshal Haig and Gen. Petain launched an epoch making offensive in Flanders yesterday, and last night eleven villages and at least 3,500 prisoners were in their hands. Gen. Haig's estimates are conservative, some reports saying that 8,000 or 9,000 Germans were captured during the day. Along a front of twenty miles from north of Warneton to Dixmude, on the Yser river, the British infantry, powerfully supported by French troops, swarmed over the enemy's first three lines of defense, at most points to a depth of from 1,000 yards to two miles and a half. The British captured the villages of La Basse Ville, Stenstraete, Verlorenhoek, Frezenberg, St. Julien, Klikem, Hooge, Westhoek, and Hollebeke. The French forces, after crossing the Yser canal, advanced on the road between Lizerne and Dixmude and swept the enemy out of Bixschoote and Kortekerrt.

COPENHAGEN.—The semi-official Vienna Fremdemblatt says it is able to announce authoritatively that Germany gladly will act upon peace overtures coming by way of Vienna. The Cologne Gazette, a copy of which has been received here, reproduces the Fremdenblatt's statement.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Registrants for the draft army who fail to respond to the summons of the exemption boards will be apprehended and punished as deserters from the army if they do not appear within ten days. This is one of a number of rulings by the provost marshal general, indicating the strictness with which the draft law is to be enforced.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The second class of 755,750 men registered under the draft will be called up for examination in August. With the examination of the first quota progressing rapidly, the provost marshal general's office yesterday announced that seven days after the first called are examined the second quota would be posted for examination.

BRUTES AT LARGE.

Chicago, July 27.—Thank you for your editorial, "Brutes at Large." That the parole system in Illinois, as well as in practically every other state, is used for the personal aggrandizement of politicians and so-called law enforcing executives is common knowledge. That something be done about it is imperative.

If all criminals that are caught making threats on the lives of law abiding citizens were put in institutions and kept there for the remainder of their lives banditry and murder would be, fifty years from now, as rare as good whisky in Chicago is now.

Right away some one will say, "O, but the poor boy never had a chance to learn right from wrong." Well, I've been personally held up in Chicago three times and I have yet to meet a bandit who wasn't a whole lot smarter than the average citizen. In any event we aren't helping the juvenile criminal by putting him in prison with a lot of hardened criminals and then giving him his freedom as soon as he has learned the curriculum and received his degree. On stepping out into the world once more he is, with his added knowledge of the business, the logical leader for the new gang that is in the process of formation at the corner.

Now that we are getting our new deal in economic and in personal liberty laws [thanks to our great President, Franklin D. Roosevelt] is it too much for the people of Chicago to expect a new deal in criminal law making and law enforcing? If the majority of the red tape can be eliminated from our national government why can't the same thing be done locally? It is high time the law enforcers got down to the serious problem of really punishing criminals. A. F. W.

QUESTIONS ABOUT THE SKOKIE.

Chicago, July 28.—We have been asked from what the word "Skokie" is derived. We confess that we do not know. Also, is the Skokie state property, and how many acres are there in it? We recently drove past the workers and their camp, and those employed semed earnest workers and making considerable progress in converting the ground. When winter comes will the work be continued?

A. E. Barnhart.

CRITICISM OF MR. FARLEY.

Bar Harbor, Me., July 27.—May I enter my protest against the conduct of Postmaster General Farley? One of the most important agencies in the hamstringing of the Hoover administration and in plunging this country into the depression was constant, savage, relentless criticism, systematically devised, cleverly constructed, and ably disseminated through mechanisms of the national organization of the Democratic party. I place the blame for this depression on the shoulders of the Democratic party, who throughout the Hoover administration refused to coöperate with the President. Now we find Mr. Farley parading up and down the country telling people to vote Democratic and to enroll as Democrats. As soon as a Republican opens his mouth he condemns him for being unpatriotic.

Mr. Farley is ably upholding the tradition of the Democratic party, that of injecting petty politics at a time when it is most undesirable. The Democrats got us into this mess, and with such able men as Mr. Farley helping to run the country they have a good chance of keeping us where we are. If Mr. Farley would stay at home instead of spending the taxpayers' money traveling we would all be better off.

The Republicans have thus far cooperated with the President, but Mr. Farley seems bent on following the same path as his patriotic friends did from 1929 to 1933.

William McCormick Blair Jr.

FROM A MOTHER.

Chicago, July 28.—Every parent [the thinking ones, I mean] should be grateful to the newly appointed school board for their sane reorganization program, which can be broadened if needed when national conditions improve. We hope that what is left of the athletic faculty will produce the boy who can walk with shoulders back, head up, and hands out of pockets. The spectacular ball games for gate receipts are not the best training for the high type of well controlled manhood we are all hoping for and wishing for. The Boy Scouts and Y. M. C. A. can wisely handle the athletic work compulsorily abandoned by the school for the time being. Evelyn Biggs.

HOLD NIGHT LIFE CHARACTER IN O'CONNELL CASE

Had Acted as Intermediary with Gangsters.

Albany, N. Y., July 31.—[Special.]—Manny Strewl, intermediary in the release of John J. O'Connell Jr., who was freed by a kidnap band after twenty-three days on payment of $40,000 ransom, was in custody tonight for questioning.

Official denial was offered earlier in the evening that the Albany night life character who made the contact between the politically powerful O'Connell family and the kidnap band was being held for questioning, but late tonight official verification came. No formal charge was made against him. Detectives O'Connell and Dolan of the New York City department, aiding the case here, were understood to have seized him.

The verification was obtained as national, state, and local law enforcement authorities joined in a concerted hunt for the band of criminals that held young O'Connell captive from July 7 to early Sunday morning.

Denied at First.

The first reports that Strewl was in custody were officially denied by District Attorney John T. Delaney, but Louis Snyder, the attorney who accompanied Strewl when the ransom money was paid and when the young man was freed, said:

"I have been looking for Strewl since early in the afternoon. He has either been taken into custody or kidnaped."

Additional support was given to the report that Strewl was being questioned somewhere when his mother, Mrs. Anna Strewl, and his brother Morris went to Chief of Police Dave Smurl tonight and asked that a search be started for him.

Mrs. Strewl said the intermediary's automobile had been found abandoned at the corner of South Pearl and Beaver streets, his usual haunt. The chief gave her little satisfaction, she said, and told her that he knew nothing about Strewl.

Sworn to Secrecy.

"If Strewl is in custody will you try to get him out?" Mr. Snyder was asked.

"You bet I will," he replied, "and furthermore I will be able to tell a lot about this thing if you fellows will get Dan O'Connell to give me permission. Otherwise it would be a breach of confidence."

But no such permission was forthcoming from the Helderberg mountain camp of Daniel P. O'Connell, uncle of the young man, who was interviewed late today by the district attorney and two U. S. department of justice agents.

With Gov. Lehman summoning Capt. George P. Dutton of the state police and informing him that all the resources of the department should be utilized to capture the kidnapers, and later sending a special message to the legislature urging new legislation to make kidnaping a felony with death penalty, additional attention was focused tonight on the circumstances under which the boy had been held and then freed on payment of ransom.

A Number Interrogated.

District Attorney Delaney revealed for the first time today that Strewl was with Louis Snyder, his attorney, when young O'Connell was driven to the Helderberg camp and turned over to his family.

The district attorney said that about half a dozen persons were interrogated during the day. He admitted that one of them was a "prominent south end business man." But he declined to give the names of any of the persons questioned. All had been freed, he said. He also specifically denied that Johnny Oley, associate of Strewl, was being held.

Strewl and Oley were once tried here on a charge of having taken Joey Green, "underworld character," for a ride. That was back in 1928, and the men were freed when the jury disagreed.

It was also indicated tonight on reliable authority that the investigating authorities had traced the paper on which some of the ransom notes were written, found the place of purchase, and discovered the identity of an Albany woman who had bought it. Her name was not revealed.

FIND TWO SISTERS INSANE OVER FEARS ABOUT KIDNAPERS

Jackson, Ga., July 31.—(AP)—Misses Allie and Grace Jarrell, who held their mother and elder sister prisoners without food for ten days and barricaded themselves in their home here were adjudged insane today by a lunacy commission, after testimony that they imprisoned them because they feared kidnapers.

They tore their clothing and sang when examined by the alienists today.

Reports the women had secreted $40,000 on the premises were discredited by Sheriff W. D. Pope who said he found but $87.

The women were jailed over the week-end when a squad of officers bombarded the Jarrell home with tear gas. The family is one of Butts county's wealthiest.

Second Brewing Company Announced for Freeport

Freeport, Ill., July 31.—The Fritz Brewing company, the second brewing concern to be organized here since the legalization of beer, will begin production about Sept. 15, it was announced by J. Fred Smith, local capitalist, who with his son, Frederick G. Smith, will finance the plant. It will have a capacity of 60,000 barrels a year. A Chicago engineering firm has been engaged to design the buildings. A brewmaster from Germany will be in charge.

SENT TO PRISON FOR SWINDLING 3 ADVERTISERS

Donald Pierce, 4242 South Wabash avenue, a Negro, was convicted of three charges of operating a confidence game against advertisers in THE TRIBUNE before Judge Benjamin P. Epstein in the Criminal court yesterday. He was sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary on each charge. The sentences are concurrent.

Among the state's witnesses were Vernon Dallman, 2710 Mildred avenue; Frank Wagner, 1718 Pratt boulevard, and L. J. Donovan, 320 South Lincoln street. They testified that they had advertised in the situation wanted columns of THE TRIBUNE for positions as chauffeurs, and that Pierce called on each of them and told them he was a chauffeur for a prominent man with authority to hire a second chauffeur for his employer.

Pierce then got money from them on the excuse that he would purchase uniforms for them at a reduction, they charged. Dallman testified that he had given Pierce $35.

The Chicago Motor Coach company has placed in operation on its north side route to Howard street an experimental bus with the motor in the rear.

The single operator occupies the usual post at the front of the bus, however, and the stairway to the second deck of the bus is also near the front. The bus carries 70 passengers in place of the 58 carried by the present double decked buses, seating them in single seats of the chair car type.

The bus was built by the General Motors Truck corporation from designs over which engineers have been working for several years. Placing the motor in the rear made it possible to lower the floor level, giving more headroom to passengers. Lighter construction, due to use of alloy metals in the body, and improved springs have greatly improved the riding qualities of the bus, officials of the motor coach company said.

AIRSHIP, AMBULANCE AND MOTORCYCLE LOSE RACE TO SAVE A LIFE

New London, Conn., July 31.—(AP)—A race to save the life of 5 year old Barbara Bourne was lost today, although an aviator, ambulance driver and a policeman on a motorcycle all did their best.

When the child, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Rolland Bourne of Wethersfield, was admitted to the hospital, physicians diagnosed her illness as spinal meningitis. Serum was needed to save her life, they said, and the nearest to be had was in New York City.

A telephone call to Trumbull field at Groton started Capt. Reilly of the Connecticut National Guard speeding to New York in an airplane. Another telephone message sent an ambulance from a New York hospital to the Curtiss flying field.

It took only a moment for the precious serum to be transferred from ambulance to plane, and the Connecticut flyer started back. He reached Trumbull field less than an hour and half after he first took off, and State Trooper John H. Smith was waiting with his motorcycle.

Seven miles away, in New London, the child's life was ebbing away. Smith raced along the highway at 90 miles an hour while other policemen cleared his way, but he reached the hospital too late. The child had died just a few minutes before the serum arrived.

Quiz Wounded Policeman About Quarrel Over Girl

Police continued their investigation yesterday of the brawl Saturday night in the Chelsea café, 916 Wilson avenue, in which Policeman Charles Scheiner of the traffic division was shot with his own gun. Scheiner is in a serious condition at the Lake View hospital. He was questioned regarding a report that the fight in which he was shot grew out of a quarrel between himself and George Carlson, 1501 East 64th street, over the affections of Carlson's estranged wife, Margaret Carlson, 19 years old, of 4946 Sheridan road. The girl also was questioned.

BLANKS FOR HOME LOAN REQUESTS READY TODAY

2 Tribune Service Offices Will Have Them.

BY AL CHASE.

Applicants for Home Owners' Loan corporation blanks can save time and avoid a predicted crowd at the opening of the local office this morning by obtaining them at either of the two TRIBUNE public service offices—at 1 South Dearborn street and at Tribune Tower. These offices will open at 8:30 a. m., and application blanks will be available for distressed home owners.

Half an hour later, at 9 a. m., provided the decorators get through in time, the Chicago office of the Home Owners' Loan corporation, will open to the public at 134 North La Salle street. As already announced by William G. Donne, state manager, however, this office will handle only distress cases during the first thirty days. It will care for six counties: Cook, Du Page, McHenry, Kane, Will and Lake.

New Angle in Negotiations.

Mr. Donne also announced for the first time a new angle to the negotiations by individuals for federal aid. When the application blanks have been filled out by the mortgagor and returned to the Chicago offices of the corporation, additional blanks will be mailed to the holder or the mortgagor asking if he will accept bonds in exchange for his mortgage.

If the mortgagee's consent to an exchange is obtained, the property in question will then be appraised and other steps taken to get the matter settled as quickly as possible. Mr. Donne states, however, that it will be at least two weeks before the first mortgage problem is adjusted.

Urge Requests by Mail.

In order to avoid an expected jam of applicants at the La Salle street office, Mr. Donne urges the use of mails for requests. He states that if they are distress cases, where the mortgage is actually past due, they will be given prompt attention. He points out, however, that the person whose mortgage is not yet due may as well save his time and energy, for his application will be shelved until the emergency cases get attention.

Some other points regarding the application blanks were announced yesterday by Mr. Donne. A photograph or snapshot of the property must accompany the application. Provision is made on the application for a map or diagram of the community in which the property is located. On this must be indicated its nearness to transportation, schools, churches, business districts, etc.

Assist Dire Need First.

"It's the plan of the Illinois division of the Home Owners' Loan corporation to give first attention to those whose homes are being foreclosed or which are threatened with foreclosure," said Mr. Donne. "It's the primary purpose of this government sponsored corporation to assist those who are in dire need, and such cases will be given immediate attention."

Downstate offices of the Home Owners' Loan corporation will not open until Aug. 10, Mr. Donne announced last night.

ICE FUND GIFTS LAG WHILE HEAT INCREASES NEED

Only $1,300 Donated So Far.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

The third consecutive day of excessive heat yesterday endangered the lives of small babies in needy homes unable to afford ice, because of the rapidity with which milk spoils in such weather when it is not properly refrigerated.

Ice delivered regularly to impoverished homes is a boon to babies. Only a few cents will send the iceman calling on the neediest of these homes. Summer is only half over, and scarcely $1,300 has been contributed to THE TRIBUNE Free Ice fund for this charity. In normal years the total has far surpassed this amount at midsummer.

Children Do Their Part.

Children have been doing their part and more this summer, sending their pennies raised by various benefits—lemonade stands, circuses, plays and picture shows. In fact, they have done much better than their elders in supporting the fund. Receipts from two of these benefits arrived in yesterday's contributions.

Something new in the children's benefit line was the pigmy village exhibit, presented by Robert Komer and Harry Mayer who live in the Hyde Park district. The two boys fashioned the village of clay, then delivered a lecture about it to their playmates, charging five cents each. They turned $1.65 over to the fund.

Benefit Given by Girls.

The other benefit was given by two girls, 12 years old, in the O'Keefe playground. They gave two original plays, charging a penny admission. They raised $1.50 for the fund and promised more in the future. The day's contributions follow:

$15—E. D. N., South Shore Bridge club.
$3—M. F. H.
$2—M. E. R.
$1.65—Proceeds of pigmy village.
$1.50—Proceeds of a play given by two girls of the O'Keefe playground.

Total	$ 38.15
Previously acknowledged	1,245.38
Grand total	$1,283.53

Contributions to the ice fund should be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

R. W. BLISS, 30 YEARS DIPLOMAT FOR U. S., RETIRES

Washington, D. C., July 31.—[Special.]—The retirement from the diplomatic service of Robert Woods Bliss, until recently United States ambassador to Argentina, was announced today by the state department. Mr. Bliss was retired today in accordance with the law authorizing retirement after thirty years of service.

Appointed consul at Venice on June 18, 1903, Mr. Bliss took his original oath of office Aug. 1 of that year. Thus his retirement today marks exactly thirty years in the diplomatic service. Prior to his service at Buenos Aires he was minister to Sweden. Previously he had been connected with the consular service at Puerto Rico for three years.

In his letter, sent from his Georgetown, D. C., home, to William Phillips, acting secretary of state, Mr. Bliss asked retirement to "attend to private matters requiring closer attention than it is possible to give them while residing abroad."

MILLS AND LUCAS SUED FOR TAXES OF KNEBELKAMP'S

Louisville, Ky., July 31.—(AP)—Ogden L. Mills, former secretary of the treasury, and Robert H. Lucas, former Republican national commiteeman, are defendants in a taxpayer's suit, filed here today for $1,318,000.

The suit alleges that William F. Knebelkamp, president of the Louisville baseball club and former distiller, failed to pay income taxes on allegedly illegal whisky sales in 1919, when Lucas was U. S. collector of internal revenue for Kentucky.

The amount sued for, according to federal statute, is double the taxes alleged unpaid. Knebelkamp is not a defendant. The defendants are accused of having "connived to relieve him from payment."

The plaintiff is Moody Boyd, a former revenue storekeeper gauger. His petition charges Knebelkamp's income tax return for 1920 failed to disclose "profits exceeding $1,000,000 on illegal sales of whisky."

Other defendants are Arthur A. Ballantine, former undersecretary of the treasury; J. H. McMurtry, acting internal revenue agent; David Burnet, acting commissioner of internal revenue, and Elmer L. Irey of the intelligence bureau of the revenue department.

SLUGGED AND ROBBED OF $197.

Herman Wolf, 70 years old, a retired meat market owner, was knocked unconscious and robbed of $197 yesterday by two men who halted him in front of his home at 6342 Throop street.

Sleep Walker Fatally Hurt When He Falls Off Roof

Herman Schlifske, 58 years old, 2015 Bissell street, was fatally injured early yesterday when he fell from the roof of the kitchen at his home. Neighbors found him unconscious, pajama clad, in the back yard. He had placed a bed on the roof and it is believed he fell while walking in his sleep. He died as he was being taken to the county hospital.

The sopranos and basses for the north side will be heard tomorrow night. The contests will be held in the ballroom of the Edgewater Beach hotel, beginning at 7 p. m. Mrs. Edmund J. Tyler, chairman of the vocal and choral contests of the festival, will have charge of the contest tonight. The judges will be Irene Pavloska, John T. Read, and Frank Bennett. Each contestant will sing one number, not more than 3 minutes in length.

Keg Parties Are Barred in Elgin's Public Parks

There'll be no tapping of beer kegs in Elgin's public parks, Mayor Myron M. Lehman and members of the city council decided yesterday. They held that "keg parties," even quiet ones, are beneath the dignity of the parks system. On Sunday Park Commissioner Milton A. Grow requested two groups of picnickers to remove kegs of beer from the park premises. Drinking of bottled beer will be permitted in the park; but no beer can be sold on the grounds.

TRIAL OF NURSE AND PUBLISHER SET FOR AUG. 10

Le Roy M. Smith of Wilmette, 48 year old publisher, and Miss Hilma Carlson, 22 years old, of 4062 Kenmore avenue, a nurse, were arraigned in the Town Hall court yesterday on disorderly conduct charges brought by Mrs. Smith. Smith and the girl were arrested when Mrs. Smith led police in a raid on Miss Carlson's apartment Sunday. After a few minutes of testimony the case was continued to Aug. 10 by Municipal Judge Leon Edelman at the request of Attorney Walter A. Rooney, counsel for the defendants.

Asked by Judge Edelman if he was taking any other court action, Attorney Benjamin B. Davis, counsel for Mrs. Smith, said that a divorce suit would probably be filed. Later outside the courtroom Mrs. Smith said she would not divorce her husband, but probably would file a suit for separate maintenance.

Miss Carlson outside the courtroom still insisted that their affair was "purely Platonic." She declared Mrs. Smith had ruined her life and made her lose her job.

GOV. COMSTOCK FIRES CHIEF OF STATE'S BUDGET

Auditor Gives a Job to George Remus' Foe.

Lansing, Mich., July 31.—[Special.]—George R. Thompson, state budget director since 1927, has been summarily dismissed. That was announced today by Gov. William A. Comstock. His duties are to be taken over at once by Burnett J. Abbott, secretary of the state administrative board.

Will Name Assistant.

The governor said Abbott will be given an assistant at some future date but not until after the preparation of a new budget is begun.

John K. Stack, auditor general, announced the appointment of Franklin Dodge, former federal prohibition agent and prominent in the Remus murder case at Cincinnati, as chief disbursement clerk of the auditor's department. Dodge recently was released from the federal penitentiary at Atlanta. There he served a term for perjury arising out of testimony in a prohibition case.

Dodge Accused by Remus.

Dodge was accused by Remus, former Chicago lawyer who became the Cincinnati "bootleg king," of having conspired with Mrs. Remus to obtain his fortune during Remus' confinement in Atlanta penitentiary. Remus shot and killed a woman while in a Cincinnati park but was acquitted by a jury on the plea of insanity. Remus was released from a hospital to which he was committed.

Dodge will displace Jack Lafountain who has been associated with the auditor general's department for the last 24 years.

Stack said the change was intended to reduce state expense accounts and to assure that future expenditures are made by authorized persons.

Stack and his family occupy the Dodge estate here to which Franklin Dodge is an heir.

LINDBERGHS MAKE FIVE HOUR FLIGHT OVER ICE CAP

New York, July 31.—(AP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh today completed a five hour flight over the inland ice fields of Greenland, a message received from their base ship reported.

The message, received from the S. S. Jelling off Godhaven, was addressed to Pan-American Airways, for which the Lindberghs are making an aerial survey of Greenland. For the last three days, the dispatch said, the Lindberghs have been flying up and down the west coast, from Godthaab to Holstenborg and points farther north. Their observations have been restricted somewhat by fog along the coast, but on their flight over the inland ice fields they reported finding clear weather.

Col. Lindbergh said he planned to make one more flight to the north of Godthaab if the weather clears sufficiently. If not, he expects to go south to Julianehaab, at the lower end of Greenland.

Guide Children with Reason— Mrs. Bevans Points the Way

Junior League Calendar to Be Issued Today

Magazine Lists Events of Next 2 Weeks.

BY JUDITH CASS.

DONE up in a gray and blue jacket printed in sleek black, the Junior league's Chicago Calendar makes its debut today. And if this isn't an accomplishment for a socially minded group of young women these hot midsummer days who have other duties ranging from orphans to fairy tale dramatizations, we have another guess coming.

A concise, intelligent revue of cultural events during the next fortnight, the Calendar has been issued to fill the need for a medium of condensed information. Ten thousand persons selected because of their interest in advance information on the things to see and do in Chicago will find it in their mail boxes this morning. Two weeks from today they will find a second issue, a fortnight later another, and so on.

Mrs. Carleton S. Scribner is the editor-in-chief, with an able corps of assistants who have reviewed everything from the major sporting events to the art exhibits of the next two weeks in the twenty-four pocket size pages of the Calendar.

Mrs. John L. Cochran is the first assistant to Mrs. Scribner. Miss Katherine Cowan, who is soon to marry Robert Carr, is doing the theater; Mrs. Alfred M. Wolfe is the musical editor; Mrs. Ambrose C. Cramer, editor of the art schedule, and Miss Elaine Blackman, gleaner of the city's lectures and other civic events.

Make Survey of Coming Events.

"With the indelible memory of the valiant Italian airmen winging through the blue," starts off the Calendar on its third page, "we turn ahead to survey the coming events. Ireland is in town to box at Soldiers' field; the galleries are full of treasures for inspection and delight; the finest women golfers in the west will gather at Oak Park Country club to strive for the western championship; polo players, the cream of the country, will battle for the east-west supremacy at Onwentsia; foreign movies will be shown at International house."

This is only a taste of the detailed listings and resumés that follow in the next several pages. There is a concise, well written article entitled "Around the World at the Fair" and another on the Library of International Relations, with which Miss Eloise Requa has so ably identified herself these last several months. Last, but not least, is the personal appointment calendar on the back page—always a help to any feminine mind.

The Chicago league is the only league in the country ever to have undertaken such an important literary project. All of the proceeds over and above the cost of the Calendar are to go to swell the league's charity coffers.

Tell Engagement of Grace Dewes.

The engagement of one of society's most popular and attractive post-debutantes was made known yesterday when Mrs. Edwin P. Dewes announced the betrothal of her eldest daughter, Grace Hedwig Dewes, to George Stickle Oram, son of Mrs. King Stickle Oram of Rockaway, N. J.

The romance is one of several seasons, since the young couple were introduced while the black haired Miss Dewes was a student at Bryn Mawr college and Mr. Oram was enrolled in the law school of the University of Pennsylvania.

Before entering Bryn Mawr Miss Dewes was graduated from the Ethel Walker school at Simsbury, Conn. Her college career was interrupted in the fall term of 1929 when she was presented to society by her parents. Her party—a tea on Nov. 18 at the Dewes home at 2314 Lincoln Park west—was one of the nicest of that season. Receiving with her and her mother were also her two grandmothers, Mrs. Francis J. Dewes and Mrs. Robert A. Woolridge of Baltimore, Md.

Returning to Bryn Mawr the following semester, Miss Dewes completed her course and was graduated with the degree of bachelor of arts last February. She is an active member of both the Junior league and the Service club.

Mr. Oram, who came to Chicago Saturday for a several days' visit with his fiancée and her family, which also includes Miss Dorothy Dewes and Miss Elisabeth Dewes, took his college training at Princeton university. Later he was graduated from the law school of the University of Pennsylvania.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Bentley-Windisch Wedding Sept. 16.

Edward Foss Wilson, son of the Thomas E. Wilsons, will be making a trip to Cincinnati on Sept. 16. Yesterday his good friend, Alden Cody Bentley, dropped in town on his way from northern Michigan to New York long enough to ask him to be best man at Mr. Bentley's wedding to Miss Marion Windisch of Cincinnati.

The wedding is to be a simple affair, at 6 o'clock in the evening at the home of Miss Windisch's mother.

Others who will be going from Chicago to serve as ushers for Mr. Bentley are Edward Lee, Ronnald Chinnock, and Frank Sims. Mrs. Chinnock, who is leaving tomorrow for a ten day Michigan vacation, and Mrs. Sims will accompany their husbands to Cincinnati.

An eastern wedding today of interest to many Chicagoans is that of Miss Alice Fair McCulloch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Hugh McCulloch of New York, to Frederick Hemsley Gillmore, son of Gen. and Mrs. Quincy A. Gillmore of New York and Philadelphia.

In the lovely garden of the McCullochs' summer home, Harbor Acres, at

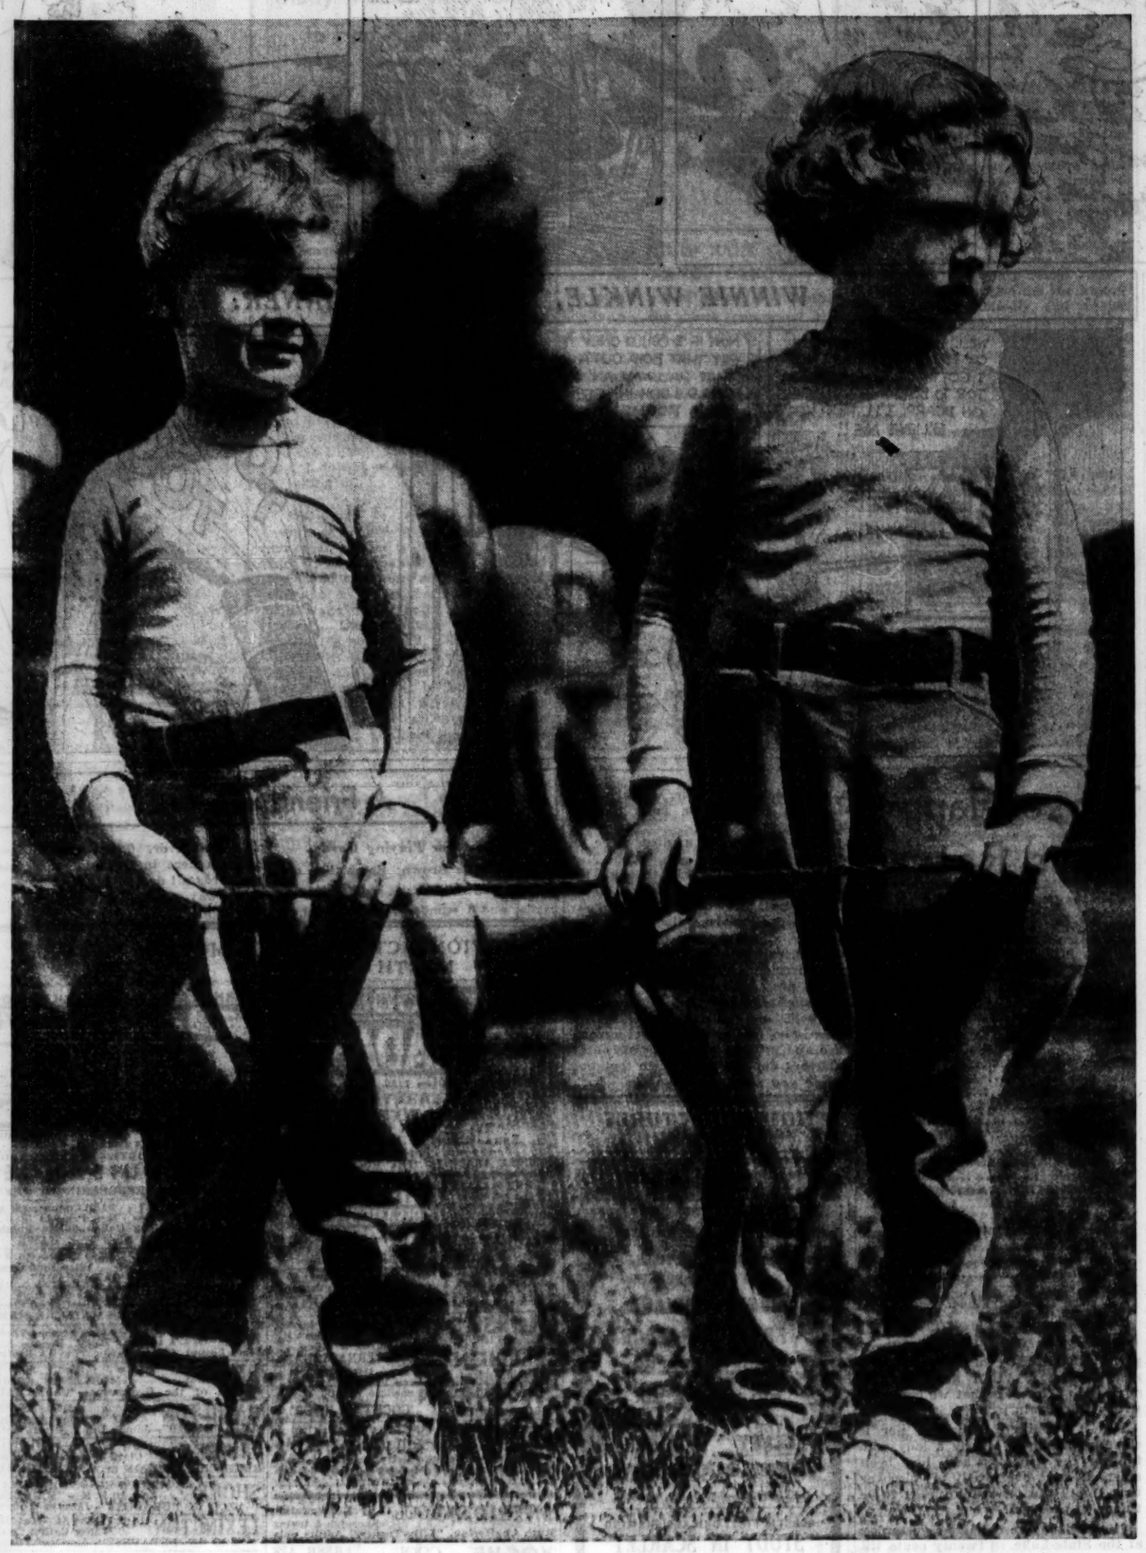
Happy Because Pony Show Will Be Repeated



Little curly headed Alicia Owsley and her brother, Randolph, are happy as can be that Miss Libby Chase is going to repeat her Misery Farm pony show Saturday afternoon for the boys and girls at the Arden Shore camp and the Lake Bluff Orphanage. They had so much fun Sunday in their tan breeches and blue turtle neck sweaters walking and trotting their twin ponies. They are the children of the Randolph G. Owsleys of Lake Forest.

Experts Will Make Plain Jane a Beauty

Pledge Daily Miracle at World's Fair.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Girls, we're going to treat you to a swell show over at the Blue Ribbon casino—and I don't want you to miss it.

It's going to be something different. Cheering, instructive—and good fun, too!

It came about this way! You know Mrs. Ford Carter has quite a reputation around these and other parts as a fashion counselor de luxe. And I'll admit she does put on a pretty fine fashion show. But when she started in bragging to me the other day about how fashion makes the modern beauty and how she could take a Plain Jane and transform her into a creature of striking charm—well, I'm not exactly jealous, but I did feel she was barking down my alley. So I just thought I'd call her bluff. We'd been sitting lunching, watching her fashion show, and friendly enough up to this point. But you know us wimmin!

"All right, Mrs. Carter," sez I. "Now you say you can take a Plain Jane and dress her (economically, too) so her own mother'd never recognize her! Yes? Well, I'll get hold of the Plain Jane—and just call you!"

"Fine!" responds the style dictator of the Fair. "Nothing I'd like better. But why stop at one girl? There are a lot of women who could be perfect knockouts in the smart, proper, becoming line and color of frock. As a matter of fact, this and makeup and smart coiffeur constitute 95 per cent of today's beauty. I'll have our expert beautician coöperate and prove the claim!"

So that's how our beauty transformation act developed!

Beginning Thursday, Aug. 3, at 1:30 p. m. in the Blue Ribbon casino on the Fair grounds, you are urged to come, sit in and see each day a different type of girl or woman, or different vocation (for this is important, too) transformed before your eyes. You'll see her first wearing her "mistakes" both in makeup, coiffeur and clothes, and then as the pictorial dear she really ought to be and could be.

I have the girls picked already—the Plain Jane, the business girl. Yes, and the tired business woman is going to get a break. She needs some one to work some psychological change in her too deep absorption in her work. And the home woman—two of her, in fact—will be on view as she is at her least attractive and her most alluring.

The high school girl, her natural beauty buried under a welter of sophisticated trimmings, then as the lovely dear she should be. But more of this tomorrow.

I just want you to keep your Fair dates free so you can come to see this concrete evidence of how any and every type of woman has deep potentialities for beauty as it is modernly interpreted.

Declares Respect for Tradition Is Key to India

To understand India, outsiders should appreciate India's vast respect for tradition, K. Natarajan, Bombay publicist, said last night in opening a series of six lectures on modern India in Mandel hall, University of Chicago. He is editor of the Indian Social Reformer. Modern ideas, he said, have affected India, but only when those modern ideas could be shown as a natural outgrowth of the traditional. Tolerance, he continued, is a major factor in its tradition.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

HERBERT E. WINLOCK, director of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, was in Chicago recently. This perhaps, is in itself a matter of interest, but the reason the announcement finds a place here is because this learned gentleman with a passion for the past glories of the Pharaohs, this Harvard man whose zeal brought to light famous statues of Queen Hatshepsut, ancestress of Egyptian kings, played hooky from an important meeting of archeologists held while in Chicago to go to the Fair. And he and two other Egyptologists spent most of the evening riding in those little auto-scooters, bumping one another about the floor like schoolboys on a holiday.

THE best example of the quickness with which a child's mind can work is the answer made by Barbara McLaughlin, the little daughter of Maj. and Mrs. Fredric McLaughlin, after a mild reproof from her mother. They were on a train and Barbara had asked her mother for her pencil. She wanted to draw, she said. Mrs. McLaughlin gave her the pencil, which had a sharp point, and, since she wished to use it later, asked Barbara to be careful not to break it. A few moments later she saw her child jabbing at the paper, not drawing, but making meaningless dots.

"I lent you my pencil because you said you wanted to draw," she said reprovingly. "You're not drawing."

"O, yes, I am. I'm drawing worms looking up," flashed Barbara.

THEN, too, we like the story about the lad, son of a Lake Forest couple, who left for the west the other day with a family friend and mailed a postcard back to another family friend, Richard Prendergast, president of the Grant Park Transportation company that operates the narrow gauge railway in Grant park. On the card was the picture of Buckingham fountain, and the little boy wrote:

"Dear Uncle Dick: This is one of the sights you see from your railway."

MIDSUMMER Night's Party. A half moon shining through the trees. Music of guitars and violins. Thin frocks glimmering palely in the dusk. The hostess, Mrs. Howard Linn, most glamorous of women, in stiffened pale beige batiste. Cocktails and hors d'oeuvres served from a buffet table. Cooling breezes, laughter, greetings. . . . Late dinner inside her charming French Provençal house—one long table in the dining room where the walls are covered with scarlet poppy printed linen; other tables on the porches. Epergnes of white stock and snapdragon. Russian and Spanish singers singing melting gypsy songs. . . . After dinner, dancing on the terrace, lighted in the fashion that came from old Mexico via Santa Fé, with candles inside paper sacks thrust in sand in the bottom. Little stepladders, half hidden by green branches, with the primitive little lanterns on each step, at the four corners of the dancing platform. Champagne and iced drinks served from a buffet table gay with plaid cloths and zinnias. Guests arriving from other dinner parties to dance on the dimly lit terrace, to sit in wicker chairs and listen to the singing, and, the evening over, to congratulate the Linns on the most enchanting party of the summer.

AS we followed Henry Field about the new hall in the Field museum that depicts human prehistory in eight dramatic groups, from the Chellean period to the dawn of recorded history, we appreciated the comment made to Mr. Field by a French abbé to whom he had shown the groups. It was much easier and more pleasant to walk about on a cement floor and look at the authentic reproductions than to crawl into the caves in southern France, the abbé had said.

You will be thrilled with the exhibits showing the beginings of family life and art some 30,000 years ago in caves in western Europe, with the Azilian boar hunt—a restoration of a scene of 12,000 years back, when dog helped man for the first time, perhaps. And you will gaze with interest at the bones of an 18 year old Magdalenian, who died with an ivory harpoon in her heart 20,000 years ago, proving perhaps that a crime passional was not unknown when mankind lived in caves. "The most important skeleton in this country," Mr. Field said as he introduced his luncheon guests to the young lady.

Century of Progress Quintet Will Make Bow at Fair Tonight

The Century of Progress quintet, four string players and a pianist, will make its first appearance tonight during the Oriental festival on the Floating theater, and will be heard daily thereafter in concerts as well as in accompaniments to features on the Floating theater. Its members are Edward P. Wurtzbach, first violin and leader; Nina Mesirow Minchin, pianist; Lino Rossi, second violin; Raphael Vivanti, cellist, and Dmetry Shmuklowsky, double bass.

The director and first violin takes his place after a number of years' experience in concert and radio playing. Mrs. Minchin is a concert pianist of note, well known to Chicago audiences as well as those at the Exposition. Rossi, Vivanti, and Shmuklowsky are former members of the Civic Opera orchestra. Rossi was brought to this country several years ago by Arturo Toscanini, and has been a member of the New York Philharmonic and Metropolitan Opera orchestras.

Club Lecture.

Mrs. Hannah G. Solomon will address the Chicago Woman's club at 11 o'clock this morning in another of its Century of Progress lectures in the court of the Hall of Science. Mrs. Gerson B. Levi, president of the Chicago branch of the National Council of Jewish women, will preside. Mrs. Solomon's subject will be "Growth of Woman's Work Through Organization."

Exhibit Shows Way to Detect Shoddy Goods

Paper Pulp Trousers Are "Horrible Example."

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Paper pulp makes good boxes but it's hardly the thing to use for knickerbockers. It has been done, though, for it all came out in the wash. Now the garment is only a skeleton pair of pants, with occasional tattered threads holding together the muslin belt, pockets and knee bands. The paper pulp garment is one of the "horrible examples" on view in an exhibit designed by Chicago companies to demonstrate to the buying public that quality pays for its price.

"One laundering did it," advises the supervisor of the exhibit, displaying the remnant of what had been a spiffy looking pair of gold trousers. "When the laboratory men got busy to find out what it was that had melted so completely they found the clew in the waistband. It was only paper pulp."

Various agencies have contributed to the instructive exhibit, set up on the fourth floor of the Marshall Field store, to show customers how to know good goods.

"There's silver. Just the "Sterling" stamp alone doesn't mean much, because it can be applied anywhere. If it's genuine hollow ware, the display reveals, as in candlesticks or a compote, the base will be open. In the spurious the base is solid, because of the filling used in place of the good metal, and the law requires that it must be stamped "Weighted with pitch" or "Weighted with cement."

The heavy plate used for manufacturing sturdy candlesticks is shown, together with the almost paper thin sheets utilized in the cheaper grades. Standing alone, without its filling of wood or metal, the thinner quality can be blown off its balance by a single puff from normal lungs.

About cotton goods. They show a shirt that came back from its only laundering, gleaming white on one side and medium blue on the other. Two different grades of goods had been used. One was commercially dyed. It didn't last. The other was vat dyed. It did. So the moral is, "ask whether the material is vat dyed, in silk or cotton. The color will hold if it is." As for wool, some good brands are stamped on the selvage, but almost all wools will shrink somewhat, "so the best safeguard is to buy from a reputable manufacturer."

The higher the luster on rayon the cheaper is the quality, the public is told. All rayons will lose strength with washing, but the better grades lose as little as 20 per cent, while the cheaper ones yield as much as 70 per cent in water.

In the carpet line, buyers are informed that the points to watch are the "wires," which total more in the long wearing carpet, as do the "warp strands." Th better carpet is heavier, weighing more by several pounds in the same sizes, and has a deeper, closer pile.

There's a series of pillows on view, with the filling as it is and as it should be, to let the housewife know "what's" behind the ticking." The substitutes for genuine down filling and goosefeathers are plainly seen.

To say nothing of silk stockings! A little study of a set of charts and silk hose instructs the feminine world what those perplexing "45 gauge" and similar markings mean to her pocketbook; what the saleslady indicates when she talks about "four ply silk," and tells you that your hose are "ingrain dye."

Instances are shown where men's suits have been cheapened by using burlap for lining in the sides, instead of the usual canvas woven with horsehair. The method of manufacturing fur felt hats is demonstrated in various stages, and the difference between fur felt and wool felt shown.

There's information, too, for the woman buying sheets. They must not be too thin or they won't stand washing. Nor too heavy, or they are probably "loaded." If the latter, they can be proved guilty by rubbing a bit together above a dark surface. The starch will fall in white particles, and the amount indicates how heavily they have been treated.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, July 31.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. J. Henry Alexandre, who passed the early summer at their home at Glen Head, will leave this week for Saratoga, to be there for the racing period. Mr. and Mrs. Alexandre were recent hosts at their Long Island home to Gen. Italo Balbo, Italian air minister, and several of his officers at luncheon, recalling to many a similar party given at Valley Farm nine years ago for the prince of Wales during his stay at the Burden place at Syosset.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip F. Chew are passing the season at Jericho, L. I., where they have leased the Skeffington S. Norton estate on Cedar Swamp road.

SWELL GARRICK

BY ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

Swell Garrick—the World's Perfect Tailor's Dummy—is the label given him by those who didn't know that his well molded body had been created by athletic training, rather than tailoring skill. Maitland, a crooked gambler, is the purported guardian of lovely Rhoda Fairclough. He and Schewan, his chief, plot to trick Rhoda out of a fortune. Maitland has Rhoda adjudged insane. She has been administered a drug which will produce temporary madness. Having no proof of guilt, Garrick determines to settle the matter in his own way. His solicitor tells him that if Rhoda can gain and maintain her liberty for twenty-eight days she will be considered legally sane. Garrick undertakes a bold rescue. He escapes to London with Rhoda. Garrick hires Alf, a farmhand out of work, as a helper and buys his silence. One of the gang is shot during an encounter in Garrick's home and the police suspect Garrick. After a series of narrow escapes from the police and Schewan's gang, Rhoda finds shelter in the home of a Mrs. Tarranio and her cousin, Gus Esdale. Rhoda believes they are friends of her uncle. It is evident to Garrick they wish to be rid of him.

INSTALLMENT XLIV.

BRUTAL CALLOUSNESS.

They left Garrick alone with Rhoda and he talked brightly of their prospects. It would not be much good, he reflected, putting her on her guard against these people. They were obviously trying to get at her property in some way and so would, if possible, prevent his marrying her. Well—it would not be possible. Nor could they do anything to her property while he was alive. For the rest, there could be little doubt that they would effectively shield Rhoda from the police. And to that extent they were useful.

In the dining room downstairs Mrs. Tarranio was speaking to Esdale.

"You needn't look as if the whole thing had failed! I see how we can do it! I'm going to make Cynaz help."

"I'm going to use him at his own job, you ass! Garrick doesn't suspect anything. I'll speak to him when he comes downstairs. You buzz off."

When Garrick came downstairs Mrs. Tarranio buttonholed him.

"Young man, I love you for yourself alone—as well as for Rhoda's sake. I'd like you to come here every day to see her. But it can't be done. There's a risk of the police tracing you—and Gus and I don't want to go to prison for harboring a lunatic."

"I quite see your point of view," said Garrick gravely.

"I thought you would! You've got a lot of sense under that lovely hair. It does seem rather a pity to risk spoiling things just in order to hold her hand for a few minutes for the next fourteen days—or is it fifteen? Write her as often as you like but keep away until she's legally sane. It sounds inhospitable but you understand!"

Garrick understood. He would keep away in the sense that he would not actually call at the house—but that house was going to be kept under observation day and night.

He got into Alistair's car and drove to a quiet side street where he changed back into shabby clothing. Although the police were nominally looking for him as keenly as ever, he now had little fear of being caught. As long as he kept to shilling a night lodging houses he would be reasonably safe.

"Stage romance," she read. "Miss Aila Demaine, the leading lady at the Parnassus theater, was this morning married by special license to Mr. Lyle Garrick of Marron street, the well known club.

When Garrick had gone Mrs. Tarranio took a bus and then the underground to Euston station. Then she walked until she came to a very little shop that bore the sign of "J. Cynaz, Jobbing Printer."

She was with Mr. Cynaz for an hour, after which she went home and sought out Esdale.

"There are two things for you to do, my lad. The first is, get the telephone disconnected at once—and keep it disconnected. The second thing is, to prevent any letter reaching the girl. That's all for the next four days."

"And then?"

"Listen," said Mrs. Tarranio and explained.

Garrick had told Rhoda that he would telephone or write every day.

At the end of the first day she was a little hurt at hearing nothing from him. When the next day brought nothing she was puzzled. The third day she was miserable. And on the fourth day she was in a state bordering on prostration.

If he had told her he would not write or telephone her she would not have minded. But he had said he would—which meant that something must have prevented him. She believed that he was now in no danger from the police—but she knew that Schewan and his gang had made more than one attempt to kill him.

At half past four in the afternoon she was sitting in the drawing room with Mrs. Tarranio, waiting for tea, when Esdale burst in, appearing to be in a state of excitement. He was carrying a copy of the Evening Record.

"What's the matter, Gus?"

"Nothing," he growled. He waited until Rhoda looked at him in surprise and then: "Look here, Miss Fairclough, I know you won't think me rude if I say I want to speak to Mrs. Tarranio privately for a few minutes."

Rhoda got up, but Mrs. Tarranio intervened.

"Stay here, dear! Come along, Gus!"

They went out of the room together, leaving Rhoda, as they had intended, in a state of great alarm at their mysterious behavior. Her thoughts flew to Garrick—with the inevitable fear that the gang had murdered him.

She looked wildly round the room and saw the Evening Record. She had just picked it up when Mrs. Tarranio returned.

"Don't look at that paper—yet!" said Mrs. Tarranio. She took the girl by both hands and urged her to the sofa.

"Tell me quickly!" gasped Rhoda. "Lyle—is he dead?"

"No, no, no! He's alive and well—never better in his life!"

"O!" Rhoda breathed again. "I was afraid——"

"Listen, dear! There's a nasty little shock coming. I can't really make it any better. I don't want to talk like a grandmother but we all know that love is blind. You had a kind of little eye opener the other night when we told you that he had been drunk—and he afterwards confirmed it himself by saying he didn't remember what had happened. Well, now——"

Rhoda had snatched up the paper and stared at it, seeing nothing that concerned Garrick or herself.

"In the Stop Press, dear," prompted Mrs. Tarranio.

Now anybody with an expert knowledge of printing would have seen through that supposed "news item" in the Stop Press column. He would have seen that the type was not exactly the same as that of the newspaper and that it had been imposed by hand. He would have guessed that somebody had perpetrated a deliberate fake on a single copy of the paper.

But to Rhoda's inexpert eye there was nothing suspicious about those dozen odd lines in the Stop Press column.

"Stage Romance," she read. "Miss Aila Demaine, the leading lady at the Parnassus theater, was this morning married by special license to Mr. Lyle Garrick of Marron street. Mr. Garrick, it will be remembered, was recently suspected of murder, but was soon able to establish his innocence."

The next moment Mrs. Tarranio ran to the door.

"Brandy! Quick! She has fainted," she said to Esdale, who was waiting outside, and added: "It's all right, boy—she believes it. In three days—with a little management on my part—the coast will be clear for you."

For a week it looked as if Mrs. Tarranio's plan would defeat itself by its very thoroughness. It is but little exaggeration to say that during that time Rhoda Fairclough hovered between life and death.

They felt compelled to call in a doctor to find out what was the matter with her.

"In the sense in which you use the word there is nothing the matter," pronounced the doctor. "You told me she had had an unhappy love affair. And that I suppose accounts for it. She is suffering from shock and nervous prostration. See that she stays in bed and is kept perfectly quiet. If any fresh symptoms occur, send for me—otherwise there is nothing that I can do. It may be a long job."

After Esdale had seen the doctor off he talked it over with Mrs. Tarranio. "If she's going to be an invalid for a month, or even a week, we are dished," he remarked.

"We are!" admitted Mrs. Tarranio. "I thought she would just cry a bit and then listen to reason." There was a brutal callousness in the words that escaped Esdale. Each of them would have shrunk from inflicting physical torture on a young woman—but neither of them thought anything of subjecting her to mental agony.

"I'm in favor of dropping the whole stunt!" said Esdale gloomily.

"You always are, Gus darling, when anything goes wrong," returned Mrs. Tarranio. "But there's plenty of time yet."

"Ten days—next Thursday week," he cut in.

"Yes—and if she isn't well enough to do anything by then I've an eleventh hour plan for cutting our loss—and making a nice little profit into the bargain—though not, of course, what we expected."

Miss M'Cormic Says Marriage Cost $40,000

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., July 31.—A few personal nominations, suggested by a round of the film colony:

For sense of humor—Mary McCormic, former Chicago grand opera singer, now dividing her time and energy between fostering a movie career and trying to untie the bonds of matrimony with Prince Serge M'divani—"Yes, my marriage cost me $40,000. It would have cost more, but I got awake in time. At that, why should I begrudge the money? For every dollar it cost, marriage gave me one good, hearty laugh. And a good laugh is worth something these days."

For the most unique family situation—Sally Eilers, Hoot Gibson's wife, still holding off on the postponed divorce steps with Hoot while she bargains with Hoot over an agreement continuing the fond personal bonds which have developed between Sally and Hoot's ten year old daughter, Lois, by his former marriage to Helen Gibson.

For the cleverest actress to arrive here in a long time—Lilian Harvey of Britain and Germany, who starts every week of every picture she makes by handing a $20 bill to the head of the mechanical crew at Fox's, saying, "That's to buy beer for the boys," meaning grips, props, electricians, carpenters, sound men. As a result Lilian doesn't need to do any scene "stealing," for the mechanical force steal scenes for her.

For the height of irony, the Los Angeles city board of education, which last Saturday sent to Paramount studio and asked fifteen copies each of certain still photos from Cecil De Mille's recent picture, "Sign of the Cross." The school board wants the stills "for educational purposes" in connection with high school courses in Roman history.

MINUTE MYSTERY

By H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

HIDDEN TREASURE.

"This is certainly the bunk," muttered Officer Jenkins. He wiped the perspiration from his face, reached down and removed from the green grass of the large, flat stone he had just turned over with exaggerated effort and retrieved the cigaret he had dropped.

"Hidden treasure—diamonds, jewels—bah! And with old Fordney on the job, too! You wouldn't think he'd fall for such a gag," he continued to his companion, Officer Brown, who was industriously spading nearby. Jenkins was tired and weary and ready to call it a day, but Inspector Kelley turned to him with a glare that meant only one thing—to keep on digging. Jenkins dug.

The police had received an anonymous letter inclosing a rough sketch stating that they would find buried beneath the dirt floor of the old abandoned and haunted Wiltshire mill over $200,000 worth of jewelry stolen twenty-one years before from the home of Mme. Karloski, a wealthy recluse and spiritualist.

While knowing that most anonymous communications were worthy of little attention, Kelley, after discussing the matter with the professor, decided to investigate.

"Well, Fordney," he remarked, "while I don't believe this place is haunted, I can understand the villagers around here thinking so! There is something queer about it. No one has been in here for years—that's sure."

The professor, himself busily engaged with a spade, removed from the dirt on it a rusty, twisted nail and after a moment's silence replied, "I wonder if we're too late? Some one has been here and been here recently."

Good Morning!

Happy days ARE here again! Prosperity's TURNED that old corner—and perhaps it AIN'T goin' to rain no more! [Not but what we could do with a little rain.]

No, it's neither Pollyanna nor a seeress speaking. Merely a lady who follows the cinemas and has been startled and overjoyed to discover that empty theater seats appear to be things of the past.

It was just like old times yesterday at the State-Lake. [Twenty cents till one o'clock.] When I came out after the first show there was the good old waiting line—while happy voices of ushers chanted—as of yore: "Mezzanine only! No more seats on the main floor for an hour and twenty minutes."

Honestly, I could have danced in the streets—it all looked and sounded so SWELL!

Well, about that feature picture:

Conan Doyle! Sherlock Holmes! Those names invariably open the door upon a host of pleasant memories! For there ain't many adults who haven't, in years gone by, spent spell-bound eves following the adventures of the London detective whose deductive activities sired a certain style of mystery story and have served as pattern for the procedures of innumerable imitative sleuths—Philo Vance, Ellery Queen, etc.

"A Study in Scarlet," adapted from the book by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, has been modernized. It brings us a new type of Holmes—a keen, robust, business man Holmes, and, in place of the goshawful, spiderly Prof. Moriarty, a keen, robust, businesslike head criminal. 'Smatter of fact Detective Holmes and Lawyer Merrydew look enough alike to be brothers. You may, of course, prefer your Holmes frail and hypodermic-pricked, but I'm sure you'll forgive the present incumbent his physical fitness when you see what a slick detector he is. Warburton Gamble's Dr. Watson runs true to tradition.

June Clyde does a nice piece of work in a sensational rôle. Anna May Wong slithers sinisterly through the action. Doris Lloyd puts over a clever character bit as a certain Mrs. Murphy and other rôles are satisfactorily portrayed. The picture has been atmospherically photographed and was well directed. Mystery and suspense angles are well maintained and there is a slight flavoring of romance.

Thee'lt do well to patronize the State-Lake this week. Low temperature and prices and high grade entertainment don't ALWAYS go together.

See you soon.

Request for Playing Cards.

"Dear Miss Brown: Some time ago you helped us to get some playing cards, and I wonder if you would repeat the favor. There are so many patients here in the sun ward, playing cards all day in order to pass the time away, that our supply wears out quickly. J. N."

Beach Party.

The Juniors of the Edgewater Catholic Woman's club will have a beach party and wiener roast at 7:30 tomorrow night on the Northwestern university campus. Arrangements are in charge of Miss Margaret Collins.

Junior League Calendar to Be Issued Today

Magazine Lists Events of Next 2 Weeks.

Port Washington, the young couple will exchange their wedding vows after the Rev. Charles H. Ricker, rector of Christ church in Manhasset.

Miss Jean Nolan is to be maid of honor for Miss McCulloch, and her three sisters, Helen, Virginia, and Elizabeth, will attend her as flower girls. Quincy A. Gillmore Jr. will serve his brother as best man.

Many of Chicago's debutantes and post-debs know Miss McCulloch, for she has visited here a number of times. Last April she came out for Florence Carr's marriage to Edgar Marston II. Then, too, the older members of society are interested in the wedding because they knew Miss McCulloch's grandfather, who was the late Robert M. Fair of Chicago. Mr. Gillmore is a great-grandson of Gen. Quincy A. Gillmore, who was a noted civil war figure.

Pony Show to Be Repeated.

So successful was the pony show given Sunday that Miss Libby Chase has volunteered to repeat it at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon for the benefit of all of the children at the Arden Shore camp and the Lake Bluff orphanage.

Her only problem now is a way to transport the 300 boys and girls to Paul Lewellyn's farm.

The Bengal lancer act is to be repeated intact and then there will be a round of jumping, trotting and cantering with all of the same "actors" there were Sunday.

The MacLean Hoggsons, that attractive couple who moved here a few months ago from New York, were host and hostess to a score of their friends at cocktails yesterday afternoon to celebrate the birthday of Paget Cady.

Two year old Gloria Gebhart, who lives at 538 Meadow road, Winnetka, has a new baby sister. Last Wednesday her mother and father, the Barton R. Gebharts, became the proud parents of a second baby girls. Before her marriage Mrs. Gebhart was Madeline Masters, daughter of Mrs. Helen J. Masters and Edgar Lee Masters.

The first day and the last day of the month are always days that mark leave takings or home comings, and the end of July and the first of August are no exceptions. Today Mrs. William B. Hale and her two younger children, John and Eunice, are leaving for Fish Creek, Wis. Mrs. Merrill Hubbard and her two children and Mrs. George F. McLaughlin's daughter are going up to a cottage on the banks of the Brule river in Wisconsin. Mrs. Hubbard has rented the cottage for August, and Mrs. McLaughlin will join her next week.

Mr. Hale and his older son, George E. Hale II., are going up to Fish Creek in a few days, and as soon as the Hale's older daughter, Mary, has finished at Pinewood camp, she is going to join her family there. They all will be away until the middle of September.

Mrs. Leslie Wheeler and Mrs. William H. Mitchell have also left Chicago. Mrs. Wheeler has gone east to visit friends and Mrs. Mitchell has gone to Santa Barbara, Cal., where Mr. Mitchell will join her later.

Early Thursday morning a truck full of old furniture and a smart roadster will be starting off side by side for Dalton, N. H., to the little farm house on the 75 acres that belongs to Shepard Vogelgesang. Taking turns with Mr. Vogelgesang at the steering wheel of the truck will be his sister, Miss Zenaide Vogelgesang, and some other young people who are accompanying them.

Party Will Aid Maternity Center.

Soaring temperatures are no deterrent to the hard working members of the North Shore Auxiliary of the Chicago Maternity Center. Yesterday they announced plans for a luncheon bridge Friday noon at the Kildeer Country club. A buffet lunch will be served at 1 o'clock, with bridge following. Mrs. Leland R. Johnson as chairman of the social committee will be the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Philip H. Smith, Mrs. William Hammond, Mrs. William J. Nenner, Mrs. Kenneth Wilson, Mrs. Eugene A. Bishop, Mrs. Harry Lee, and Mrs. Burdette Gibson.

Nearly every Chicagoan with a collection of Currier & Ives prints plans a visit to the Chicago Historical society between 2 and 5 this afternoon. Harry T. Peters of New York has loaned his fifty best Currier & Ives lithographs to the society for exhibition and there is to be a special preview of them today.

Afternoon Coat from Lelong Has a Jabot Collar

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The silk coat from Lucien Lelong, sketched today, is one of the high style signs of summer fashions. First of all it has the flowerlike frill collar, so becoming, especially to the woman with a long neck. These collars are just as dressy as fur and ever so much more comfortable to wear in hot weather; and let me whisper to you that variations of them are to be much worn next cold weather also, for Lelong, Bruyère and Mainbocher are making them in the heavy wool of some of their smartest fall coats.

But the coat in our drawing is in black bengaline, and you know these heavier silks—reminiscent of grandfather's alpaca coat days—that shed the heat and dust with the same nonchalance displayed by the duck shedding water—are among the smartest new daytime fabrics.

This coat's unlined and it consequently has much of the light gayety of a frock, which reminds me that double dresses with the outside one plain, wrapping around the inner printed or contrasting one, also are much in favor. I mention them in this connection because chez Lelong it's often hard to tell whether the ensemble should be called a dress and coat or a "double header."

The jabot collar of our model is stiffened slightly at the edge by numerous rows of machine stitching, which also finish the full shaped flounces on the seven-eighths sleeves as well as the stitched down belt.

The two big buttons are made of lots of tiny mirrors set facet fashion in cut steel frames. I want you to notice the slenderizing effect of the back cut, and also the new narrower, more sloping shoulder line. Though officially labeled afternoon coat, it makes a grand all day wrap, adapting its formality to the hat, frock, and accessories it accompanies.

Church Night Vespers Will Start Promptly at 5:30 Instead of 6

The Chicagoland Church Night vespers, the great civic thanksgiving service to be held in Soldiers' field Sunday, Aug. 13, will begin promptly at 5:30 p. m. The service was first announced for 6 p. m., but following the request of the 250 young peoples' societies of the Christian Endeavor union, through Egbert Heerema, president, as well as following similar requests from a number of churches, the committee in charge has announced this change.

Members of the various young people's organizations of all denominations will make up a great chorus to lead the singing of the hymns. It is expected that more than 5,000 young people will be in the chorus. The congregational singing at the service will be led by Dr. Daniel Protheroe, internationally known Welsh choral director.

The committee for the vespers, under the chairmanship of Dr. Robert Clements, represents practically every Christian Protestant interest in Chicago.

If She's Full of Alibis, Let Her Go, Boys

Many 'Headaches' Signal to Find Another Girl.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

If a girl has a previous engagement the first time she turns down your invitation, boys—it may be so.

If she has a previous engagement the second time you call—again, she may be dated. BUT——

If she has a third or fourth previous engagement—you'd better save your nickels for use on some other girl.

That's our answer to Clyde. Clyde had eight months of a girl's company without any sign of ennui from the other side. Then he has one date broken with the excuse that a bad headache prevented. The second time she couldn't keep the date because she was going out with a cousin. Since that evening it's been one gag or another and no girl to take out.

Says Clyde: "I love the girl madly and I do not wish to be too hasty in breaking off."

It's tough to have to admit that yours is a lost cause. But there's no other verdict to be faced when the girl friend begins her cousin and headache and sick aunt alibis. The worst mistake a young man can make at this stage of the game is to keep on calling. His only hope of recovering the girl is not to call. No matter how much grit it takes to keep from picking up the telephone receiver, he's got to muster it if he hopes ever to get the girl back. Even though she calls him, he'd better have a headache or something the first time she angles for a come-back. If he rushes right back madly, the old boredom comes over her again. She's too sure of her man. If she doesn't call—then that must be accepted as the finis.

But only with this girl. Get what consolation you may from the thought that she's only one girl. And in order to recover your self-assurance, force yourself to take another girl out right away. The principle of driving again immediately after a motor mishap may be applied to these heart problems that have run amuck. In order not to sink under the strain of a disappointment, hustle out and pick yourself off another girl.

Tiny Shaped Basques Give New Silhouette in Paris Style Shows

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, July 31.—Maggy Rouff sounds a winter style note with tiny shaped basques, jutting selflike from the hips and flattened in front and back, giving a brand new youthful silhouette.

This theme recurs throughout her collection in Victorian basque-bodied two piece frocks or blouses, shaped fabric folds or fur peplums for street jackets, and huge pouch flaps hanging from the belts on the hips of sport jackets. Ruffled fur hip basques are added to long plain coats.

Narrow skirts are moulded to below the knees with low flares and fitted tops to balance the outline. Maggy Rouff's daytime shoulders, long sleeves, and waistlines are refreshingly natural. Fur bottle effects and shoulder-to-shoulder super-Medici collars descending on the sleeves are continued.

Becoming ruffled collar or jabot effects are notable on many models. There are many fabrics, including fur.

The 1890 and 1900 periods are smartly modernized in evening gowns touching the floor all around. These have swathed hips, voluminous low fullness, and shirred or ruched trimmings with cup-up semi-revealing front hem lines at mid-knee.

Maggy Rouff revives the waning cape vogue with many variations of hip length evening wraps. Characteristic style notes are jackets or tunics of wool and chenille tricot with wool skirts and oval velvet-backed fur rug muffs.

THE STAGE

"Gay Divorce," the musical comedy now at the Apollo theater, will end its engagement next Saturday night with five weeks of the World's Fair summer on its record. Its producers, Messrs. Wiman and Weatherly, announce that the production will begin a London run early in the fall with Fred Astaire and Claire Luce, of the original Broadway cast, as its featured players. Erik Rhodes, one of the principals of the Chicago company, will be seen in the English cast.

The next production by Messrs. Wiman and Weatherly will be "She Loves Me Not," a farcical comedy dramatized from Edward Hope's novel by Howard Lindsay. Rehearsals will probably begin Sept. 1.

Lee Shubert has gone to Pasadena, Cal., to attend a try-out production of a play called "Man of Wax," for which he holds the American rights. The piece, of German origin, is a fantasy with Napoleon as its central character. It was adapted by Julian Thompson, author of "The Warrior's Husband."—C. C.

Letters About Circus Party Due Tomorrow

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Circuses are always great fun, but the one we'll see on Aug. 10 should be something rather special. You see, this is a golden jubilee circus, because Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey are starting their 50th year in this business. And by this time they really know how to put on a show!

The opening will be marked by a huge parade, with even the elephants all dressed up.

Then, of course, they have all kinds of animals, zebras, camels, lions, seals, horses, dogs and something I'll bet you never saw before—a baby giraffe!

I know you'll want to see Emir, too. He's said to be the largest tiger ever captured. And he keeps right on growing. He weighs half a ton, mind you, and measures 13 feet from the tip of his nose to the end of his tail, and they have to get a bigger cage for him every now and then.

If you'd like to see this big fellow and all the other animals, hear the band play and laugh at the clowns, you'd better let me know about it immediately. Your letters must reach me by tomorrow, you know, in order to give me time to select the best 100 of them. I'm going to take 50 boys and 50 girls who convince me that they'd really have a swell time, and when we're going to see a circus it shouldn't be a bit hard to write a good letter.

Some youngsters seem to have the idea that attendance at any previous party makes them ineligible for any future good times. They're wrong—any one may try for an invitation.

So don't waste any time. Get that letter off to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago—and don't forget to include your name, address and age.

Only Aryan Designers May Display Models at Berlin Style Show

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 31.—Four world famous musicians, the violinists Fritz Kreisler and Bronislaw Huberman, the cellist Pablo Casals, and the pianist Arthur Schnabel, announce that they will not appear in any concerts of the Berlin Philharmonic orchestra the coming season. The step is taken as a protest against the anti-Semitic movement.

Only Aryan fashion creators will be permitted to exhibit models of new German fashions at the show which the German fashion organization is staging in Berlin in mid-August. Officials state that there is no question of Jewish firms being allowed to participate.

Don't Snatch Things from Your Children

Use Reason, Not Force, to Take Away Bad Toys.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

The baby was watching his mother cut the bread. The slices fell one upon the other in a neat, fascinating row, like tipped over blocks. Suddenly something on the stove boiled over, and, annoyed, she turned to snatch the cover off the saucepan of creamed soup which she had forgotten. Such a mess!

She turned to pick up a dishcloth and was horrified to see the baby holding the big, sharp bread knife.

"No, no, baby, give me the knife!" she called out excitedly, and reached for it. The baby jerked back and waved the knife to and fro to avoid his mother's attempts to grab it. Each move was a menace to them both, but at last she caught his wrist and by main force uncurled the fingers of the tight little fist, while the baby burst into tears of frustration.

It is not necessary to take things from small children by force, except when they are actually babies who can neither walk, talk, nor understand. Even then, when you have to take something from a little baby's hand, you can do it gently and rather slowly, and without crossness, distracting the baby with something else if necessary.

But early you can dispense with this method. Any little child can be trained to give up what you want him to, without resorting to force. Don't be excited nor angry nor sudden! Be calm and friendly, and explain. Sometimes, even if he doesn't understand, the sound of explanation in your voice awakens an intelligent response in him. Add to that an air of taking for granted that he will give up what you want him to, and you'll get results. If he's used to trusting you it's easily done. And then you are not putting him through the experience of feeling himself powerless in the grip of superior force, because with that sensation comes frustration. Force should not be used except in a real emergency.

The little boy with the bread knife would have given it up if his mother had talked quietly to him, or perhaps held his hand while he cut a few slices and then had said, "Now let mother have it, because daddy is coming and we must cut some bread for him."

Auto Owners Urged to Loan Cars for Orphans' Outing Day

Automobile owners were urged yesterday by the Orphans' Automobile Day association to volunteer their cars to transport inmates of orphan asylums and homes for the aged to the annual outing at Lincoln park on Wednesday, Aug. 16.

"We will need 1,000 automobiles to be assured that none of the dependents will be left at home on the red letter day of the year to them," said R. C. Crist, president of the association. "We are making arrangements to accommodate 5,000 children and old folks."

The Chicago Automobile Trade association and other organizations are supporting the outing, which has been conducted annually for twenty-seven years.

Those who wish to volunteer cars are asked to call M. J. Lamb, chairman of the transportation committee, at Dearborn 0718, or write him at 215 West Wacker drive.

Fruits Served as New Filling for Sandwiches

Appetizing Novelties at Tea or Luncheon.

BY MARY MEADE.

Fruits are exploring new realms these days—they've ventured out as meat accompaniments and sometimes even had themselves baked, fried, or broiled while straying abroad.

But the latest news is the best, for fruits are now offering themselves as sandwich fillings! So if your family leans enthusiastically toward sandwiches, or if you wish they would, experiment a bit in the realms of fruit ones. They're grand! for midafternoon snacks and tea accompaniments or they form a tantalizing center about which to build a luncheon menu. To balance the meal serve a vegetable soup or casserole of vegetable. The sandwiches still will be in the spotlight.

If whole wheat bread is your choice you've probably already discovered how good cream cheese tastes with it. But the tartness of fruit creamed in with the cheese will make an even more palate thumping combination. Add one-half cup of sliced strawberries, crushed pineapple, or halved cherries to one-half cup of cream cheese. (Cottage cheese may be substituted for the cream cheese.)

Cream cheese and apricot jam is another popular sandwich filling.

Or chop almonds and add them to orange marmalade for an afternoon tea sandwich filling. Spread the mixture between thin slices of white bread.

Open pineapple and cheese sandwiches are made in the following manner: Toast slices of bread on one side, turn them over and lay on the untoasted side of each a slice of pineapple. Over this spread processed American cheese which has been creamed until smooth. Place under a broiler until the cheese is melted and serve at once.

For another tempter spread bread with a combination of chopped prunes, chopped nuts, and mayonnaise, tuck in a crisp little piece of lettuce and you have a sandwich most decidedly worth talking about.

Or for a California specialty mash a well ripened avocado, mix with two tablespoons of butter and enough lemon juice to bring out the flavor of the avocado. Spread it between thin slices of white bread.

Equal parts of chopped dates and celery moistened with mayonnaise provides a novel filling called Tropical Delight.

Bananas combine with many sandwich fillings because when crushed they become of a "mayonnaise consistency." A favorite at our house is:

BANANA, BACON, AND APPLE SANDWICHES.
6 slices bacon
2 bananas, crushed
1¼ finely diced apples

Crisp the bacon and chop into fine pieces. Mix it with the crushed bananas and diced apples. Spread the mixture on buttered bread, slip in some crisp lettuce leaves, and top with another slice of bread.

Leftover sandwiches may be dipped in beaten egg and milk and sautéd in butter. Did you know that? Or we often prepare fresh sandwiches this way because they are so good for luncheon.

HAM AND PINEAPPLE SANDWICHES.
1 cup finely diced cooked ham
1 cup drained crushed pineapple
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
2 tablespoons pineapple juice
2 tablespoons milk
1 beaten egg

Mix together the ham, pineapple, mustard, and pineapple juice and spread. Dip the sandwiches in the beaten egg, which has been combined with the milk. Sauté the sandwiches in butter until golden brown. Serve at once.

CREDITOR FILES BANKRUPT SUIT AGAINST KRENN

Charges He Guaranteed Payment of $550,000.

A petition in involuntary bankruptcy was filed yesterday against Edwin D. Krenn, architect and business associate of the late Edith Rockefeller McCormick, in the United States District court. The petition was filed by the law firm of Knapp, Beye, Allen, Cochran & Cushing on behalf of Paul A. Warner, Ohio state superintendent of building and loan and associations and liquidator of the Columbian Building and Loan association of Columbus.

Charges Krenn with Debt.

The petition alleges that Krenn, under a contract dated last Feb. 10, guaranteed the payment of $550,000 to the Columbian Building and Loan company, and posted securities then valued at $375,000 for collateral. The securities have now depreciated to $50,000, the petition alleges, and Krenn owes $500,000 and interest of $13,541 up to Dec. 31, 1932, on the indebtedness and interest at 7 per cent a year since then. The principal and interest have been defaulted, the petition says.

The petition also charges that Krenn committed acts of bankruptcy on March 31 when he transferred all his real estate and all his claims against Mrs. McCormick's estate and the Edith Rockefeller McCormick trust to Attorney Maurice B. Rissman under a trust agreement, and on April 8 when he transferred his personal property, including jewelry, automobiles and clothing, under a chattel mortgage to Samuel E. Hirsch.

Contract for Payment.

Under the contract with the Columbian Building and Loan company, Krenn and his former partner, Edward A. Dato, and their concern, Krenn & Dato, guaranteed the payment of $550,000 owed by Devon-Hall, Inc. Devon-Hall, Inc., of which Krenn was an official, is a real estate concern with holdings in Columbus. The corporation has defulated on tax payments on its Columbus real estate, the petition says.

AUSTRIA INFORMS THREE POWERS OF NAZI AGGRESSION

[Copyright; 1933; By the New York Times.]

VIENNA, July 31.—Responding to inquiries by three great powers, the Austrian government has furnished them with full details concerning recent Nazi aggressions. This information was given today when inquiries were made about reports circulating abroad that Britain, France, and Italy intended to make joint representations at Berlin regarding the Nazi campaign.

A foreign office spokesman said:

"The British, French, and Italian ministers have asked detailed information concerning repeated violations of Austrian sovereignty by Germans, especially through airplane raids and radio propaganda. This information, of course, has been furnished, but no request for intervention was coupled with it."

EX-QUEEN OF SPAIN ACCEPTS $40,000 AS A. P. MOORE BEQUEST

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 31.—(AP)—The former queen of Spain, an executor announced today, has accepted a settlement of $40,000 on the $100,000 bequest left her by Alexander P. Moore, one time ambassador to the court at Madrid.

John O. Wicks, the executor for the estate, said he reached the settlement at a recent conference with Victoria Eugenia and her advisers at Fontainebleau, France.

He added, however, that Mrs. Dorothy Caruso Holder, widow of Enrico Caruso, has refused to accept a compromise settlement on a bequest of $40,000 from Moore.

Wicks said that at the time of Moore's death the estate was worth $1,500,000, but that it since has shrunk to about $700,000. Moore was a former Pittsburgh publisher who also served as ambassador to Peru.

The estate has been in litigation and one of the litigants has been Mrs. Dorothy Russell Calvit, daughter of Moore's second wife, who, as Lillian Russell, was a famous actress.

GIRL IS FOUND SLAIN; POLICE HUNT 'HUSBAND'

Mystery Telephone Call Reveals Murder.

A young woman who was found shot to death yesterday in a third floor flat at 316 Center street, was identified last night as Helen Rusnak, 19 years old, of 1024 Milwaukee avenue. Neighbors earlier had described her as the bride of William L. Tresize, 21 years old, who is now being sought as the slayer.

The murder was discovered after police received a telephone call from a man who said: "A man shot his wife at 316 Center street." The caller then hung up. The police believe Tresize made the call. Witnesses saw him drive away from the house in a sedan about that time.

Not Married, Mother Says.

Whether the girl was married to Tresize police could not say. According to a sister, Margaret Rusnak, who identified her, Helen had told her last week that she was married and living at the Center street address. According to Tresize's mother, Mrs. Mary Tresize, 1617 North Wells street, Helen and her son were not married. The two moved into the Center street flat after Mrs. Tresize had refused to allow them to live with her, she said. They had lived there six weeks.

Mrs. Angeline Enger, who lives in an apartment adjoining that which had been occupied by Tresize and the girl, told the police that she had frequently heard the couple quarreling, and had noticed that the girl's arms were bruised.

"At first I just couldn't stand it," the girl is reported to have said to Mrs. Enger, "but I'm getting so I can take it now."

Girl's Name a Mystery.

The girl's name was scrawled on a card found in her purse, but could not be deciphered.

Policemen Patrick Dugan and Anthony Osterkorn of the Hudson avenue station arrested Tresize a year ago when they found him stripping an automobile in a garage.

"Prove that the car was stolen," Tresize told them when they accused him of being an automobile thief. The motor and serial numbers had been effaced. When it was found impossible to identify the car and trace its ownership, Tresize was charged with disorderly conduct and was freed when he testified that he owned the car.

OLD ARCADIA HALL LEASED BY ELEVATED LINES

The Illinois commerce commission yesterday approved the terms of a five year lease through which Arcadia hall, Broadway and Sunnyside avenue, is to be reopened as a dance and exhibition hall. The hall is owned by the Chicago Rapid Transit company. For the last seven years the property has been vacant and windows and lights have been broken.

A. A. Sprague and Britton I. Budd, as receivers for the Rapid Transit company, executed the lease to Albert Hart and Michael Agazim. The rental for the first two years is $5,000 a year, $6,000 for the third year, and $7,000 for the fourth and fifth years. The lessors agreed to spend $18,000 on putting it in repair so it will be suitable for athletic meets and amusement purposes of various kinds.

DOPING HORSES, IT APPEARS, IS A PIKER TRICK

How About Boys Who Gyp in Stocks?

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 31.—Your correspondent is going to remain quite calm in the face of the revelation that some unscrupulous characters have been jabbing horses with hypodermics at some of the horse-plants, and just put it down to bad home training, rather than any innate badness. It is too bad for the steeds, of course, that their nerves were upset and their strength imposed upon for purposes of monetary gain, but worse suffering goes on, and the running horse has a fairly easy time of it, at worst.

The people who love horses, including that considerable element who think they love horses, but merely love to own them, will kick and scream and carry on about the terrible cruelty of such acts, and your correspondent will say for himself that he would not personally do any such thing, if that is any concession. But it is doubtful that the sufferings of the horses which were stuck with the needle or otherwise stimulated were at all comparable to certain other discomforts which could be cited offhand.

Anything for Some Money.

On the turf there is great scorn for the unscrupulous element and the members thereof are deemed to be very low customers. But the boys were out to make some money, and there is much evidence to show that persons who are out to make some money will resort to many tricks which they did not learn in their copy books. And, if this be depravity, that is just too bad, but the low characters of the horse-business are by all odds the most interesting and picturesque.

You never read a good horse-park fiction story about a refined society type, but if your taste in reading runs at all to such fiction you will have read quite a few good pieces concerning the sordid specimens. Their gall and cunning and resourcefulness make them interesting far beyond the customer of some pompous stock promoter who wishes to be regarded as an ornament to the sport, or some young man who is a noted turfman by reason of his father's having died and left him some-odd million dollars and a stable.

Can't Revere Mr. Which.

Your correspondent has never enjoyed the delusion that the refined, or society type of operator in the horse-business must, of necessity, embody any more actual virtues than the frowsy swipe behind the barn. He wishes he could believe this, because many of the boys around the tracks, who speak so reverently of Mr. Which, the big millionaire sportsman, or Mr. Those, the distinguished pillar of the American turf, seems to have a beautiful belief in them, and faith is good for the soul.

But your correspondent is quite a hand to examine motives and conditions, and it has always seemed to him that such parties might be honest in horse-matters only, because, with all their money, they cannot be tempted by the comparatively petty profits which might be derived from chiseling in the races. How well would they stand off temptation if they were in the position of the former swipe behind the barn?

Ticker Instead of Needle.

The collapse of the great big, gorgeous boom and the revelations which ensued tended to confirm a sad suspicion that a refined, or society type of citizen might be a spiritual brother of the vulgar type and engaged in the same general line of work but merely using different tools—a stock ticker instead of a hop-needle or sponge, for instance.

It is hard to appreciate the moral superiority of the man who plays mischievous pranks with the citizens' savings in the market over the hoodlum horse-park operator who cuts himself a slice of cake out of the betting pool before posting the odds on a race just run, or the boys who stimulate a steed to excel himself. Some of the most distinguished society types cut themselves slices of cake in Wall street and in their board-rooms.

What's a Lost Bet?

Unfortunately, in too many cases, the money happened to represent the widow's mite or the old people's nest egg, whereas, after all, the horse-park prankster inflicts no serious damage. He only cheats a few citizens out of their bets. And most bets are small and, moreover, the party who drops a bet at the races, whether by fair means or foul, isn't much hurt. Gambling money is spare money, as distinguished from the grocery money and the rent.

Cubs Hope to Start a Drive for Pennant

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Cub optimists—there are such persons, despite the Cubs' present unfinished string of six straight losses—are pointing with hope to the fact the Cubs have exactly the same status this morning as they had when Charley Grimm took them over a year ago tomorrow night.

The Cubs this morning are 6½ games out of first place. As all fans remember, they were exactly that distance back when Grimm succeeded Rogers Hornsby on Aug. 2 and started a drive which won the pennant.

Setting Is Favorable.

Those optimists also point out that Grimm has a more favorable scene this year for the start of his August pennant drive than he did last year. Last year the August drive began in Philadelphia against the then fourth place Phillies. This afternoon the Cubs will start Grimm's anniversary campaign against the tail end Cincinnati Reds at their beloved Wrigley field, the first of a nine game home stand against the three western rivals. The Wrigley field phase of the August pennant maneuvers did not begin last year until Aug. 16.

The Cubs' pitching staff was pretty badly upset by the cuffing the lads got in dropping three in Pittsburgh and three in St. Louis. It is believed, however, that Pat Malone will be able to start against the Reds in this afternoon's game. Lon Warneke, who has suffered four of his seven defeats at the hands of the Reds, worked only 3 2-3 innings in his Saturday start against the Cardinals and should be available for service in the series.

Cubs Hope for Three Straight.

Although the Reds so far this season have whipped the Cubs nine games out of fourteen, the lads are planning to take three straight in this series, figuring this will be a good thing to do while the Pirates and the Cardinals are battling each other in Pittsburgh.

The Pirates will come to town Saturday for the week-end and the Cards will drop in next Tuesday and Wednesday to give Carleton and Dean some exercise.

LEVINSKY TO WED FRANCES FAY, BLUES SINGER

King Levinsky, heavyweight fighter from Chicago's west side, is engaged to Miss Frances Fay, Brooklyn blues singer, he announced yesterday. Levinsky, in telling his sister-manager, Mrs. Lena Levy, of the engagement, said he wished to be married in about two weeks, but Mrs. Levy declared his bout with Jack Sharkey here next month shall come first.

"It happened so suddenly I can hardly believe it," Mrs. Levy said, "and while King is crazy about Frances, I shall not consent to a wedding until he has fought Sharkey." The Sharkey bout is scheduled for Sept. 6, probably at Soldiers' field.

Levinsky met his fiancée about four months ago. She has been visiting in Mrs. Levy's home.

FLEET PRINCESS CAMELIA WINS IN HAWTHORNE DASH

12,000 Attend Opening of West Side Track.

Picks Six Winners

FRENCH LANE, turf writer for The Tribune, who chooses what he considers the best horses in each race every day, picked six winners on yesterday's opening day card at Hawthorne. He named in advance the horses which ran first in the first, second, third, sixth, seventh, and eighth races and in the seventh called the first three in their order of finish. The fifth race was substituted for one previously announced by the track, so that Lane really named the winners in six of seven races.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Princess Camelia, a grey filly from Chicago and a long shot in the betting, won the Cascades purse in a thrilling finish as the summer racing season opened at Hawthorne, oldest of all Chicago race tracks, yesterday afternoon.

With many Chicagoans who are ever loyal to the old home town cheering her along she popped out in front as the barrier lifted, shook off one challenger after another and came home with her head in front of Bright Shadow, from the Audley farm in Virginia. Karl Eitel was third.

Finish Is Close.

The finish was so close some the fans not on a direct line with the winning post blinked their eyes and wondered if she had really won.

She won it alright but couldn't have lasted before the spectacular challenges of Bright Shadow and Ald. Coughlin's Karl Eitel much longer. Her race was brilliant because she ran the 6½ furlongs in 1:18 2-5, which was within a fifth of a second of the track record.

The Hawthorne track, rich in the traditions of Chicago racing, opened the season to a house full of customers, there being about 12,000 on hand when the field paraded to the post for the Cascades.

West Side Turns Out.

All the Chicago regulars were there, many leftovers from the east who were here for the Arlington season were present, and the west side, ever loyal to Hawthorne, was out in full force. The only thing the enthusiastic west siders left at home was a brass band, and a brass band wasn't needed at such a lively opening of a west side racing season.

Princess Camelia was the most highly prized horse in the big stable which the late Joe Leiter, wheat king, maintained a couple of seasons back. After Mr. Leiter's death Princess Camelia was purchased from his estate by John Marsch, Chicago contractor, who at the time was assembling an extensive stable of racers.

Until she made her dash toward the winning post in the Cascades she had never raced very kindly for Owner Marsch.

Makes Fast Start.

Princess Camelia always fast away from the post, had little trouble outbreaking her field and after a few jumps she was a length and a half in front with Merrily On running second and Bright Shadow third. Karl Eitel, which had been expected to be away from the gate flying was a bit tardy leaving and was fifth going down the back stretch.

Half-way down the stretch Bright Shadow and the Princess were running head and head and it looked like the Virginia mare would go into the lead at any instant.

Princess Camelia would not give an inch in the last furlong, however, and continued to lead Bright Shadow until they had passed the line of finish. Karl Eitel was coming fast by this time, yet he still was two lengths back of the two fast running mares.

After turning in her fleet performance Princess Camelia caused her backers to cheer all the more when the mutuel prices were hung out on the big white, black and green board in the infield. She paid $50.80 to win, $18.84 to place, and $11.30 to show. Bright Shadow was at $8.64 to place and $4.44 to show. Karl Eitel's show price was $5.15.

Grimes Signs to Pitch for Cards Again

St. Louis, Mo., July 31.—(AP)—Burleigh Grimes, whose pitching was largely responsible for the St. Louis Cardinals winning the world series in 1931, will again join the Red Birds, Branch Rickey, vice president of the club, announced tonight.

The last of the National league spitball pitchers, who was released unconditionally by the Chicago Cubs here yesterday, signed a Cardinal contract today, and will report to Manager Frankie Frisch in Pittsburgh Wednesday.

"I still believe that if I can get enough work I'll be able to pitch winning baseball," Grimes said. "I'm in good condition and will be ready for work when I report to Frisch."

Grimes, who has been with every club in the National league except Cincinnati and Philadelphia since "coming up" in 1916, was traded to Chicago after the 1931 series.

The veteran right hander has participated in four world series, while with Brooklyn in 1920, with the Cardinals in 1930 and 1931, and the Cubs a year ago.

CARDINALS WIN FROM COLUMBUS, 4-3, AFTER RALLY

Columbus, O., July 31.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals defeated their Columbus American association farm team, 4 to 3, here today, coming from behind to score three runs in the eighth inning. Bob O'Farrell of the Cards and Mickey Heath of the Columbus club hit home runs. Score:

BETTY NUTHALL WINS EASTERN SINGLES TITLE

Easthampton, N. Y., July 31.—(AP)—Betty Nuthall, British Wightman cup star, captured the singles championship of the eighth annual Maidstone Invitational Tennis tournament today, defeating Alice Marble, young Sacramento, Cal., player, 8-7, 6-3, 6-0.

England also shared in the doubles title as Margaret Scriven, another British Wightman cup player, teamed up with Elizabeth Ryan, veteran Californian who has made her home in England for many years, to defeat Miss Marble and Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, 6-2, 8-6.

MISS POYNTON, OLYMPIC DIVING CHAMP, TO WED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., July 31.—Dorothy Poynton, 18 year old Olympic diving champion, will marry Nelson L. Hill, Hollywood business man and athlete. The engagement was announced today by Miss Poynton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Poynton.

Miss Poynton has been competing in several meets in the east.

The couple met last year at the Hollywood Athletic club. Miss Poynton won the Olympic high diving championship for women last summer.

EVERY BOUT TO BE A BATTLE, IS SLOGAN OF IRISH

They Can't Let Down New Friends in Chicago.

BY JERRY CURRAN.

It is evident that the eight Irish champions who are preparing to do battle with Chicagoland's Golden Glovers will fight more than eight Chicago boys tomorrow night.

True, they left Ireland with the general intention of doing what they could in the way of cleaning up the best there is in Chicago amateur boxing, but that was before they had any idea of the way Chicago's Irish population was going to regard the matter.

Two weeks ago they went through their hours of training on the deck of an ocean liner, with the thought in the mind of each that the old country was relying upon them to uphold its prestige in the world of sport abroad. It was a thought to inspire them to that seriousness of training without which athletes can not reach the top.

They Feel the Responsibility.

Today, having seen for themselves the depth of feeling for them in this metropolis of the middle west, they realize that the duty of assuring success in these bouts lies heavier upon them because of the confidence Ireland's expatriate children, residents of Chicago, repose in them.

Wherefore, if there is one thing more certain than another about these contests, it is that every bout will be a fight, in the most literal sense of the word. These boys can not help feeling that every blow they strike in the Soldiers' field ring will be a blow for Ireland. Not, indeed, against a foe who merits their ill feeling but, just the same, thousands of Irish eyes will be watching every blow in that ring, socking with these Irish boys, feeling every blow they take, sensing the satisfaction of a well-placed hook or jab, aching when they're shaken by the opposition.

Every Handshake Helps.

That feeling has helped to inspire the Irish champions in the intensiveness of their training. To outside eyes, it may have seemed that they tasted over-deep of the delights of entertainment that Chicago, in its warmheartedness, had prepared for them. But it is a fact that every new hand they have shaken, every word of welcome that has been offered them in this week of welcome, has been but an added spur to the vehemence of their will to win.

It has shown in their training. One short week ago these eight Irish boys were slow, almost lazy, it seemed. Put it down to the heat, or the food, or the strangeness of their environment—the reason does not really matter. The fact was that their form did not impress.

Today, their eyes are alight with the blaze of battle, even in the mock contests of the sparring ring. Their muscles ripple with the smoothness of determined effort. They have changed overnight, almost, from practicing boxers with a nice style into fighters with a mission in life more important than the show they are going to put on.

Win or Lose, They'll Fight.

They may not win. It is idle, to say the least, to make predictions before the judges have handed in Grand Beach, Mich., July 31.—Five Golden Gloves champions who fought against New York last March retained their positions when the Chicago team of eight amateur boxers, who will face the Irish Wednesday night at Soldiers' field, was picked today. Three Golden Gloves who fought in the secondary fight against New York, all of whom won their intercity matches, complete the team.

The two champions who lost their places on the international squad were Johnny Baltzer of Davenport, Ia., and Henry Rothier, who last year competed from Davenport, but has resided since in Chicago. Lennie Cohen replaced Baltzer and Bill Celebron took Rothier's position as welterweight representative.

Ross Helps Pick Team.

There was only a shade difference, according to Coaches John Behr and George Young, between these rivals. They also had an opinion from Barney Ross, former Golden Gloves champion, who is lightweight champion of the world. All voted unanimously for the team of eight printed above. Cohen was an alternate on the 1932 International team which fought Germany. Baltzer, runner up in the 1932 tournament, took the flyweight berth when Al Soukup outgrew the division.

Cohen was selected over Baltzer primarily because of his height and boxing ability. According to reports, Paddy Connally, the Irish flyweight, is a crouching, slugging type. Baltzer fights in much the same fashion, but Cohen, while he can punch, also has an advantage in boxing. Both Baltzer and Cohen defeated their New York opponents this year.

Celebron A. A. U. Champion.

Bill Celebron's choice as welterweight climaxes a three year career in Golden Gloves. In 1932 he was runner up to Johnny Phagan. This year Rothier won the championship by a decision. Since then, however, Celebron has won the national A. A. U. championship. He is a straighter, harder puncher than Rothier and better fitted, according to the coaches, to meet the Irish welterweight. Celebron also is in better physical condition, for Rothier has shown a tendency to tire after the first round.

George Van der Heyden, 1933 featherweight runnerup, was chosen for the international team. The position was vacated by Leo Rodak, who recently became a professional. Izzy Goldstein, who fought as a bantamweight against New York, did not quite equal the pace set by Van der Heyden in the final days of training. Goldstein lost a close decision to his New York opponent last March, while Van der Heyden won his bout.

Six Intercity Winners.

Six of the eight members of the international team are intercity winners. Ginter was defeated and Eddie Ward lost on a foul, the first in six years of Golden Gloves. Ward is a wild swinging southpaw who has almost as much trouble controlling his punches as a baseball pitcher who throws from the wrong side.

In addition to Celebron, Max Marek, the rugged light heavyweight, twice a Golden Gloves champion, also won a

OWNER DENIES DOPING HORSE AT ARLINGTON TRACK

Officials Testify Before Federal Jury.

Twenty-two witnesses, among them stable owners, trainers and officials of two of Chicago's race tracks, testified before a federal grand jury yesterday a the United States narcotic bureau continued its investigation of the alleged doping of race horses on American tracks.

While none of the evidence given the jury was disclosed, it was revealed by Leslie E. Salter, assistant attorney general in charge of the investigation, that indictments on charges of violating the Harrison anti-narcotic act would be made in a few days against seven men who were arrested by agents at Arlington Park last Friday.

Owners and Officials Testify.

Appearing before the grand jury were Ben Creech, owner of a string of race horses; C. J. Fitzgerald and George Brown Jr., stewards at Arlington Park; Harry Morrissey, starter at Hawthorne, which opened its meeting yesterday, and C. E. Bancroft, Edward Haughton, J. D. Mikel, A. A. Baroni, W. C. Reichert, N. W. Burkhart, R. T. Watts, G. E. Phillips, all prominent in turf circles.

The grand jury questioned four of the seven men who were arrested by Ralph M. Oyler of the Chicago narcotic bureau, who led a squad of federal agents in the raid at Arlington Park. They were Ivan Parke, once rated as one of the leading jockeys on United States tracks; Dr. Edward Nelson Southard, Louisville, Ky., veterinarian; Charles Mitchell and William Payne, stable boys.

Veterinarian Denies Charge.

Dr. Southard denied the charges of agents that a hypodermic needle was found in the neck of Louie Dear, a colt owned by Jack Howard, after the horse, the favorite, lost in a race last Friday afternoon. Dr. Southard explained that he had been treating the animal for more than a year with a non-narcotic solution because of a pain in the left foreleg.

Howard also appeared before the jury and said it was a "harmless injection." The horse was given a shot of novocaine, a non-narcotic drug, Dr. Southard said. It was charged that injections of heroin and cocaine were given the horses to increase their speed just before a race.

Agents testified they saw dope administered to Timorous in the stable of Creech, father-in-law of Parke, just before the horse stepped out and won the second race last Friday. The investigation of dope on American tracks, according to reports, has been going on for eight months.

Along with conducting the grand jury hearing Oyler will be assigned to track down other suspects. He was replaced by Mrs. Elizabeth Bass as chief of the Chicago bureau of the federal narcotic bureau yesterday.

Plans Further Quiz.

Oyler said he planned investigations on all tracks in the United States. The appointment of Mrs. Bass was announced by H. J. Ansliger, chief of the bureau, in Washington. Anslinger ordered Oyler to continue his investigation and lead the prosecution of those already arrested.

The appearance of Salter in the case as head of the investigation brought rumors of a racket angle. Salter recently obtained an indictment against Murry Humphreys, who took Al Capone's No. 1 position in Chicago gangland.

Grooms Are Seized.

The others who were arrested by Oyler, but were not questioned by the grand jury are William Cooney, a Negro known as "Bottoms Up"; John Pride, and Hinton Park, who served as grooms during the Arlington Park 31 day meeting.

They were accused of possessing narcotics and held in bonds of $2,500 each. Dr. Southard also was charged with using narcotics without a state license.

A $50 PRINCESS STARTS IN FRONT, STAYS THERE

Princess Camelia (No. 5), ridden by the veteran Earl Pool, steps out into the lead at the start of the Cascades purse, fourth race on Hawthorne's opening program yesterday, and leads for the entire six and one-half furlongs. Folks who had tickets on the Princess were rewarded with $50.80 to win, $18.84 to place, and $11.30 to show. Bright Shadow was second and Karl Eitel third.

MY BOSS, slow to get going and far back in the first three-eighths, improved his position fast when getting through on inside after reaching stretch and, coming around the leaders, was ready to draw out. DOGMATA, a strong factor from the start, had to lose ground and hold on gamely. SCOTCH PEPPER had speed, worked his way clear after reaching the turn, but weakened badly in final eighth.

POSTSCRIPT, in close quarters soon after the start and taken to the outside when clear and before going a quarter, came up fast after reaching stretch and, taking command, won under light hand riding. ALBANE, who was shuffled while taking a short lead on the stretch turn, could not withstand the winner, but held on well. ESPERANTO came out at the stretch turn and closed strong.

PRINCESS CAMELIA, going in her best form and showing the most speed from the start, was steadied along on turn and, holding on gamely under strong handling, stalled off BRIGHT SHADOW. The latter, probably best and forced to race wide throughout, responded to hand riding after reaching the stretch and was wearing down the winner. KARL EITEL dropped out of it slightly on the turn and went well under pressure the closing three-sixteenths.

GAILLARDIA, hustled into command and steadied through the backstretch, maintained a good lead and, under strong urging, held off REVERBERATE mile and was inclined to swerve in the late stages. REVERBERATE, the chief contention throughout, could not get to the winner, but held on with good courage and outstayed OATEN.

SNAPLOCK, rated along for five-eighths, came away on the stretch turn and weakened in the final eighth, but under mild urging held the lead safe. THROUGH OMOND, under energetic riding after a half mile, was allowed to swerve in the stretch and held on well. GRAMARYE, under strong urging, was bothered when PRENCHLICK SPRINGS S. and THROUGH OMOND in the stretch and, taken back, did well to save third over OLD JUDGE.

SCIMITAR, under strong restraint for seven-eighths, responded stoutly when called upon and, after racing into clear command, bore over under weak handling and had little left. PREFER had speed, saved ground throughout and, holding on well, outgamed CAIUS. The latter followed the early pace under light restraint, worked his way to the front before reaching the final eighth, and suffered slightly when winner bore over.

Practice Flights Prepare Robins for Dixie Trip

BY BOB BECKER.

Forty-two robins in sixty seconds. That was the count we made several days ago when we watched the robins heading for a newly organized night roosting colony in Libertyville, Ill. This sundown migration to a large clump of trees where hundreds of them spent the night was a hint that summer is skidding toward autumn and already our summer birds are beginning to tune up for their annual flight southward.

When August comes the Chicagoland bird students can turn to several species of birds for illustrations of "practice migrations" which precede the big push to the winter haunts of our songsters. The robin is among the first to form flocks and fly short distances in order to have company at night on a good sized roost.

The swallows also indulge in premigration practice and get together before the chilly autumn winds sweep through Chicagoland. Grackles and blackbirds form large flocks and sometimes make life miserable for Chicagoland residents by roosting in towns and cities.

When hundreds of these birds take over a clump of trees they are so noisy and so dirty they enter the nuisance class and everying from shotguns to firecrackers is used to make them move on.

This big robin roost at Libertyville was reported to us by W. E. McCormick, a resident of that town. The birds pass over Mr. McCormick's home on their way to the roost, so at 8:23 o'clock in the evening we stood in the garden behind his home in order to watch their flight to the evening powwow.

To get some idea of the number of robins going to the roost we counted all we could see in the fading light of the sunset. The count ran to 42 in exactly one minute. With the flight continuing up to dark and the birds coming from all directions, it is safe to estimate that many hundreds of birds must have checked in at the roost that night.

Fans Rush to Buy $3 Tickets at Hawthorne

There were a lot of folks in the opening crowd at Hawthorne who might be called dollar betters. At least they stormed the windows where the dollar across the board tickets were sold for the first time on any Chicago track yesterday.

Jockey Earl Pool, one of the veteran saddle stars of the country, made his first appearance of the year in Chicago. He came here from the Rockingham Park track in New Hampshire.

Flags were at half mast in respect to the memory of John Haskett, Hawthorne stock holder, whose funeral was held yesterday morning.

Jockey J. Lowry fainted in the paddock just before saddling time for the second race. He was scheduled to ride Tommy Tickle but wasn't revived in time to fill the engagement. L. Ruder substituted for him.

Had C. V. Whitney's champion Equipoise been intended as a starter in the Hawthorne handicap, the first stake race of the meeting to be run next Saturday, he would be asked to carry the crushing burden of 139 pounds. That is the rating that Racing Secretary Joseph McLennan assigned to the Whitney star. Equipoise is in Saratoga and will not start.

Norman W. Church's Plucky Play and Gallant Sir will be the top weight bearers in the Hawthorne handicap, each assigned 124 pounds. Polydorus comes next with 114 pounds, the great racing mare Tred Avon is handicapped at 112 pounds, while Indian Runner, a double stake winner at Arlington park, gets in with 110 pounds.

Saturday's stake is at a mile and an eighth for 3 year olds and up, endowed with $5,000 in added money. It has always attracted a star field and in its six previous runnings has been won by a good horse. Flat Iron, Hydromel, My Dandy, Brown Wisdom, Plucky Play, and Faireno won it in order.

Charles Krutckoff, vice president of the Hawthorne association occupied the club house offices where the late John Schank, president of the Hawthorne association held open house for so many years.

Lamp Black and Postscript won the second and third races and completed the first daily double ever offered at Hawthorne. There were many backers for both horses, yet the double paid $50.28.

HAWTHORNE MAY BE NEXT STOP FOR WINOOKA

San Francisco, Cal., July 31.—(AP)—Winooka, Australian racehorse who won his American debut in a match race Saturday, may appear next at the Hawthorne track in Chicago, it was announced here today by his owners, J. A. Mathews and W. A. McDonald.

They said they expected to leave for Chicago within ten days. Winooka defeated Hueu, Hawaiian bred horse, by a length and a half at the Tanforan track Saturday over five furlongs for a $10,000 purse.

YANKEES SLICE SENATORS' LEAD; TRIUMPH, 13 TO 9

Ruth Triples in Fourth with Bases Full.

Washington, D. C., July 31.—(AP)—The Yankees collected 18 hits off three Washington pitchers and defeated the league leading Senators, 13 to 9, today to get an even break in their four game series and head back to New York just a game out of first place.

Walter Stewart, Washington southpaw, was pounded from the mound in the fourth, when the Yankees bunched six hits, including a triple by Ruth with the bases full. The Senators chose this inning to commit two errors. First Kuhel dropped Lazzeri's pop foul, after which Tony promptly singled, scoring Chapman, who had opened with a double. After two more singles that filled the bases, Cronin's fumble of Combs' grounder allowed Lazzeri to score. Joe Sewell singled for another run and Stewart went to the showers. On the first ball pitched by Burke, Ruth lofted a three bagger to deep center which drove in three more runs. Ruth scored later when Gehrig was thrown out. The Senators scored four runs in a ninth inning rally. Score:

St. Louis, Mo., July 31.—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns took three hits and with a donation of seven bases on balls, stretched them into eight runs, in the seventh inning, for a 12 to 8 victory over the Cleveland Indians today.

This unusual exhibition was a feature of the St. Louis debut of Rogers Hornsby as the new manager of the Browns.

The Indians led St. Louis 8 to 4 in the first half of the seventh. West tripled, Campbell and Levey singled, and the Cleveland pitchers issued seven passes, giving the Browns a four run margin, which they held to the end. Cissell, Hale, and Kamm hit homers. Score:

MOON MULLINS—THE NEW COOLING SYSTEM

WHOOEE! SUCH A SUMMER! IT'S SO HOT MY NEW BRIDGE WORK MELTED AND I CAN'T GET MY TEETH TOGETHER. I WISHT THAT STINGY ICE BOX OF EMMYS WAS A BIT BIGGER AND I'D CRAWL IN IT TO COOL OFF.

DON'T FRET, LORD PLUSHBOTTOM- YOU JUST GO UP AND JUMP INTO MY BATHTUB AND COOL OFF
LET ME GO RUN HIM A GOOD COLD BATH, MISS SCHMALTZ.
I SAY, MY GOOD WOMAN, ISN'T MY TUB READY YET?
HOLD YER HOSSES, LORD PLUSHBOTTOM. I'LL CALL YOU WHEN IT IS.

WEBB SETTLES SOX TROUBLES AT FIRST BASE

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

For the time being at least, Lew Fonseca, the White Sox manager, can sleep without having bad dreams about bad first basemen. The appearance of Earl Webb as front door attendant has relieved the Sox manager of that much of the mental torment that has been beating him down by inches the last couple of months.

Webb at his best is no Earl Sheely around first base. But he'll give the bad throws, of which there are many, a battle, and by battling 'em he'll get a few. At his worst he may be no weaker defensively than his predecessors, Red Kress and Billy Sullivan, but he certainly should develop a big edge over them because of his power at bat.

Still Need Man for '34.

Even if Webb stands up well enough to hold the job for the remainder of the season it doesn't mean that the Sox will be relieved of the necessity of shopping around for a first baseman next season. If Fonseca is retained as manager and his present foot ailment vanishes, he'll be available for the job, but the insiders seem to think there will be a different man in the driver's seat. In that event Fonseca will have to be released as a matter of respect to his successor.

If Jim Dykes is promoted to the boss rôle it also is possible that Lou Comiskey will have to look over the field for a new third baseman. Dykes is getting along in years and it is showing in his fielding. He isn't the consistent defensive man he was a couple of seasons back, although still a far better third baseman than the Sox have owned in a dozen years. To burden him with the managerial duties might prove a quick way of nudging him out of the lineup completely.

Can't Win Without Pitchers.

Lou Comiskey, of course, is going to have the final say, and to date he has done no talking. He hasn't made a move that could be taken as an indication of dissatisfaction with Fonseca. Lou naturally isn't crooning to himself over the present plight of the team, but he knows that weakness exists and that those same defects would be present under any manager. If dissension were present there would be some basis for complaint, but so far none of that has been detected. The best layout in the world couldn't win without pitchers. The Sox have none to speak of.

The Sox after a day off in which to celebrate the end of their nine game losing streak on Sunday, departed last night for Detroit where they open a three game series today. After that they'll visit St. Louis for another three game argument. Then they'll come home for a long stay, during which they'll meet every club in the league except the Browns.

LONDON THRONGS HAIL PERRY AS DAVIS CUP HERO

LONDON, July 31.—(AP)—Great Britain's tennis stars, carrying the Davis cup with them, arrived at Victoria station today to receive as wild and tumultuous welcome as London ever has seen.

Thousands who thronged the station awaiting the arrival of the train, which was late, broke restraint when the victorious Davis cup squad finally detrained. The crowd swept aside the police lines. Several spectators fainted and narrowly escaped being trampled.

Fred Perry, who conquered André Merlin of France on Sunday in the match that clinched the British victory, was singled out for special attention. H. W. [Bunny] Austin, George Patrick Hughes, and H. G. N. Lee were virtually ignored. Everybody was cheering for Perry.

Six huskies hoisted him on their shoulders and swept him through the dense mob, hysterical with excitement. Police were powerless to cope with the situation.

Eventually Perry was placed in a waiting car and was driven slowly through the park, six "bobbies" on the running boards. Meanwhile the other three members of the team slipped quietly away.

BRYAN, MURPHY SCORE UPSETS IN TENNIS TOURNEY

Southampton, N. Y., July 31.—(AP)—Robert Bryan of Chattanooga and Dick Murphy of Utica, N. Y., furnished the Meadow club's forty-third invitational tennis tournament with a brace of upsets on the opening day of play today.

Bryan outlasted the veteran South Orange, N. J., player, J. Gilbert Hall, after a three hour battle, 9-7, 6-8, 6-4, while Murphy, a student at Hamilton, N. Y., college, put out Dr. Eugene McCauliff of Yonkers, 6-3, 8-6, thus summarily removing two seeded stars from the tournament. Hall was seeded sixth and McCauliff eighth.

Meanwhile other favorites, including Frank Shields, winner of the Seabright bowl last week; Frankie Parker, 17 year old national clay courts champion; Sidney B. Wood, defending titleholder and top seeded player; Gregory S. Mangin, national indoor champion, and Bryan Grant, little Atlanta star, advanced into the second round by straight set victories.

George Dawson's 141 Wins Medal in District Tourney

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

George Dawson, who has an acquaintance of long standing with all the greens and fairways of the Glen Oak Country club, went out yesterday and called them all by their first names again to win the qualifying medal in the 20th annual amateur tournament of the Chicago District Golf association.

The eldest of the golfing Dawsons, all of whom are quite familiar with the Glen Oak geography, shot 141, five under par, for the 36 hole distance. He traveled around in the morning as though he were bent on setting a course record, finally coming in to lunch with a 70, three under par. In the afternoon he was good for another 70, until he pushed a shot on the 14th, and had to be content with a 71, although he was putting for birdies on the last two greens.

Play Off for Places.

A field of nearly 90 of the district's best amateurs turned out to battle for the 32 places in the championship flight match play. Three 163 shooters, S. L. Reinhardt of Northmoor, Norman Anderson of Olympia Fields, and Wilbur Kokes of York, were forced to go extra innings for the 31st and 32d places. Each took a 5 on the first hole, and Kokes was eliminated on the second extra green, which he overshot with his second effort.

Dawson set such a terrific pace for the rest of the field that Fred Gariepy of Edgewood Valley, who finished second, was eight strokes back, with 149. Frank Justin, also of Edgewood Valley, took third place with 150, and fourth was shared by three 152 scorers, including Dick Martin of Briergate, the defending champion, who had not been required to qualify, but went around anyway, Don Armstrong, the new Illinois state champion, and Jimmy Garard of Skokie.

Two Rounds Today.

Two 18 hole matches will be played today and tomorrow in order to determine the finalists for the 36 hole championship match on Thursday. In today's first round battles Martin will meet Art Sweet of Ridgemoor and Dawson is paired against Robert Bohnen, 1933 captain of the University of Chicago team.

Dawson played perfect golf on the first nine of his morning round, hitting par all of the way to the turn except at the sixth, where he clipped it by running down a six foot putt for a deuce. On the home nine he knocked down three successive birdies, a six foot putt accounting for one at the 10th and 20 footers for those at the 11th and 12th. He took a 5 at the 14th, the only hole of the round on which he was over par, driving into a bunker and falling short with his second. He was home in another 35 for his 70.

Gets More Birdies.

He laid his drive to the third three feet from the pin for another deuce in the afternoon and ran down a 12 footer at the fifth for another birdie. He was out in 34. He was on the edge of the 10th green, hole high, for a birdie 4, and followed par to the 14th, where he pushed a shot and took a 5. He had putts for birdies on the 17th and 18th, but failed to run them down.

Dawson's card:

Stoddard Picks Western Stars in Polo Series

Louis E. Stoddard, chairman of the United States Polo association, yesterday picked the west to defeat the east in their world series of polo to be played at the Onwentsia club field in Lake Forest, Aug. 13, 16, and 20.

Asked why he favors the west, Stoddard mentioned first the ability of such players as Cecil Smith, whom he called probably the greatest No. 2 position man in the history of the game; Rube Williams, who has teamed with Smith for 11 years; Elmer Boeseke Jr., Aidan Roark, and Neil McCarthy.

"They play a fine brand of polo west of the Mississippi and I am happy that the time has come for a test for which some of us have been working and planning for four or five years," added Stoddard. Continuing, he said:

"The play is likely to be better, the tactics sharper, the competition keener than in any international matches we have seen in 20 years."

The first of the Texas ponies, 15 in number, to be ridden by the western players, will arrive this morning. Three of the players and 22 more ponies will arrive tomorrow. The players are Boeseke, Roark, and McCarthy. Smith and Williams will get here Thursday.

Reserved and box seats for single games in the series will be placed on sale this morning at headquarters in the Builders' building.

PEDLEY CAN'T PLAY.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 31—(AP)—Eric Pedley, star No. 1 player, will not be a member of the western polo team that faces the east in a three game series at Chicago Aug. 13, 16, and 20.

ALLEN PITCHES WAY TO TITLE IN HORSESHOE MEET

Theodore Allen of Alhambra, Cal., who had never before pitched in a national title match, yesterday won the International horseshoe pitching championship at A Century of Progress.

Allen won 20 games and lost three in the three day tournament, tying for first place with C. C. Davis, Kansas City, Mo., who has been champion five times. In a pitch-off Allen defeated Davis in two games, the first, 50 to 38, and the second, 50 to 24.

Nunmaker Loses, 50 to 23.

Blair Nunamaker of East Cleveland, O., the defending champion, lost a chance to retain his crown when he was beaten by Allen in their last game of the tournament, 50 to 23. He placed third in the final standing.

Fourth place was captured by Fernando Isais, Mexican champion, who lives in Los Angeles. Jimmy Risk of Montpelier, Ind., took fifth place.

Allen also set a new world's percentage record in tournament play for ringers, slipping over enough to total 73.5 per cent. The old record was 69.5.

Scores 93.2 in Match.

A new percentage record was established by Isais in playing Bert Duryee of Wichita, Kas. He scored 93.2 per cent, allowing Duryee only a single point.

Davis, in playing G. C. Hawley of Bridgeport, O., broke the world's record of 10 straight doubles by pitching 11 in a row.

WESTERN STATES REGATTA OPENS AT FAIR TODAY

National Meet Scheduled Friday and Saturday.

Leading rowing clubs of the central states will assemble this afternoon in the lagoon at A Century of Progress for the western states regatta. Ten races are on the first day's program beginning at 2 o'clock, to be followed by two more days of competition. On Friday and Saturday the national rowing regatta will be held on the same course.

Rowing from south to north in the World's Fair lagoon over a three-quarter mile course, the crews will finish behind the Administration building, where there are 8,000 free seats.

Two Clubs Race in Barge Final.

The first day's program opens with the junior singles heats, followed by the final in the junior barge, in which there will be two starters, the Western Rowing club of St. Louis and the South Side Boat club of Quincy. Next come preliminary heats in the quarter-mile open single shell class, with nine starters. Other events on the program are the junior double sculls in which the Lincoln Park Boat club of Chicago meets the South Side Boat club of Quincy, semi-finals in the junior single sculls and heats in the junior eight oared shell.

Tomorrow's program will consist largely of preliminaries in the senior events, with most of the finals to be decided Thursday.

Change Location of National Meet.

A change in location of the national rowing regatta on Friday and Saturday from the Grant park harbor to the World's Fair lagoon has been made necessary because of the numerous mooring buoys which obstruct the course. It will be the first time in 61 years that the national championships have been decided over any other route than the mile and a quarter Henley course.

GRAIN PRICES AGAIN 'PEGGED' TO HALT SLUMP

Yesterday's Close Is Made Minimum.

BULLETIN.

The Chicago Board of Trade directors last night voted to set as fixed minimums yesterday's closing prices on grains effective until Aug. 15. Any change at that time or before will be made only after three days' notice. Maximum fluctuations on grains—which today, of course, can only be on the upside—remain as they have been—5 cents each way on wheat, rye and barley; 4 cents on corn; 3 cents on oats, and 50 cents on provisions.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Following the third consecutive business day in which grain prices plunged downward the maximum amount permitted for a day's trading, the directors of the Chicago Board of Trade last night again imposed mimimum prices on all grains.

The new minimum prices are the same as closing prices yesterday. They will become effective at the opening of the market today and will continue in effect until Aug. 15. If any change is made effective after Aug. 15 the directors will give at least three days' notion.

The action of the directors means that prices cannot decline further in the next 15 days. At the same time the directors continued the present limitations on advances. Thus wheat, rye, and barley cannot rise more than 5 cents a bushel in a single day, while corn can advance only 4 cents, oats are limited to 3 cents and provisions to 50 cents per 100 pounds.

New Minimum Prices.

The new minimum prices for the future delivery months follow:

WHEAT.
September	.92¾
December	.95¾
CORN.
September	.49¾
December	.54¾
OATS.
September	.36¾
December	.40¼
May	.44¼
RYE.
September	.68
December	.73¾
May	.80
BARLEY.
September	.53
December	.57¼

New Minimum Lower.

These minimum prices are slightly below the former minimum prices on wheat and corn and a little higher on oats and rye that were in effect from Monday until Thursday last week. The old minimum prices were abrogated with the beginning of trading last Friday. On that day, on Saturday and yesterday prices of all grains declined the maximum amounts permitted under the fluctuation limits.

The former minimum prices were: Wheat: September, 92 cents; December, 95½ cents; May, $1. Corn: September, 53 cents; December, 57½ cents; May, 63 cents. Oats: September, 35 cents; December, 37½ cents; May, 41 cents. Rye: September, 67 cents; December, 73 cents; May, 80 cents.

The new minimum prices on provisions, per hundred pounds, follow: Lard, September, $5.90; October, $6.02; November, $6.20; December, $6.30; January, $6.80. Bellies: September, $6.50; October, $6.77.

Grains Lose Maximum Amounts.

Grain prices again plunged downward the maximum amount permitted for a day's trading on the leading American grain exchanges yesterday. Wheat, rye, and barley closed 5 cents lower, with corn off 4 cents and oats 3 cents from the finish of Saturday. Compared with last Thursday's closing prices, wheat was off 15 cents; corn, 12 cents, and barley, 9 cents.

December wheat, which closed last Thursday at $1.10¾, was down to 95¾ cents at the close yesterday. Many selling orders in the hands of brokers at the latter figure could not be executed owing to lack of buyers. The minimum price of early last week, which was abolished by the Board of Trade directors early Friday, was 95½ cents.

December corn touched 56 cents on the break, or 1½ cents under the recent minimum level, which was placed in effect for four days following the collapse in the market on July 19 and 20.

Wheat Below Dollar Line.

July wheat was the only delivery of grain which failed to decline the maximum amount yesterday, closing 4¼ cents lower at 89⅞ cents. The September delivery was offered at 92⅝ cents and May at 99⅞ cents. The dollar mark for wheat was wiped oc the blackboards in all American markets.

Corn closed with July at 45¾ cents; September, 49⅝ cents; December, 54⅞ cents, and May, 60⅛ cents, with sellers at these figures. July oats were offered at 35¾ cents;; ;September, 36¾ cents, and December, 40⅛ cents. July rye was 66 cents; September, 68 cents, and December, 73¾ cents at the last. Barley dropped 5 cents at the opening and closed there, with September at 53 cents and May at 57¼ cents.

There was no evidence of country selling of cash grain, and business was reported hampered by the inability to hedge against the cash article owing to trading in futures being restricted.

Strong Dollar, Weak Grains Puzzle Street

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Two price movements yesterday puzzled La Salle street. First, the prices of all grains sank the entire range permitted for the day under the temporary rules of the Chicago Board of Trade. Thus, for the third trading day in succession prices sank as far as they were allowed to sink.

Second, the dollar again gyrated wildly in foreign exchange. Closing quotations were not far from Saturday's close but during the day quotations shot all over the board. The British pound, which on July 18 was worth $4.85 in American money, closed yesterday at $4.48.

* *

In the absence of any other explanation the financial community yesterday was inclined to attribute the fluctuations in grain prices to the wobbling of the dollar. A few weeks ago when grain prices were steadily rising the dollar was steadily declining in foreign exchange. Now the dollar is rising and the grain prices are falling.

There are other factors which have had a great influence in the grain market. With harvest time for wheat at hand and with corn at the tassel stage the prospects for crops of all kinds daily become poorer. The drought continues throughout wide areas. Private estimates indicate that the next government crop report will be even more bullish.

* *

Market experts believe that in the near future the public will give due weight to the drought factor and that prices will rise accordingly. Just now, however, uncertainty about the value of the dollar, and distrust of the extraordinary restrictions placed on price movements have combined to undermine the market.

* *

Wheat and corn prices advanced rapidly for two reasons. First, the prospects were that the nation would have the shortest crops in a generation. And, second, Washington was telling the world that there was to be inflation, at least to restore prices to pre-depression levels.

The crop shortage has materialized, but a new element of uncertainty has been injected into the market by the sudden and substantial rebound of the dollar. Instead of becoming cheaper, the dollar has been getting dearer, during the last two weeks.

* *

The sudden cessation of talk in Washington about inflation is attributed to two things—desire of the administration to make a success of the current offerings of 850 millions of government bonds and its desire to get the controversial wage features of the national recovery plan settled satisfactorily.

If it were made to appear that inflation was imminent buyers would be more inclined to shy at government bonds and workers might question the value to them of a $15 minimum wage.

For the near term, therefore, inflation does not seem to be in prospect. At least it appears to be sufficiently distant to be of no help in the day to day trading in the grain pits.

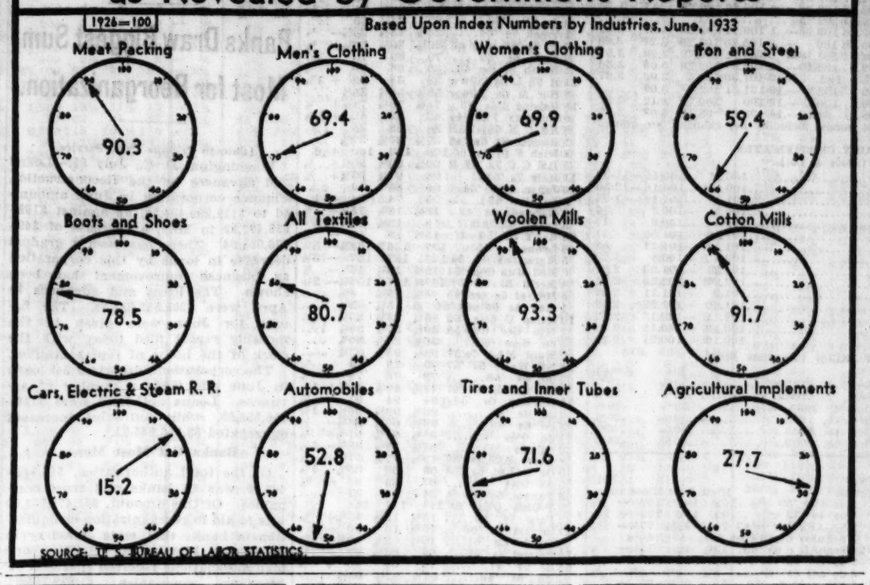
* *

Further ahead, however, inflation looms as a formidable factor. If the administration carries out any considerable portion of its 3 billion 300 million dollar public works program, the money will have to be raised by the sale of government bonds. This, together with the vast amount of refinancing to be done will force the treasury to sell so many bonds during the rest of the fiscal year that its current offerings totaling 850 millions will be made to look like pin money.

Experts doubt that the normal sources of credit can supply all the money to buy these bonds. If they are to be dumped into the federal reserve banks the currency is accordingly depreciated and inflation is on.

In the meantime the dollar bounces around aimlessly; prices of commodities measured in terms of dollars wobble in sympathy, and the public is uneasy and distrustful.

The Employment Status of Leading Industries as Revealed by Government Reports



Urge Tax on Rayon, Paper Like Cotton

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 31.—[Special.]—Compensatory taxes of 4.2 a pound on paper articles coming in competition with cotton products, and 8.4 cents a pound on rayon were urged today by S. Robert Glassford of New York on behalf of the Cotton Textile institute, at a hearing before the agricultural adjustment administration.

The cotton processing tax of 4.2 cents a pound went into effect at midnight tonight. Through its application during the next 12 months, the administration hopes to raise a fund of $120,000,000 with which to pay farmers for the 3,500,000 bales of cotton they agreed to plow under in conformity with the adjustment program.

Hearing on Compensating Tax.

The hearing on the amount of the tax to be applied to products competing with cotton was attended by representatives of the jute, paper, rayon, silk, flax, and wool manufacturing industries. The compensatory tax on competing products is designed to prevent excessive shifts from the consumption of cotton products that might result from addition of the 4.2 cent tax on their manufacture.

In arguing that a tax of 8.4 cents per pound on rayon should be levied in order to prevent undue advantage to this fiber, Mr. Glassford asserted that since 1924 the costs of rayon indicated progress in the shift of rayon competition from silk to cotton. He stated that the price of rayon in 1924 was $1.82 per pound, whereas in 1933 it had declined to 50 cents per pound. He further argued that the labor factor in the processed commodity should be taken into consideration and asserted that the cost of the finished cotton product represented one-third cotton and two-thirds labor whereas the ratio has just the reverse for rayon in which the commodity cost was two-thirds the price of the finished product, and the labor one-third.

Rayon Maker Protests.

Opposing the suggestion of Mr. Glassford, Rufus W. Scott, of the Rayon Synthetic Yarn Manufacturers of New York asserted that the purpose of section 15-D of the act was only to prevent "excessive shifts" in consumption and not to disturb preexistent competitive situations.

Reports from textile centers today said several mills making cotton goods were closing for a time to permit taking inventory for the floor covering tax.

BANKING CREDIT LOWER DESPITE GAINS IN TRADE

Paradox Shows U. S. in Role of Banker.

Bank credit continued to shrink throughout the country last week in the face of continued reports of expanding trade. The largest single item in the credit contraction was the $75,000,000 reduction in security loans, which was accounted for largely by the New York banks. Commercial loans, however, also dropped off $18,000,000 in 90 leading clearing house cities after expanding for the last month. The paradox of expanding trade and declining bank credit shows the increasing importance of Uncle Sam in the rôle of banker. Expanding business is resulting from the pushing of government financed projects.

Figures Lose Significance.

Thus the figures on banking credit lose some of their old time significance as a trade index. The government has supplanted the commercial banks, temporarily at least, as the country's credit reservoir. And the government's financial operations are not reflected in the statements of member banks.

Demand balances continued to decline last week, dropping another $69,000,000 as depositors sought to employ funds profitably. Time deposits were down $9,000,000.

Comparisons Are Given.

Dollar Moves Higher During Erratic Day

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 31.—After a day of erratic fluctuations the American dollar closed above its last week's quotations in terms of the principal foreign currencies today. Measured in French gold francs it was worth 74.20 cents at the close of the trading, as compared with 73.96 cents on Saturday. A month ago the dollar was worth 79.27 cents in terms of French gold.

The dollar-pound ratio changed frequently during the day, but at the close the dollar was worth slightly more in terms of sterling. Sterling closed at $4.48, as compared with $4.48⅛ at the end of last week. The market was extremely erratic with the pound at one time selling at $4.64, 12 cents above Saturday's close.

Inflation Talk Quiets.

The comparative stability of the dollar in the foreign exchange market follows Washington administration's change in front on inflation. Temporarily, at least, inflation is taking a back seat as a recovery stimulant while the administration is attempting to bring about a better adjustment between purchasing power and inflated prices. The further operations of the British in refinancing its dollar loan also contributes to the strength of American money.

The seasonal export business favors the dollar, and the increased confidence at home over the internal recovery program is said to have checked the "flight of capital."

Sterling, Francs in Supply.

There appeared to be a plentiful supply of sterling and francs in the market today, with demand for these currencies considerably lessened.

Dealers here look for further strength in the dollar, with the autumn trade favoring this country, and the administration apparently loath to use the inflation needle again until price and purchasing power equilibrium is established.

WM. WRIGLEY CO. LIFTS DIVIDEND TO OFFSET TAX

Directors of the William Wrigley Jr. company yesterday declared four monthly dividends of 26 30-95 cents each, thus insuring stockholders the same return as under the old 25 cent rate. The increase in the rate provides for the new federal dividend tax, which is payable at the source. The tax applies to all stockholders of domestic corporations.

The dividends are payable Sept. 1, Oct. 2, Nov. 1, an dDec. 1 to stockholders of record of the 20th of the preceding months. To win exemption from the excise tax, corporations holding stocks must file applications with the treasury department on the 25th day of each month prior to the dividend payment.

Merchandise Mart Shows Draw Nearly 200 Buyers

Nearly 200 buyers from 26 states registered yesterday at the Merchandise mart with the opening of several trade expositions. Among the market events opening were the glasswear, china, and pottery exposition, the Chicago gift show, and the housefurnishing and electrical appliance exhibit.

STOCKS DECLINE ON RETURN TO FIVE HOUR DAY

Rally Near the Close Clips Losses.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 31.—Stocks had little resilence left today after their rebound from the big tumble of a week ago. The active list was heavy throughout the regulation five hour session and closed with net recessions of as much as 8 points in some cases.

In late deals, however, some semblance of support came into the market, enabling the list to finish somewhat above bottom levels. The windup rally came at a point when the general body of stocks had declined to a level very near the lows of July 21, the low-ebb day of the last precipitate break.

Resumption of the full length trading schedule resulted in a hardly noticeable increase in activity, the turnover totaling only 3,090,000 shares.

Lack of Buying Evident.

Stock weakness appeared to be less the result of high pressure liquidation that characterized the earlier break than the absence of buyers willing to play for an advance. With the public still nursing the bumps received when the blanket was shaken so roughly the bulk of today's transactions was carried on largely by professionals working for the weal of individual accounts, the pools having withdrawn.

Only meager demand on a scale down was in evidence before leading issues came within striking distance of the lows for the break. If precedent means anything, the setback was regarded broadly as taking the form of a much heralded secondary reaction.

Thin Markets Are Rule.

Thin markets ruled all sections of the share list. Some commentators laid the apathy of speculators for the rise to the wrangling in Washington among the industrial moguls over Mr. Roosevelt's code scheme of doing things. At the same time there was the influence of reports suggesting that the administration has decided to forego its plans for possible currency inflation. Inasmuch as the prospect of currency debasement had been a potent factor in conversion of cash into securities, it was a logical assumption that reports of the foregoing nature might tend to draw speculators and investors alike to the sidelines.

At any rate weakness characterized all stocks for much the greater part of the day. Steel common dropped below 50 for a loss of 4 or 5 points at bottom. Allied Chemical was off nearly 10 and recessions of 2 to 5 points were common among the erstwhile industrial leaders.

The fall in wheat and cotton prices had the usual effect on stocks of farm machinery companies and mail order houses.

RAILWAYS MAKE CHEAPER FARES FOR NORTHWEST

Coach and tourist car fares are being reduced to 2 cents a mile today by railroads operating in the northwest for travel west of St. Paul. It was intimated in Chicago railroad circles yesterday that the action ultimately may lead to adoption of similar rates in other sections of the country.

The Great Northern announced some time ago that it was putting this rate into effect to meet the competition of buses and private automobiles. Its action was followed by the Northern Pacific. The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, and Palific, the Soo line and the Chicago and North Western, in certain territory, are following suit.

The new rates will be effective between St. Paul and most intermediate points throughout the northwest.

CHICAGO RYS. TO PAY 5% ON BOND PRINCIPAL TODAY

As a result of a 5 per cent payment to be made today by the Chicago Railways company against principal on the certificates of deposit for its 5 per cent bonds, due Feb. 1, 1927, the New York Stock Exchange yesterday announced that on and after today the certificates shall be dealt in as 25 per cent redeemed.

The five per cent payment is to be made upon surrender of certificates of deposit for endorsement.

850 Millions of U. S. Issues Sold in Day

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 31.—The government's current offering of 850 million dollars in treasury bonds and notes has been oversubscribed in one day by the investing public and banks, the treasury announced tonight.

Subscription books, which opened this morning for the treasury's first bond issue in two years, amounting to half a billion dollars, were closed by the department tonight. Only subscriptions up to $10,000 or those for which payment is to be made in treasury certificates maturing within the next two months, were left open.

Books for the 350 million dollars issue of two year notes, which was offered concurrently with the bonds, were also closed by the department tonight.

Announce Allotments Soon.

The amount of subscriptions received for the two offerings, together with allotment of the issues, is expected to be announced shortly by the treasury.

Acting Secretary of the Treasury Dean G. Acheson tonight expressed gratification at the manner in which the investing public greeted the opportunity to purchase new federal securities.

"The issue went very well," he said, "just as it should go and much better than I thought it would go."

Much of the two treasury certificate issues aggregating 920 million dollars, which mature Aug. 15 and Sept. 15, is being offered in exchange for the new bond issue, Acheson said tonight. This response to the treasury's first attempt at a conversion loan probably makes certain the fact that other similar refunding operations will be carried on in the near future.

Treasury Bills Oversubscribed.

Subscriptions for the $60,000,000 of 91 day treasury bills offered last week totaled $201,409,000, Acheson also announced. These bills bear no interest and are sold at a discount. The average price received for them was 99.913, which affords a yield of about .35 per cent per annum.

CHICAGO BANKS ASK RESERVE TO INTERPRET CODE

Chicago clearing house banks yesterday decided to refer to the federal reserve board at Washington the question of their participation in the President's national recovery agreement.

"We are willing and anxious to go along with the recovery plan," said Frank R. Elliott, president of the Chicago Clearing House association, "but we must be sure before we take any new step that we are obeying the mandates of the federal reserve board, which, under the new banking act, has great powers over the actions of member banks."

Reserve authorities in Washington yesterday were reported to be in conference with members of Gen. Johnson's national industrial recovery administration staff on the matter of banks' participation in the NRA.

Some Chicago bankers argue that a separate code will be necessary for banks. Night watchmen, for example, could not be put on an eight hour day without opening up banks in the middle of the night to change shifts, these officials assert. Tellers, too, must work overtime when they have made mistakes.

CHRYSLER NETS $1.80 PER SHARE IN 2D QUARTER

Special Dividend of 50 Cents Voted.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 31.—The Chrysler corporation and subsidiary companies today announced a net profit of $7,785,616, or $1.80 a share on the capital stock, for the second quarter of 1933, comparing with a net loss of $3,038,802 in the first quarter and with a net profit of $1,185,052, or 27 cents a share, earned in the second quarter of 1932.

WALTER P. CHRYSLER.

For the first half of 1933, therefore, the company had a net income of $4,592,564. 4,392 shares are outstanding. This compares with a net loss of $880,432 sustained in the same period of 1932.

Pay 50 Cent Dividend.

A special dividend of 50 cents a share was declared by the board of directors of the company yesterday on the strength of the second quarter results. The dividend will be payable on Sept. 15 to stock of record on Aug. 15. The last previous dividend of the company was a 25 cent quarterly dividend, paid on Dec. 31, 1932. The passing of the dividend for the first quarter of 1933 terminated an unbroken record of payments since April, 1926. The annual rate was reduced to a $1 basis in the last quarter of 1930 from $3 a year previously paid on each share.

Cash and marketable securities held by the company and subsidiaries on July 30 amounted to $55,247,189, comparing with $53,761,136 a year before, the increase being nearly $1,500,000. Total current assets were $85,935,285, against $76,455,874, and current liabilities were $28,776,047, comparing with $10,821,762 on June 30, 1932.

Sales Well Over 1932.

Total sales in the first half of 1933 amounted to $114,771,203, comparing with $90,098,745 in the 1932 period. Sales in the first quarters were $33,059,489, against $37,368,443, and in the second quarters were $81,711,714, against $62,730,302.

The second quarter business this year was 147 per cent better than in the first quarter, comparing with a seasonal increase of only 68 per cent in the second quarter of 1932 over the first quarter of that year.

The statement shows federal taxes of $920,317 for the first half of 1933, comparing with only $64,165 federal taxes paid in the corresponding period last year.

Walter P. Chrysler, president, says in his report that the earnings and balance sheet "give further indication of the practical effects of the conservative financing policies pursued by the corporation all through the depression in anticipation of business improvement, which now seems to be on the way."

Nat. Distillers Products Earnings Rise This Year

New York, July 31.—(AP)—National Distillers Products corporation and subsidiaries report for the six months ended June 30 net profit of $476,348, equal after dividend requirements on the preferred stock to 80 cents a share on the common. This compares with $291,931, or 29 cents a common share, in the first half of 1932.

Federal Life Insurance Bids for New U. S. Bonds

The Federal Life Insurance company yesterday subscribed for $150,000 of the new 3¼ per cent treasury bonds of 1941, now being offered by the treasury, Isaac Miller Hamilton, president, announced.

REBATE GRANTED TO BUYERS OF BREWERY STOCK

A reduction to $4 a share in the offering price on the issue of 100,000 shares of preference stock of the Old Vincennes Brewery, Inc., was announced yesterday by McFayden & Co.

The house originally brought the issue out at prices ranging from $4.50 to $4.75 a share. Persons who paid the latter prices will be given additional stock to bring their average price down to $4 a share. The investment firm paid $3 a share for the stock. Expense of distribution brought the cost to $3.50 a share.

New York, July 31.—Government bonds were soft today, despite the favorable reception of the billion dollar refinancing program, and led the market downward. Some of the speculative favorites fell as much as 4 points.

The majority of treasury long term bond issues dropped about ¼ point or more. An exception to the reactionary tendency was found in the September 1¼ per cent notes, which are given the privilege of full exchange allotments on the new 3¼ per cent eight year bond issue.

Premium on New Bonds.

This issue of notes rallied about 10-32, foreshadowing a good premium on the bonds when trading in them is begun.

Domestic corporation bonds followed the reactionary stock market with an abrupt slump, which was most acute in the rail section. Industrial and utility obligations, however, followed suit with smaller losses.

Alleghany corporation 5s, Baltimore and Ohio convertible 4½s, St. Paul adjustment 5s, Chicago and North Western 4½s, Rock Island refunding 4s, Erie refunding 5s, Illinois Central 4s, and others dropped from 1 to 4 points in desultory trading.

Industrials Drift Lower.

Industrial bonds were particularly soft, having scored large gains on the recent upswing of the bond market. Losses here included American Metal 5½s, Colorado Industrial 5s and Goodrich 6s.

Foreign bonds moved erratically, with high grades influenced by the gyrations of the dollar in terms of European gold currencies. French governments, for instance, rallied in early trading, but sagged in later dealings.

Argentine bonds recovered from their unbroken decline with gains of 2 to more than 4 points.

Safeway Stores, Inc.

Investors' Guide: Will you please give me a report on common stock of Safeway Stores? You have very kindly reported on other stocks and your information is most helpful.—B. H.

Answer: Safeway Stores, Inc., the second largest grocery chain store system in this country, operates mostly west of the Mississippi river.

Expansion prior to 1932 was rapid. Number of stores in operation increased from 209 in 1923 to 3,527 at the close of 1931. Since then the company has been liminating unprofitable units. On June 17, 1933, there were 3,315 stores in operation.

Net sales increased steadily through 1931. Since then lower prices, fewer stores and restricted consumer purchasing power have resulted in a downward trend. So far in 1933 the decrease in sales in comparison with 1932 has been steadily narrowing. Sales for the 28 weeks to July 15, 1933, were 9.9 per cent under the corresponding 1932 period, but for the four weeks to July 15 there was a gain of 2.6 per cent.

The contraction of the spread between 1933 and 1932 sales appears to be due to more stable commodity prices and increases in sales volume.

Net income for 1932 totaled $4,248,000, or $4.04 per common share, against $5,863,000, or $6.17 per common share, for 1931. Net for 1930 equaled $4.81 per common share, against $8.67 for 1929.

At the close of 1932 current assets totaled $26,099,000 and current liabilities were $4,818,000.

Long term debt is nominal and subsidiary preferred stocks amount to $136,000. There are outstanding 93,635 shares of 7 per cent $100 preferred and 58,330 shares of 6 per cent $100 par preferred. Both classes have equal preference over the 799,628 shares of no par common.

The common pays 75 cents a quarter.

The company has consolidated its position. Although competition promises to be somewhat keener than in the past, it is well intrenched and should feel the effect of any increased consumer purchasing power. Carrying an inventory of about twenty millions, increases in commodity prices should be reflected in increased profits.

United Molasses Co., Ltd.

Investors' Guide: What is the significance of the "Ltd." after the name of United Molasses company?—Mrs. K. A.

Answer: United Molasses company, Ltd., was registered [incorporated] in England. In accordance with English law, the term "Ltd.", an abbreviation of limited, was added to indicate that the stockholders have no liability beyond the amount already invested in the company. This corresponds to the American expression "incorporated."

HOGS DROP ANEW AS GRAIN, LARD PRICES DECLINE

Heavy Animals Lose Most —Cattle Also Weak.

Falling grain and lard prices, coupled with cautious buying by packing houses, knocked the props from under the hog market again yesterday after light receipts and a higher wholesale trade for lightweight loins had influenced a slightly higher opening.

Prices ruled strong to 10 cents higher in the better grades of light and medium weights, but big hogs continued to drag and at the close the undependable outlet for "lard" type swine had a weakening effect on top grades. All classes at the close were back to the lowest point of last week and unevenly 10 to 25 cents lower than on last Friday. Top sales of 210 to 240 pound butchers at $4.70 were 15 cents over Saturday's high mark, but showed 5 cents loss compared with last Friday.

Receipts Are Light.

The general average for the day at $4.30, compared with $4.25 Saturday and with $4.40 Friday. Chicago receipts were estimated at 26,000, the smallest run for a Monday since May 8. Only three Monday totals have been lighter this year. Actual arrivals a week ago were 36,323 and three weeks ago the run was 47,448.

Lightweight pork loins moved up another cent in a surprisingly buoyant trade, considering the sweltering heat. Heavy loins were influenced more by the weather and continued to drag at 6 to 7 cents, as low as at any time last week. Top lightweights reached 11 cents per pound.

A decidedly two way trade developed in cattle yesterday, in which a small contingent of highly finished steers and yearlings met a fair call at strong to slightly higher prices.

Cattle Average Lower.

The bulk of receipts had to be peddled out on a "catch as catch can" trade that closed 15 to 25 cents under the average market at the close of last week. Only the fact that top grades of cattle were exceptionally scarce kept buyers interested in the better grades, the proportion selling at the advance being too small to cut much figure in the general trade.

Two carloads of long yearlings averaging 1,131 pounds sold to Swift at $7.40, within 20 cents of the year's peak, while 1,313 to 1,410 pound heavies reached $7.25 to $7.35. Prime 1,553 pound averages brought $7.10. The decline in plainer classes of steers drove a bigger share of the supply below the $5 line yesterday, the bulk selling at $4.75 to $6.75, against $5.50 to $7.00 at the high point of last week.

Supply and demand about balanced in the lamb market yesterday and prices held in line with the close of last week. Closely sorted strongweight natives were sold at $8.00 to $8.25, while "tops" from the range lambs cashed at $8.10 and $8.15, the "seconds" selling for slaughter at $6.25. Old ewes were firm at $3.00.

COTTON DROPS $2.50 A BALE ON SELLING

Cotton was under pressure a good part of the day, opening at a fair advance, but closing around the lowest, at net losses on spots of 10 points in leading markets, New York and Boston being at the 10 cent level, with losses on futures 46 to 51 points. In Chicago futures dropped 38 to 46 points. Spots in Galveston were 9.85 and Houston 9.90. There were a few rallies, but the market seemed to have a heavy tone.
